Kids and Cops Have Great Time Together at FOP-FOPA Christmas Party

SHY TYPE--In a crowd this young fellow probably was one of the happiest children at the party, but when it came to meeting a police officer face-to-face, he showed a certain concern. Patrolman Simon White Jr. gives the reticent guest an orange.

JAM-PACKED--Children had a ball waiting to talk to Santa Claus, but to the harassed parents it was just about like shopping on Christmas Eve.

WHERE'S MOMMY?--Patrolman Charles Long may look like Santa Claus to people in need but this little girl evidently had everything she needed at the FOP and FOPA Christmas Party Saturday and wasn't having anything to do with him. Long was one of 10 officers present at the party to meet and talk with the county's children.

SERIOUS BUSINESS--Detailing a list of what a person wants for Christmas is a serious problem for a young man as this boys' facial expression indicates. He is reeling off the memorized catalogue of soldiers, ray guns, boats, wagons, etc.

More than 300 city and county children put in a personal word to Santa Claus about what they want for Christmas and got a chance to meet the city's protectors of the peace at the first annual FOP and FOPA Christmas Party Saturday afternoon.

First through sixth graders in both school systems in the county talked with Kris Kringle about their Christmas expectations and then filed past him and received candy, apples and oranges from 10 Washington C. H. policemen and six associates.

THE PRESENTS were bought with money from donations and proceeds from the first annual Policeman's Ball, held Dec. 6.

The groups had supplies for a crowd of 1,000 children and had about two-thirds of the presents left over.

After the party, members went around to Memorial Hospital, the county Children's Home, the House of Prayer, the All Nations Church of Christ, and the Christian Holiness Church and dropped off the rest of the gifts.

Fayette County Man Choice for $10,000 Post

Elyria's Mayor Named To Oversee Highway Safety

Robert H. Terhune, well known Fayette County farm operator and former president of the Washington C. H. Chamber of Commerce has been named Ohio's director of agriculture by Gov.-elect Michael V. DiSalle, it was announced Monday.

The appointment of Terhune, who lives at 922 Lincoln Dr., was the second cabinet choice announced by DiSalle in two days. It was disclosed Sunday that Grant Keys, mayor of Elyria, is to be the state's new highway safety director.

As chief of the Department of Agriculture, Terhune, who also is a member of the Washington C. H. Board of Education which he formerly served as president, will receive $10,000 a year.

The director of agriculture oversees Ohio's fairs in addition to many other responsibilities.

TERHUNE had received the endorsement of the Fayette County Democratic Executive Committee for the state post.

Executive Chairman Robert S. Wise told The Record-Herald Monday that "we are, of course, very happy to see Fayette County represented in the DiSalle cabinet. It has been a long time since the county has been accorded such important recognition."

ROBERT H. TERHUNE

While Terhune has been a Democrate for many years, he has never been "in politics" in the general acceptance of the term. His only candidacy for office was in the non-partisan school board election.

U.S. Talking Moon To Get New Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — Earthmen were ready today for more two-way radio contacts with the mighty Atlas missile-satellite now in its fourth day of hurtling about the globe.

Radio contacts are attempted when the nearly 4½-ton satellite reaches a favorable position in relation to four sending and receiving stations in the United States.

Over the weekend a number of voice and radio-teletypewriter messages were transmitted to the fast-traveling satellite, and relayed back to posts in California, Georgia, Texas and Arizona.

Most of the words that flashed back and forth were those of President Eisenhower wishing, in this Christmas season "peace on earth and good will toward men everywhere." This was the message sent up with the Atlas in recorded form, then erased by remote control and sent again.

Barreling along at 17,000 miles an hour, the 85-foot Atlas is orbiting the earth in an egg-shaped flight pattern. After it was launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla., Thursday night, scientists said the satellite had a life expectancy of about 20 days.

In its first few days aloft, American scientists have conducted a number of communications tests they said could lead to such futuristic developments as space-relayed television and globe-spinning military communications.

The weekend tests involved (1) relaying Eisenhower's vice-recorded "peace on earth" message, (2) relaying — in coded form — that message and another by radio teletypewriter, and (3) leaving the messages in the satellite's tape recorded for a while before triggering their transmission to ground stations.

Sunday afternoon, a station at Ft. Stewart, Ga., sent out seven teletypewriter messages simultaneously to the Atlas. All seven messages carried Eisenhower's words. Then, on radio command, all seven were returned from the satellite simultaneously.

The seven-message test also was run, with variations, by ground stations at Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., and near Los Angeles.

The weekend also brought publication of a report in which the House Space Committee's staff spoke of the danger that unheralded satellite firings could cause somebody with a nervous trigger finger to set off a nuclear-missile war. The report suggested a requirement for advance filing of satellite flight plans.

The document was prepared before the Atlas launching—whose orbital purpose had been kept a tight secret. But George J. Feldman, staff director for the Space Committe, said the launching gives the report immediacy.

Teacher's Yawn Proves Painful

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — James L. Cockrell, 24, stretched so prodigiously in yawning that he dislocated his right shoulder and had to be hospitalized.

The yawn came while Cockrell was attending a class in consumer education at Long Beach State College. Cockrell is a teacher, himself.

Dead Nurse's Mother-in-Law Hired Killers, Laborer Says

VENTURA, Calif. (AP)—Police fitted in the pieces today of a plot they said led to the brutal killing of attractive Olga Duncan, whose bruised body was found in a shallow grave beside a lonely road.

An itinerant laborer, with a local police record, climaxed his tale of what he said was a hired slaying by leading officers Sunday to her hand-scooped grave.

Augustine Baldonado, 25, said in a statement that the dead woman's mother-in-law, Mrs. Elizabeth Duncan, 54, hired him and Luis Moya, 22, to kill five-months-pregnant Olga Duncan, 30, for $6,000.

Investigators said the victim may have been buried alive. They quoted Baldonado: "I don't know. We strangled her, and I think we killed her before we put her in the ground."

The victim, a surgical nurse, had been missing since Nov. 18. She was the estranged wife of Santa Barbara lawyer Frank Duncan. They separated only two weeks after their marriage last June.

Dist. Atty. Roy Gustafson said jealousy of the older woman was the major motive.

Less than four months before her death, the dead woman had written her mother, Mrs. Jessie Kupczyk of Benito, Manitoba, that Mrs. Duncan held "an uncanny hold" over her son. She said she planned an annulment.

"Don't dwell on my troubles," Olga Duncan wrote. "Life is short, and I want to enjoy the rest of it."

Moya, who has denied knowledge of the slaying, was described by Santa Barbara Sheriff John Ross as badly shaken upon learning of Baldonado's statement.

Mrs. Duncan, too, has insisted she knows nothing of her daughter-in-law's disappearance.

Police say Mrs. Duncan has been married five times in eight years. She is charged with posing in court here as her son's wife, along with a paid confederate, to obtain a fraudulent annulment of her son's marriage last August.

It was the discovery of the spurious annulment, authorities say, that caused them to begin an intensive search for the missing daughter-in-law.

Charges are on file at Santa Barbara accusing Mrs. Duncan, Moya and Baldonado of conspiring to kidnap and murder Olga Duncan. They are held in lieu of $100,000 bail apiece.

Police, led by Baldonado, found the body of the nurse, clothed only in a nylon bathrobe, buried at the bottom of a 20-foot embankment on Casitas Pass, 19 miles northwest of Ventura.

Gustafson quoted Baldonado as saying he and Moya took turns holding the struggling woman while the other dug the 16-inch-deep grave.

$95 Million in Aid Granted to Yugoslavia

BELGRADE (AP)—The United States today signed an agreement with Yugoslavia granting this Communist country nearly 95 million dollars U.S. economic aid.

The agreement was signed by U. S. Ambassador Karl Rankin and Dep. Foreign Minister Bogdan Crnobrnja.

The United States during fiscal year 1958-59 will deliver about 900,000 tons of wheat, 27,000 tons of cotton, 30,000 tons of edible oil and 10,000 tons of beans from agricultural surpluses.

Yugoslavia will pay in dinars, the local currency, into a counterpart fund. About 69 million dollars of the fund will be made available to Yugoslavia as a 30-year loan for development of industry, mining, transport and agriculture.

Goldfine Sentenced To 3 Months in Jail

BOSTON (AP) — Federal Judge Charles E. Wyzanski Jr. sentenced New England industrialist Bernard Goldfine to three months in jail today for contempt of court in failing to turn over company records in a tax probe.

Miss Mildred Paperman his secretary for many years, was given 10 days in jail. Sentences will start Jan. 7. Both were released in personal recognizance of $1,000.

Their convictions were handed down Friday by Judge Wyzanski.

Judge Wyzanski told Goldfine: "I have no wish that you spend this season in jail and I wish to give you adequate opportunity to present this case to the court of appeals."

A look of dismay crossed the 67-year-old Goldfine's face. Miss Paperman sagged a bit as the judge passed sentence.

Judge Wyzanski said he based his decision on the fact that Goldfine and Miss Paperman were "intimate with tribunal proceedings and were well aware of the penalties for flouting the authority of his court."

Goldfine, gift-giving friend of former presidential aide Sherman Adams, and Miss Paperman were convicted of criminal contempt. Civil contempt charges were dismissed.

U.S. Atty. Anthony Julian had recommended that Goldfine be given six months prison sentence and fined $10,000. He recommended a two-month term for Miss Paperman.

The sentences are to be served at a prison to be selected by the U.S. attorney general.

In another court action, Goldfine and other officers of the East Boston Co., a realty concern, were to answer to civil contempt charges brought by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The SEC charged that the company failed to file reports with the commission and the Boston Stock Exchange.

Goldfine also is involved in a third contempt case. He pleaded innocent last Friday to a contempt of Congress charge in connection with his alleged failure to answer questions about his financial affairs before a congressional subcommittee last summer.

Goldfine is due to go on trial in the Washington case March 16.

Jaycees Ready To Judge Home Lights Tonight

Washington C. H. will be aglow with the Christmas spirit Monday night when homes throughout the city are judged for their Yuletide decorations.

The home decoration contest, sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, follows very much the same pattern as that of pervious years.

While scores of homes will be bright with Christmas decorations, many of them were not dressed up especially for the contest.

There will be prizes for ward winners as well as a grand prize for the best in the city.

Four teams of Jaycees will judge the decorations tonight. They are to meet at 9:15 p. m. and each team will start out then to cover street by street, one of the four wards.

After an hour touring the wards, the judges are to return to their meeting place and then go together to look over the outstanding homes.

18 Columbus 'Blue Law' Cases Await Prosecution

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Police Prosecutor Bernard Chapka laid plans today for charging operators and clerks in 18 Columbus business places with violating the Sunday sales "blue laws."

Police cited the business establishments Sunday, ordering the operators and clerks to report to the police prosecutor's office.

Four special police squads, each accompanied by an attorney from the prosecutor's office, delivered the citations as part of Mayor Maynard Sensenbrenner's campaign to crack down on Sunday store operations here.

The "blue law" violations call for a penalty of $25 fine for the first offense and a maximum of 30 days in jail and $100 fine for a second offense.

Stores that remain closed on Saturday in observance of the Sabbath may open Sunday under the Sunday sales laws

Loss on Farm Seen for 1959

Surpluses May Erase This Year's Gains

By OVID MARTIN
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)— Farmers produced a record-breaking volume of commodities in 1958 to help boost their income 20 per cent over the previous year's relatively low level.

But in doing so they laid the groundwork for a possible reversal in their returns in 1959.

Long a plague of producers, surpluses of some products climbed to new peaks, foreshadowing possible lower prices during the new year.

In a remarkable display of agriculture's technological advance, crop production climbed 11 per cent above the previous record set in 1948 and matched in 1956 and 1957. This was accomplished on an acreage reduced rather sharply by federal planting controls and a soil bank land retirement program.

The year also brought expansions in livestock production—expansions that may have set the stage for later oversupplies and distress prices.

With agriculture far from stability, it was not surprising that controversies continued over government farm policies. As was the case in other recent years, the Eisenhower administration's secretary of agriculture—Ezra Taft Benson—was the center of this fight.

Agriculture Department economists predict farm income will dip 5 to 10 per cent in 1959. They expect farm prices as a whole to decline. Government payments will be smaller. Farm productoin costs are expected to continue a long upturn that will eat deeper into receipts.

On the other hand, the upward trend in income of farm people from nonfarm sources, interrupted by the 1958 recession, will likely be resumed in 1959.

Gunwoman Wears Veil for Holdup Of Marietta Cafe

MARIETTA, Ohio (AP) — A woman wearing a blue lace veil robbed a drive-in restaurant at gun point early today a state highway patrolman arrested her a short time later.

Sheriff Dean Ellis said he would file armed robbery charges against the woman. She gave her name at Washington County jail as Mrs. Mary E. Siegfried of various Cleveland addresses. She said she was the mother of eight children.

Ellis said the holdup with a .22 caliber revolver occurred about 2:30 a. m. at Ed's Drive-in on Ohio 7, about four miles south of here. The veiled gunwoman told waitress Evelyn Rinard to put all the bills from the cash register in a cloth sack. The waitress said the loot totaled $105.

Stock Mart Moderately Lower Today

NEW YORK (AP) — Oils were jolted by news Venezuela is boosting tax and royalty payments of oil companies operating there. The stock market was moderately lower in active trading early this afternoon.

Gains and losses of leading issues went from fractions to about two points as prices slipped irregularly.

Oil shares backed away on the Venezuela tax increase on oil revenues to 60 per cent from 50. Creole Petroleum, subsidiary of Standard Oil (New Jersey), is most deeply involved in Venezuela and fell more than two points on the American Stock Exchange. Jersey Standard dropped more than a point.

Royal Dutch and Gulf Oil fell more than a point each. Continental Oil, a domestic producer, jumped more than a point.

An increase in yearend tax transactions brought considerable selling and switching, brokers said. At the same time, advisory service recommendations brought demand to selected issues.

Polaroid was off more than four and Zenith advanced about five.

American Telephone dropped two points and U.S. Steel was off about two.

Rhem was ahead about two. General Dynamics rose more than a point. Goodrich added about two.

Losses of around a point or more were taken by Lorillard, Raytheon, Douglas Aircraft, Anaconda, Kennecott, American Cyanamid and Westinghouse Electric.

U.S. government bonds continued a downside trend.

New Japanese Palace To Cost only $27.77

TOKYO (AP) — The Japanese government is going to pay only $27.77 for the concrete work on Crown Prince Akihito's new palace, a job estimated to cost $200,000.

The contract was awarded today to the Hazama Construction Co. An official of the firm said the bid had been figured at next to nothing "because our firm has long wanted to be of some service to the imperial family."

The new palace will be a two-story reinforced concrete structure with 45 rooms.

Loss on Farm Seen for 1959

Surpluses May Erase This Year's Gains

By OVID MARTIN
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)— Farmers produced a record-breaking volume of commodities in 1958 to help boost their income 20 per cent over the previous year's relatively low level.

But in doing so they laid the groundwork for a possible reversal in their returns in 1959.

Long a plague of producers, surpluses of some products climbed to new peaks, foreshadowing possible lower prices during the new year.

In a remarkable display of agriculture's technological advance, crop production climbed 11 per cent above the previous record set in 1948 and matched in 1956 and 1957. This was accomplished on an acreage reduced rather sharply by federal planting controls and a soil bank land retirement program.

The year also brought expansions in livestock production—expansions that may have set the stage for later oversupplies and distress prices.

With agriculture far from stability, it was not surprising that controversies continued over government farm policies. As was the case in other recent years, the Eisenhower administration's secretary of agriculture—Ezra Taft Benson—was the center of this fight.

Agriculture Department economists predict farm income will dip 5 to 10 per cent in 1959. They expect farm prices as a whole to decline. Government payments will be smaller. Farm productoin costs are expected to continue a long upturn that will eat deeper into receipts.

On the other hand, the upward trend in income of farm people from nonfarm sources, interrupted by the 1958 recession, will likely be resumed in 1959.

Gunwoman Wears Veil for Holdup Of Marietta Cafe

MARIETTA, Ohio (AP) — A woman wearing a blue lace veil robbed a drive-in restaurant at gun point early today a state highway patrolman arrested her a short time later.

Sheriff Dean Ellis said he would file armed robbery charges against the woman. She gave her name at Washington County jail as Mrs. Mary E. Siegfried of various Cleveland addresses. She said she was the mother of eight children.

Ellis said the holdup with a .22 caliber revolver occurred about 2:30 a. m. at Ed's Drive-in on Ohio 7, about four miles south of here. The veiled gunwoman told waitress Evelyn Rinard to put all the bills from the cash register in a cloth sack. The waitress said the loot totaled $105.

Scientists clam that several species of whales restrict their activity exclusively to the Arctic and temperate zone regions.

Stock Mart Moderately Lower Today

NEW YORK (AP) — Oils were jolted by news Venezuela is boosting tax and royalty payments of oil companies operating there. The stock market was moderately lower in active trading early this afternoon.

Gains and losses of leading issues went from fractions to about two points as prices slipped irregularly.

Oil shares backed away on the Venezuela tax increase on oil revenues to 60 per cent from 50. Creole Petroleum, subsidiary of Standard Oil (New Jersey), is most deeply involved in Venezuela and fell more than two points on the American Stock Exchange. Jersey Standard dropped more than a point.

Royal Dutch and Gulf Oil fell more than a point each. Continental Oil, a domestic producer, jumped more than a point.

An increase in yearend tax transactions brought considerable selling and switching, brokers said. At the same time, advisory service recommendations brought demand to selected issues.

Polaroid was off more than four and Zenith advanced about five.

American Telephone dropped two points and U.S. Steel was off about two.

Rhem was ahead about two. General Dynamics rose more than a point. Goodrich added about two.

Losses of around a point or more were taken by Lorillard, Raytheon, Douglas Aircraft, Anaconda, Kennecott, American Cyanamid and Westinghouse Electric.

U.S. government bonds continued a downside trend.

New Japanese Palace To Cost only $27.77

TOKYO (AP) — The Japanese government is going to pay only $27.77 for the concrete work on Crown Prince Akihito's new palace, a job estimated to cost $200,000.

The contract was awarded today to the Hazama Construction Co. An official of the firm said the bid had been figured at next to nothing "because our firm has long wanted to be of some service to the imperial family."

The new palace will be a two-story reinforced concrete structure with 45 rooms.

THE DRIVER IS STILL SHAKING—If Charles Ziebarth, 40, of Michigantown, Ind., had stepped out the left door of his trailer-truck cab instead of the right, his first step might have been his last. Following an accident with a car near Wabash, Ind., his semi-truck skidded out of control, coming to rest on the edge of an old stone quarry. The bottom of the old quarry is 80 feet straight down.

Town Meeting Principle Not Obsolete

Retail business people in Washington C. H. and elsewhere in Fayette County will, or should be, interested in a recommendation from the Employees Relation Committee of the American Retail Federation to aid in the general move nationally being urged toward keeping small business generally from being snowed under in legislation changes by pressure groups from other organizations.

It is contended that an all-out effort should be made to acquaint every congressman with the merits of the retailing people's position on the retail-service exemption to the Federal wage-hour law, and the need for legislation to correct abuses revealed by the Senate Labor Rackets Committee; also to take action in other matters with reference to state as well as national legislation which points toward business getting the worst of predicted future changes.

Implementing the recommendation, the Federation's head has written to all state retail association executives urging that they begin immediate plans for a meeting with each of the Congressmen in their state.

This move is perfectly in consonnance with the growing feeling among business leaders in many fields that businessmen have too long kept themselves removed from politics, and that it is high time they entered the political arena and made their views known, on a frank, direct and aboveboard basis.

So far as retailing is concerned, labor's political organizations will use all their influence in efforts to bring about repeal of the retail exemption, and to prevent the passage of effective legislation that would cure union abuses and special privileges. Labor has a right to do this. But the country certainly won't be served, and the institution of representative government will be sorely weakened, if one group on one side of controversial legislation is the only one to act effectively on behalf of its ideas.

Congressmen nowadays are deluged with proposed legislation. They can't possibly study more than a small part with care. They must depend to a large extent on the arguments and analyses of others in making up their minds, pro or con. All interested parties to legislation should understand that and act accordingly. The principle of the town meeting is not obsolete.

Spider Web Better than Steel

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

That the web of a spider, strand for strand, is stronger than if it were woven of filaments of steel of the same weight.

A survey among 2,500 men showed that 42.5 per cent preferred a cultural gift for Christmas, and 40 per cent wanted a bottle of liquor.

Furniture for Baby Is Very Special Gift

By Dr. DOROTHY WHIPPLE
AP NEWSFEATURES

Christmas is coming and if there are some aunts, uncles, grandparents around looking for ideas of what to give that new member of the family here are some ideas for them. They are going to be good-sized ideas not to be realized in the dime store — but you know that's a pretty important baby.

He probably has a crib, but if he hasn't quite arrived ye, maybe you can supply the crib. This is a first essential. It should be sturdy and strong and big enough to last a good two years and then be ready for the next member of the family.

A mattress is needed, so firm that no little nose can bury itself and cut off circulation of air.

Crib sheets of the contour variety are wonderful when the baby is old enough to tear his bed clothes off the bed.

The piece of furniture I'd put next in importance to a crib is a rocking chair. A nice big comfortable one with arms so that mother or dad can rest an elbow while they give those cozy rocks so much loved by both babe and parent.

If it were possible I'd build in a lullabye. What a baby misses who has never been rocked and sung to. Our jet age babies need this lovely experience as much as our primitive ancestor.

* * *

ANOTHER piece of essential furniture for a baby is a playpen. Get it or give it early, long before a baby can really move about. Even quite young babies enjoy a change of scenery. It's good to take a baby out of his crib and let him stretch and wiggle about in a safe place.

Before you know it he can turn over and even hunch himself about—before he is able to crawl. Put him unprotected on the floor and you are apt to find him mixed up with the electric light cord on the far side of the room.

It goes without saying that never should a baby even only weeks old be allowed on a high place—a bed, a table, a couch, without someone right there beside him every minute.

When a playpen is used for playing, the crib can be reserved for sleeping only. This helps the child accept the idea that when he is put into his crib he is expected to sleep.

* * *

A playpen is safe. Also the baby who becomes accustomed to peering at the world through its bars will accept this restriction happily for months, whereas the child who is put in a pen for the first time after he has discovered the joys of going places under his own steam will rebel mightily at the restriction.

Of course a playpen must not be used as a jail. A baby must be let out of it from time to time, but it's wonderful to have him happy in it for part of his waking hours.

Another useful item of furniture is a canvas chair in which the baby's back is well supported and in which he can bounce up and down.

Some such chairs are so arranged they can hang from the ceiling, others are supported on a stiff frame. Babies love them and they are safe in them. A baby cannot stay in such a chair as long as in a playpen, but they certainly provide a welcome change.

* * *

A FEEDING table is also a useful piece of furniture. The ones in which the baby sits on a special seat in the middle of the table are especially useful. These feeding tables are much safer than the old-fashioned high chair.

Not only can the baby be fed in such a piece of furniture but he can play there too for short periods. A baby needs plenty of opportunity to wiggle and move about so several pieces of furniture that provide safety and wiggling space are useful and welcome.

Ex-Mental Patient Slays His Father

CLEVELAND (AP)—A former mental hospital patient was called into Shaker Heights Municipal Court today for arraignment in the fatal shooting of his father, whom he blamed for a "nervous condition."

After he walked into central police station Saturday night and reported the killing, Norman Hills, 25, told detectives he had wanted to kill his father, Clifford J. Hills, 61, for four years.

Diet and Health — Check-up on Health Is Practical Gift

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

STILL have a couple of last-minute Christmas presents to get?

Well, let me give you a few suggestions.

Physical Checkup

How about giving those adults closest to you the benefit of a thorough physical checkup? Don't just give them the money to pay for it—it is too easily spent on something else—but call up their doctor and make an appointment.

Or, perhaps a complete cancer examination can be arranged. I have advised you previously what an examination such as this should include.

Now, I know you are saying to yourself: "What a silly present! Who would appreciate anything like that?"

No Better Gift

You know, you would be surprised. Can you think of a better gift than a clean bill of health? And what better way to determine that you are perfectly healthy—or that you need treatment — than by a good checkup?

Most of us just naturally put off going to a doctor, especially if there appears to be nothing wrong. Yet there is considerable relief, more peace of mind, when you know you are okay.

Hearing Aid

If there is someone hard of hearing on your gift list, how about arranging for a hearing aid? You can't order any specific model, of course, but you can provide the money and incentive for someone to arrange to get one which fits his needs.

For that matter, how about a set of contact lenses for someone who can use and wants them?

Practical Suggestions

These are very practical suggestions for gifts that will show how deeply you feel about those near and dear to you. These are gifts that are remembered when others are apt to be forgotten.

Of course we don't want to forget the kids. Any of the gifts I have mentioned are just as appropriate for children if the need and desire is present.

When Buying Toys

As for toys, answer these four questions before buying any.

1. Will the toy interest the child at his age and stage of development?
2. Will he enjoy it over a period of time?
3. Is it built of good material and sturdily constructed?
4. Is it free from dangerous elements?

Okay, now go ahead and complete your shopping.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

P. B.: I am in good health and acquire a good tan during the summer, but lose it during the winter. What would you advise?

Answer: Your tanning in summer and paling out in winter is a perfectly normal reaction to the amount of ultraviolet sunlight available during these seasons.

If you want a year-around tan without going to a tropical climate, a sun lamp may be used, providing it is used with care.

MIGHTIER THAN THE SWORD AT 90—Mrs. Bernie Babcock piles up 23 of the 25 books she has written and plans at the age of 90 to keep adding to the list of titles. Working in her home on Petit Jean Mountain, Ark., she says that she believes human greed is cause of the world's troubles. Mrs. Babcock admits that "fame is sweet," but that the accent should be on giving.

The Nation Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's letter to Santa Claus — if he were to write to Santa Claus at 68 — could go like this, since it isn't hard to guess what he has on his mind:

Dear Mr. Claus:

I have been living at my present address the past six years. It's a big white house on Pennsylvania Avenue. It has nine chimneys. So you should have no trouble finding me.

Since I have been here, I've done my best not to say anything mean to anyone. I know I do sound awful mad sometimes — about every two years, around election time—at some of the neighbors.

They're the Democrats, a very big family. Every once in a while they pick on me, especially at election time. Then they're real mean to me. And I get mad back. It doesn't last long.

Most of the time we get along nicely, but I'd appreciate it if you could bring them a big dose of something—like soothing syrup — so they'd always be nice to me. That would be a real good Christmas present. I can tell you why.

I have to live here another two years before the lease is up. And in that time I would like to be as happy as possible with a minimum of trouble. I would love to have some peace and quiet, if you have some to spare.

I know you're a very kind man but I just don't know how much influence you have. I sure wish you could use your influence on one person I have in mind.

He's a kind of roly-poly fat man with a bald head. He'd look like you if he had some hair and a white beard. To hear him talk, you'd think he was Santa Claus himself.

He's always promising to make things better for people. He's a real pushy type. He gets on my nerves. His name is Nikita Khrushchev.

Could you please put some sense in his head and get him to give up these crazy notions he has about communism being better than capitalism? I think things would get better right away. At least, I hope so.

I'd like some money, too, a lot of money. Not for myself. I'm getting along all right. But for the Treasury. We have a lot of expenses coming up next year and the Treasury needs money to pay for them.

I'm being called names — like Skimpy — because I'm trying to cut down on expenses.

I know it doesn't make any difference to you whether a child is white or Negro. And it never seems to make any difference to children, either, whether you just went down a white chimney or Negro chimney, so long as you come down theirs.

I could use some help on this. For four years, ever since the Supreme Court said no more racial segregation in the public schools, I have been having trouble with white people in the South who won't obey the court.

I think I'm going to keep on having trouble for the rest of my two years here unless something unusual happens. And I can't think what that might be. Do you have an answer?

There is certainly one other thing I'd like for Christmas. That's some kind of medicine to make my cousins, the Republicans big and strong again. They're beginning to look awful puny, no matter what I have tried to do for them.

They don't get along with the voters. The Democrats are forever picking on them. And they don't seem to know how to win elections any more.

Unless things get better fast we are going to be in bad shape when I leave here in 1961 and one of the cousins wants to take over the lease.

I hope I haven't asked for too much. But these are things that have me stumped. So all I am really asking is: do you have some stump removers?

Town Meeting Principle Not Obsolete

Retail business people in Washington C. H. and elsewhere in Fayette County will, or should be, interested in a recommendation from the Employees Relation Committee of the American Retail Federation to aid in the general move nationally being urged toward keeping small business generally from being snowed under in legislation changes by pressure groups from other organizations.

It is contended that an all-out effort should be made to acquaint every congressman with the merits of the retailing people's position on the retail-service exemption to the Federal wage-hour law, and the need for legislation to correct abuses revealed by the Senate Labor Rackets Committee; also to take action in other matters with reference to state as well as national legislation which points toward business getting the worst of predicted future changes.

Implementing the recommendation, the Federation's head has written to all state retail association executives urging that they begin immediate plans for a meeting with each of the Congressmen in their state.

This move is perfectly in consonnance with the growing feeling among business leaders in many fields that businessmen have too long kept themselves removed from politics, and that it is high time they entered the political arena and made their views known, on a frank, direct and aboveboard basis.

So far as retailing is concerned, labor's political organizations will use all their influence in efforts to bring about repeal of the retail exemption, and to prevent the passage of effective legislation that would cure union abuses and special privileges. Labor has a right to do this. But the country certainly won't be served, and the institution of representative government will be sorely weakened, if one group on one side of controversial legislation is the only one to act effectively on behalf of its ideas.

Congressmen nowadays are deluged with proposed legislation. They can't possibly study more than a small part with care. They must depend to a large extent on the arguments and analyses of others in making up their minds, pro or con. All interested parties to legislation should understand that and act accordingly. The principle of the town meeting is not obsolete.

Furniture for Baby Is Very Special Gift

AP NEWSFEATURES

Christmas is coming and if there are some aunts, uncles, grandparents around looking for ideas of what to give that new member of the family here are some ideas for them. They are going to be good-sized ideas not to be realized in the dime store — but you know that's a pretty important baby.

He probably has a crib, but if he hasn't quite arrived yet maybe you can supply the crib. This is a first essential. It should be sturdy and strong and big enough to last a good two years and then be ready for the next member of the family.

A mattress is needed, so firm that no little nose can bury itself and cut off circulation of air.

Crib sheets of the contour variety are wonderful when the baby is old enough to tear his bed clothes off the bed.

The piece of furniture I'd put next in importance to a crib is a rocking chair. A nice big comfortable one with arms so that mother or dad can rest an elbow while they give those cozy rocks so much loved by both babe and parent.

If it were possible I'd build in a lullabye. What a baby misses who has never been rocked and sung to. Our jet age babies need this lovely experience as much as our primitive ancestor.

* * *

ANOTHER piece of essential furniture for a baby is a playpen. Get it or give it early, long before a baby can really move about. Even quite young babies enjoy a change of scenery. It's good to take a baby out of his crib and let him stretch and wiggle about in a safe place.

Before you know it he can turn over and even hunch himself about—before he is able to crawl. Put him unprotected on the floor and you are apt to find him mixed up with the electric light cord on the far side of the room.

It goes without saying that never should a baby even only weeks old be allowed on a high place—a bed, a table, a couch, without someone right there beside him every minute.

When a playpen is used for playing, the crib can be reserved for sleeping only. This helps the child accept the idea that when he is put into his crib he is expected to sleep.

* * *

A playpen is safe. Also the baby who becomes accustomed to peering at the world through its bars will accept this restriction happily for months, whereas the child who is put in a pen for the first time after he has discovered the joys of going places under his own steam well rebel mightly at the restriction.

Of course a playpen must not be used as a jail. A baby must be let out of it from time to time, but it's wonderful to have him happy in it for part of his waking hours.

Another useful item of furniture is a canvas chair in which the baby's back is well supported and in which he can bounce up and down.

Some such chairs are so arranged they can hang from the ceiling, others are supported on a stiff frame. Babies love them and they are safe in them. A baby cannot stay in such a chair as long as in a playpen, but they certainly provide a welcome change.

* * *

A FEEDING table is also a useful piece of furniture. The ones in which the baby sits on a special seat in the middle of the table are especially useful. These feeding tables are much safer than the old-fashioned high chair.

Not only can the baby be fed in such a piece of furniture but he can play there too for short periods. A baby needs plenty of opportunity to wiggle and move about so several pieces of furniture that provide safety and wiggling space are useful and welcome.

Ex-Mental Patient Slays His Father

CLEVELAND (AP)—A former mental hospital patient was called into Shaker Heights Municipal Court today for arraignment in the fatal shooting of his father, whom he blamed for a "nervous condition."

After he walked into central police station Saturday night and reported the killing, Norman Hills, 25, told detectives he had wanted to kill his father, Clifford J. Hills, 61, for four years.

Check-up on Health Is Practical Gift

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

STILL have a couple of last-minute Christmas presents to get?

Well, let me give you a few suggestions.

Physical Checkup

How about giving those adults closest to you the benefit of a thorough physical checkup? Don't just give them the money to pay for it—it is too easily spent on something else—but call up their doctor and make an appointment.

Or, perhaps a complete cancer examination can be arranged. I have advised you previously what an examination such as this should include.

Now, I know you are saying to yourself: "What a silly present! Who would appreciate anything like that?"

No Better Gift

You know, you would be surprised. Can you think of a better gift than a clean bill of health? And what better way to determine that you are perfectly healthy—or that you need treatment — than by a good checkup?

Most of us just naturally put off going to a doctor, especially if there appears to be nothing wrong. Yet there is considerable relief, more peace of mind, when you know you are okay.

Hearing Aid

If there is someone hard of hearing on your gift list, how about arranging for a hearing aid? You can't order any specific model, of course, but you can provide the money and incentive for someone to arrange to get one which fits his needs.

For that matter, how about a set of contact lenses for someone who can use and wants them?

Practical Suggestions

These are very practical suggestions for gifts that will show how deeply you feel about those near and dear to you. These are gifts that are remembered when others are apt to be forgotten.

Of course we don't want to forget the kids. Any of the gifts I have mentioned are just as appropriate for children if the need and desire is present.

When Buying Toys

As for toys, answer these four questions before buying any.

1. Will the toy interest the child at his age and stage of development?
2. Will he enjoy it over a period of time?
3. Is it built of good material and sturdily constructed?
4. Is it free from dangerous elements?

Okay, now go ahead and complete your shopping.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

P. B.: I am in good health and acquire a good tan during the summer, but lose it during the winter. What would you advise?

Answer: Your tanning in summer and paling out in winter is a perfectly normal reaction to the amount of ultraviolet sunlight available during these seasons.

If you want a year-around tan without going to a tropical climate, a sun lamp may be used, providing it is used with care.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's letter to Santa Claus — if he were to write to Santa Claus at 68 — could go like this, since it isn't hard to guess what he has on his mind:

Dear Mr. Claus:

I have been living at my present address the past six years. It's a big white house on Pennsylvania Avenue. It has nine chimneys. So you should have no trouble finding me.

Since I have been here, I've done my best not to say anything mean to anyone. I know I do sound awful mad sometimes — about every two years, around election time—at some of the neighbors.

They're the Democrats, a very big family. Every once in a while they pick on me, especially at election time. Then they're real mean to me. And I get mad back. It doesn't last long.

Most of the time we get along nicely, but I'd appreciate it if you could bring them a big dose of something—like soothing syrup — so they'd always be nice to me. That would be a real good Christmas present. I can tell you why.

I have to live here another two years before the lease is up. And in that time I would like to be as happy as possible with a minimum of trouble. I would love to have some peace and quiet, if you have some to spare.

I know you're a very kind man but I just don't know how much influence you have. I sure wish you could use your influence on one person I have in mind.

He's a kind of roly-poly fat man with a bald head. He'd look like you if he had some hair and a white beard. To hear him talk, you'd think he was Santa Claus himself.

He's always promising to make things better for people. He's a real pushy type. He gets on my nerves. His name is Nikita Khrushchev.

Could you please put some sense in his head and get him to give up these crazy notions he has about communism being better than capitalism? I think things would get better right away. At least, I hope so.

I'd like some money, too, a lot of money. Not for myself. I'm getting along all right. But for the Treasury. We have a lot of expenses coming up next year and the Treasury needs money to pay for them.

I'm being called names — like Skimpy — because I'm trying to cut down on expenses.

I know it doesn't make any difference to you whether a child is white or Negro. And it never seems to make any difference to children, either, whether you just went down a white chimney or Negro chimney, so long as you come down theirs.

I could use some help on this. For four years, ever since the Supreme Court said no more racial segregation in the public schools, I have been having trouble with white people in the South who won't obey the court.

I think I'm going to keep on having trouble for the rest of my two years here unless something unusual happens. And I can't think what that might be. Do you have an answer?

There is certainly one other thing I'd like for Christmas. That's some kind of medicine to make my cousins, the Republicans big and strong again. They're beginning to look awful puny, no matter what I have tried to do for them.

They don't get along with the voters. The Democrats are forever picking on them. And they don't seem to know how to win elections any more.

Unless things get better fast we are going to be in bad shape when I leave here in 1961 and one of the cousins wants to take over the lease.

I hope I haven't asked for too much. But these are things that have me stumped. So all I am really asking is: do you have some stump removers?

WHS News Briefs

By-Lines

BY LINES for Monday pt
By JOHN OTIS CORE

The Washington High School Senior Choir has once again come into their lustrous amount of glory for Christmas time.

Starting out the tight schedule of the group this last week was their trip to the Veterans' Hospital in Chillicothe.

Next on the busy agenda was their program presented for the Lions Club at the Country Club.

However, the biggest treat was still in store for the music department of WHS with tryouts the next evening for Mr. Baber's spectacular— "Pajama Game." These were held from 7 o'clock until everyone had had a chance. Following a policy of opening positions to those with the most ability and not to a selected group, Mr. Baber opened all positions— speaking, singing, dancing — to all the high school. These people who had tried out were carefully selected and the following morning got their names on the bulletin board.

And, of course, there was the school Christmas program for the display of the talent of these singing geniuses, and a beautiful program it was. The songs they sang here were very much the same type up for the other appearances featuring "Christmas Party," a group of songs expressing the joy of Christmas in the modern vein as well as an excellent performance by the Junior High Choir.

The B-Nine Teens also offered musical selections such as "White Christmas" and "Mr. Santa."

FEW KNOW IT who were not there, but there was a palace standing at old WHS recently camouflaged with grey stone. However, it was not an ordinary palace, but one constructed of candy canes and Christmas trees, sprayed by colored lights and scattered with poinsettias. This was the Y-Teen traditional Christmas Dance.

Its theme, "Christmas Fantasy," was the first thing to greet the couples as they entered the gym. Here was a snowman, too, from whom, incidentally, (to break the mood of the whole thing) someone had stolen a licorice gumdrop eye. (You'd think people could control their passions at an affair like this!)

However, (back into the mood) the next step of the couples after picking up their dance programs was the enjoyable one of stepping into a prison of red and white streamers. From here they passed on to their tables.

At "half time" the couples sat back to enjoy entertainers such as the B-Nine Teens singing "Twas' the Night Before Christmas" and Jane Davis in the same hysterical style of drama as in the class play, offering a rendition of the girl who gets stuck with a terrible dancer and tries to humor him.

Finally the dance broke up, and the couples exclaimed their approbation of everything from the punch to junior class cookies along with the excellent music.

MEETING IN THE LIBRARY recently, the Future Nurses Club of Washington High School had their regular monthly gathering to enjoy a talk and slides presented by Mrs. Reiff. This talk was concerned with the prevention and effects of cancer, and she described the methods used to detect the disease. As she finished, she left the gathering with the words of the American Cancer Society — "See your doctor at the first signs."

There was other business discussed by this club too in the form of their Christmas basket offering of food, clothes, and toys for a needy family. In this project, the members bring food, along with a contribution to pay for meat and potatoes. With this basket, the club has complete charge of the family's Christmas.

Plans were also set up at this meeting for the annual sock hop of the group over the Christmas vacation. This year it is called the "Holly Ball" and there will be entertainment and door prizes. It is to be held on Dec. 30 and, with the many p. a. announcements, is assured of a large crowd.

IN THE LITTLE THEATRE on Thursday morning, the Future Teachers Club of Washington High School thrilled to the slides shown by Ann Hire of travels and school in Scotland as well as a Christmas celebration in Switzerland. Whether or not this was more of that pleasant propaganda for backing the foreigh students campaign this coming year or not, it was admitted by the group that the pictures were exceedingly interesting even though the time was short.

Miss Hire began the show by showing the students the place where she had lived in Edinburgh as well as beautiful slides of the city gardens. The showing of the Scott Monument was followed also by pictures of Princess Street, called the most beautiful street in the world. There were pictures shown too of the palaces and castes of the area.

Next Miss Hire took the club into the countryside of Scotland and showed such things as Loch Lomond and the quaint homes of the rural people of this area. She concluded with more scenes of this country's rural areas.

However, the big treat was still in store with pictures of Switzerland. Here she showed scenes of Grendiwold, where she had stayed, along with other scenes of the general area. The quaint ways of living for these people was also revealed to the gathering and the beauty of Christmas for these people as compared to the small celebration in Scotland. Breathtaking scenes from the Jungfrau ended this interesting program.

OLD WHS may not have a bird-watching society nor some of the other specialized study club for widening of students horizons, but it certainly does have a very noteworthy and honorable Library club with Mrs. Scott as advisor.

And, this club, it seems, gathered for the monthly session in this past Wednesday to hear a very interesting and pointful talk by Washington High School's speech teacher, Mrs. Hagerty.

Folders presenting an outline of the year's programs include such things as: the club's flower-violet, the club's colors-violet and white, and the usual list of officers. Further on, however, the reading students took note of their motto offered by Mark Twain-"The man who does not read good books has no advantage over the man who can't read them."

Millie Everhart read her own poem "A Letter to Santa Claus." In this bit of poetry, she offered to the assemblage such gems as, "Please bring Mommy a new strainer for Christmas — I'm getting tired of seeing her run the potatoes through the screen door," and, "Please bring Grandaddy a new pair of glasses — his old ones don't hold enough." After this Mrs. Scott read the members Ogden Nash's very humorous poem, "I Remember Yule."

Mrs. Hagerty's talk was entitled "What Is Christmas Literature.." She said that no matter how modern and realistic the present day Christmas stories may become, they all trace back to the simple birth of man's Savior in the stable in Bethlehem. This was proof enough too of the statement made later by this faculty member that transforming old tales into new and witty poetry and prose did not detract from the value of the story. It was simply a device to make it newer and more interesting.

She mentioned the fact that many Christmas stories concern themselves with children such as "The Littlest Angel" or "The Little Matchgirl". This, she said, was natural because Christmas began with a child.

She then read to the members the famous newspaper article about the spirit of Santa Claus as sent in by a little girl. This story, she said, along with the other children Christmas stories can never become childish even though they are about children for we never outgrow these tales.

As she closed, she made the statement that all people, whether from the country or from the city, from any nation on the earth, have in unity the same love of songs and spirit at this season.

A VERY INTERESTING survey has been run recently by those people who help in the library on the calls for past periodicals. They have been tabulated carefully by the amount of requests for each magazine and the rating is thus: (1) "Life," (2) "Popular Mechanics," (3) "Popular Science," (4) "Sports Illustrated," (5) "The Saturday Evening Post," (6) "Seventeen," (7) "Field and Stream," (8) "National Geographic," (9) "Time," and (10) "Holiday." These are not all of the magazines asked for but the ones mentioned are on top.

THE CHAPLAIN'S TALK on the origin of the Christmas holiday opened the Christmas meeting of Washington High School's Hi-Y Club Dec. 15. Randy Mann told the members about the birth of a holiday at this time of year among the sun worshipers and its gradual evolution into the enormous Christian holiday of today.

Ron Coffman, the president, asked delegates of the Hi-Y Conference in Athens to report and Duane Callendar outlined briefly the activities at this gathering.

Following this report, the president began discussion on the club's biggest service project of the year, the Christmas tree gathering. He first asked the members to ask for trucks which they could use on Dec. 30. He mentioned also that the trees will be taken to some farm to serve as shelter for wildlife. For this, he said, the club had been recognized honorably by the State Conservation Department in the past year.

Byron Palmer, head of the attendance committee told the members that this year the Hi-Y constitution's regulation that there shall be no more than two unexcused meeting absences without expulsion shall be strictly enforced.

The group then turned their minds to more pleasant and lighthearted things with plans for a Sweetheart Dance in February being discussed. It was remembered by the president that several years earlier, the club had always sponsored this affair, but it had been discontinued. He told the members that there could be no obvious reason for not beginning the tradition again.

Operetta Given By Pupils at Madison Mills

The story of "The Little Blue Angel," was told in a three-part operetta by the pupils of the Madison Mills School just before they began their Christmas holiday.

It was directed by Charles B. Lutz, assisted by the school's classrooms teachers and presented to a capacity audience.

The operetta told the story of how the little Blue Angel came into the castle on Christmas Eve and brought joy and peace after the king and his daughter, Princess Maria, had argued over expensive gifts.

Billy, a little boy who wanders into the castle, and the princess slip into the big hall while the king is asleep. Then an angel comes and in song, tells the princess that Billy is really the Christ Child.

When he disappears, Billy leaves a package for Princess Maria —it is a Little Blue Angel for the tree top.

* * *

THE PART of the king was played by Jackie McKirgan and Jimmy Groff; Billy Douglas and Gary Fountain appeared in different acts as Billy; Barbara Grim and Linda Hammond appeared as Princess Maria.

Other principal characters were Cindy Landrum, Anna Lou Rice, Ruth Ann Mercer, Anne King, George LeBeau III, David Rolfe, David Belt, Roger Coy, Gary McDaniels, Tommy Harrison, Rodney Hurles.

In the ballet were Evelyn Scaggs, Judy Miller, Valarie Landrum, Judy Kneisley, Gloria Holdren, Vickie Gillenwater, Beverly Smith and Vickie Frazer.

$40,000 Judgment Asked in Wreck Suit

Charging that the defendant was guilty of negligence in connection with an automobile accident on the CCC Highway, a mile west of Washington C. H., on Aug. 11, 1957, John A. Manley, Route 1, Groveport, has filed suit for $40,000 damages against Willis M. Ray, Route 1, Jeffersonville.

Manley claims that he received permanent neck and back injuries, and that his wife, Catherine, suffered back, neck and chest injuries when Ray's automobile crashed into the rear of their car which had stopped in a line of traffic waiting for a vehicle ahead to make a left turn.

6 Wisconsin Children Die in Home Blaze

KAUKAUNA, Wis. (AP) — Six children sought refuge in a bathroom of their flaming home Sunday and died of burns and suffocation. Safety was only a few feet away through a kitchen door.

Firemen recovered the bodies of Lynn, 7; Douglas, 6; Margaret, 5; John, 3; Barbara, 2½, and Michael, 1½, children of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Weyneberg.

The parents were attending an early mass four blocks away when the fire broke out, apparently in the living room.

BY-LINES for Monday pt
By JOHN OTIS CORE

The Washington High School Senior Choir has once again come into their lustrous amount of glory for Christmas time.

Starting out the tight schedule of the group this last week was their trip to the Veterans' Hospital in Chillicothe.

Next on the busy agenda was their program presented for the Lions Club at the Country Club.

However, the biggest treat was still in store for the music department of WHS with tryouts the next evening for Mr. Baber's spectacular— "Pajama Game." These were held from 7 o'clock until everyone had had a chance. Following a policy of opening positions to those with the most ability and not to a selected group, Mr. Baber opened all positions— speaking, singing, dancing — to all the high school. These people who had tried out were carefully selected and the following morning got their names on the bulletin board.

And, of course, there was the school Christmas program for the display of the talent of these singing geniuses, and a beautiful program it was. The songs they sang here were very much the same type up for the other appearances featuring "Christmas Party," a group of songs expressing the joy of Christmas in the modern vein as well as an excellent performance by the Junior High Choir.

The B-Nine Teens also offered musical selections such as "White Christmas" and "Mr. Santa."

FEW KNOW IT who were not there, but there was a palace standing at old WHS recently camouflaged with grey stone. However, it was not an ordinary palace, but one constructed of candy canes and Christmas trees, sprayed by colored lights and scattered with poinsettias. This was the Y-Teen traditional Christmas Dance.

Its theme, "Christmas Fantasy," was the first thing to greet the couples as they entered the gym. Here was a snowman, too, from whom, incidentally, (to break the mood of the whole thing) someone had stolen a licorice gumdrop eye. (You'd think people could control their passions at an affair like this!)

However, (back into the mood) the next step of the couples after picking up their dance programs was the enjoyable one of stepping into a prison of red and white streamers. From here they passed on to their tables.

At "half time" the couples sat back to enjoy entertainers such as the B-Nine Teens singing "Twas' the Night Before Christmas" and Jane Davis in the same hysterical style of drama as in the class play, offering a rendition of the girl who gets stuck with a terrible dancer and tries to humor him.

Finally the dance broke up, and the couples exclaimed their approbation of everything from the punch to junior class cookies along with the excellent music.

MEETING IN THE LIBRARY recently, the Future Nurses Club of Washington High School had their regular monthly gathering to enjoy a talk and slides presented by Mrs. Reiff. This talk was concerned with the prevention and effects of cancer, and she described the methods used to detect the disease. As she finished, she left the gathering with the words of the American Cancer Society — "See your doctor at the first signs."

There was other business discussed by this club too in the form of their Christmas basket offering of food, clothes, and toys for a needy family. In this project, the members bring food, along with a contribution to pay for meat and potatoes. With this basket, the club has complete charge of the family's Christmas.

Plans were also set up at this meeting for the annual sock hop of the group over the Christmas vacation. This year it is called the "Holly Ball" and there will be entertainment and door prizes. It is to be held on Dec. 30 and, with the many p. a. announcements, is assured of a large crowd.

IN THE LITTLE THEATRE on Thursday morning, the Future Teachers Club of Washington High School thrilled to the slides shown by Ann Hire of travels and school in Scotland as well as a Christmas celebration in Switzerland. Whether or not this was more of that pleasant propaganda for backing the foreign students campaign this coming year or not, it was admitted by the group that the pictures were exceedingly interesting even though the time was short.

Miss Hire began the show by showing the students the place where she had lived in Edinburgh as well as beautiful slides of the city gardens. The showing of the Scott Monument was followed also by pictures of Princess Street, called the most beautiful street in the world. There were pictures shown too of the palaces and castes of the area.

Next Miss Hire took the club into the countryside of Scotland and showed such things as Loch Lomond and the quaint homes of the rural people of this area. She concluded with more scenes of this country's rural areas.

However, the big treat was still in store with pictures of Switzerland. Here she showed scenes of Grendiwold, where she had stayed, along with other scenes of the general area. The quaint ways of living for these people was also revealed to the gathering and the beauty of Christmas for these people as compared to the small celebration in Scotland. Breathtaking scenes from the Jungfrau ended this interesting program.

OLD WHS may not have a bird-watching society nor some of the other specialized study clubs for widening of students horizons, but it certainly does have a very noteworthy and honorable Library club with Mrs. Scott as advisor.

And, this club, it seems, gathered for the monthly session in this past Wednesday to hear a very interesting and pointful talk by Washington High School's speech teacher, Mrs. Hagerty.

Folders presenting an outline of the year's programs include such things as: the club's flower-violet, the club's colors-violet and white, and the usual list of officers. Further on, however, the reading students took note of their motto offered by Mark Twain-"The man who does not read good books has no advantage over the man who can't read them."

Millie Everhart read her own poem "A Letter to Santa Claus." In this bit of poetry, she offered to the assemblage such gems as, "Please bring Mommy a new strainer for Christmas — I'm getting tired of seeing her run the potatoes through the screen door," and, "Please bring Grandaddy a new pair of glasses — his old ones don't hold enough." After this Mrs. Scott read the members Ogden Nash's very humorous poem, "I Remember Yule."

Mrs. Hagerty's talk was entitled "What Is Christmas Literature.." She said that no matter how modern and realistic the present day Christmas stories may become, they all trace back to the simple birth of man's Savior in the stable in Bethlehem. This was proof enough too of the statement made later by this faculty member that transforming old tales into new and witty poetry and prose did not detract from the value of the story. It was simply a device to make it newer and more interesting.

She mentioned the fact that many Christmas stories concern themselves with children such as "The Littlest Angel" or "The Little Matchgirl". This, she said, was natural because Christmas began with a child.

She then read to the members the famous newspaper article about the spirit of Santa Claus as sent in by a little girl. This story, she said, along with the other children Christmas stories can never become childish even though they are about children for we never outgrow these tales.

As she closed, she made the statement that all people, whether from the country or from the city, from any nation on the earth, have in unity the same love of songs and spirit at this season.

A VERY INTERESTING survey has been run recently by those people who help in the library on the calls for past periodicals. They have been tabulated carefully by the amount of requests for each magazine and the rating is thus: (1) "Life," (2) "Popular Mechanics," (3) "Popular Science," (4) "Sports Illustrated," (5) "The Saturday Evening Post," (6) "Seventeen," (7) "Field and Stream," (8) "National Geographic," (9) "Time," and (10) "Holiday." These are not all of the magazines asked for but the ones mentioned are on top.

THE CHAPLAIN'S TALK on the origin of the Christmas holiday opened the Christmas meeting of Washington High School's Hi-Y Club Dec. 15. Randy Mann told the members about the birth of a holiday at this time of year among the sun worshipers and its gradual evolution into the enormous Christian holiday of today.

Ron Coffman, the president, asked delegates of the Hi-Y Conference in Athens to report and Duane Callendar outlined briefly the activities at this gathering.

Following this report, the president began discussion on the club's biggest service project of the year, the Christmas tree gathering. He first asked the members to ask for trucks which they could use on Dec. 30. He mentioned also that the trees will be taken to some farm to serve as shelter for wildlife. For this, he said, the club had been recognized honorably by the State Conservation Department in the past year.

Byron Palmer, head of the attendance committee told the members that this year the Hi-Y constitution's regulation that there shall be no more than two unexcused meeting absences without expulsion shall be strictly enforced.

The group then turned their minds to more pleasant and lighthearted things with plans for a Sweetheart Dance in February being discussed. It was remembered by the president that several years earlier, the club had always sponsored this affair, but it had been discontinued. He told the members that there could be no obvious reason for not beginning the tradition again.

Operetta Given By Pupils at Madison Mills

The story of "The Little Blue Angel," was told in a three - part operetta by the pupils of the Madison Mills School just before they began their Christmas holiday.

It was directed by Charles B. Lutz, assisted by the school's classrooms teachers and presented to a capacity audience.

The operetta told the story of how the little Blue Angel came into the castle on Christmas Eve and brought joy and peace after the king and his daughter, Princess Maria, had argued over expensive gifts.

Billy, a little boy who wanders into the castle, and the princess slip into the big hall while the king is asleep. Then an angel comes and in song, tells the princess that Billy is really the Christ Child.

When he disappears, Billy leaves a package for Princess Maria —it is a Little Blue Angel for the tree top.

So You've Got a Problem?

Dear Abby

'You're on the Right Track'

DEAR ABBY: I am so ashamed of myself I could just die. I just sent my 10-year-old daughter to school without breakfast because I didn't care if she ever came back. It all started when she didn't put her clothes out and couldn't find anything in the morning and was almost late for school I acted like a maniac, screaming and banging things. I said horrible things to her and pushed her out the door. When she left I sat down and cried like a baby. I am miserable. I've done this before and promised myself I wouldn't do it again, but here I am! Are there other mothers who act like that? What can I do to help myself, Abby? SAD MOTHER

DEAR SAD: If it is any comfort to you, you are not alone. I suggest you seek professional help. A good doctor could teach you how to relax, control your temper and live agreeably with your family.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for 16 years if you can call this a marriage. He is a husband six days a week but on Saturdays he is not married at all. He goes off early in the morning with his shaving kit and I don't see him until church time Sunday morning. He puts 200 miles on his car and who knows where he went? He says marriage is a JOB and everybody gets one day off a week from his job and Saturday is his day off from his marriage. Am I crazy or is he? SIX DAY WIFE

DEAR SIX: Marriage is a seven-day-a-week job and any man who can talk his wife out of a "day off" from his marriage could sell sand to the Arabs.

DEAR ABBY: When my husband retired six years ago our three married daughters urged us to move to the city where they live. We have never been envited to any of their homes when they've had guests for cocktails, dinners or an evening We evidently don't "Fit in" with their friends. We are very much in demand however as "sitters" but it never occurs to them to invite us to their homes as "guests." This situation has hurt us both badly. DO NOT FIT

DEAR DO: If you don't 'fit' — don't 'sit.'

DEAR ABBY: You hear from many men whose wives do not understand them, but I am one man who doesn't understand his wife. She attended summer school last year and became acquainted with a foreign student. She has invited him to make our home his home away from home, and I think things have gone too far. He calls my wife, "Honey" and "Dear" and this is all covered up with a mother. I am not suggesting that anything out of line has taken place, but I want to be sure it doesn't. Should I bar him from our home? We've been wed 23 years. HUSBAND

DEAR HUSBAND: Your wife may be old enough to be his mother, but this lad is old enough to get along WITHOUT a mother. Ask your wife to introduce him to someone his own age and call the friendship to a halt.

PALE AMBER shaded to cognac is the theme of this dramatic silk chiffon evening dress by Helena Barbieri of Modern Couture. For Holiday-Resort 1959, its strapless, gathered top is marked by a high, jewel-encrusted band from which the skirt falls free in graceful, paneled folds. Free floating back panels move with the wearer to create a romantic, wind-blown effect.

WSCS Holds Dinner Meeting

Thirty three members of the New Martinsburg Women Society of Christian Service met Saturday evening in grange hall to enjoy a covered dish dinner.

Keith Zimmerman gave the invocation.

A birthday cake was placed on a special table in honor of Mrs. Keith Zimmerman's birthday. The group sang "Happy Birthday," to her.

Mrs. Mary Marshall, devotion leader, read Scripture and gave the following reading "I Am Thine O Lord," "Let Us Adore the Savior," "A Beautiful Tribute to the Bible," and "They Followed the Star."

Mrs. Nathaniel Tway, program leader, introduced Roscoe Smith and Miss Jane E. Smith, who presented a musical program on the electric organ and harmonica. There selections included "Silent Night," "O Come All Ye Faithful," "The First Noel," and "Joy to the World."

Miss Smith presented an organ solo entitled "O Holy Night." Mr. Smith played "Jingle Bells."

The next meeting will be held Jan. 29 in the home of Mrs. C. A. Wilson. Mrs. Eldon Bethards will be program leader.

Cookbooks To Suit All Talents

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Food Editor

Good cooks who resolve to improve their repertoires in the New Year may find help in this crop of recently published cook books. Just one suggestion: choose the recipe collections that suit your particular interests and talents.

Do you relish the idea of serving classic new - and old - world recipes when you entertain? Then "The June Platt Cook Book" is a must. Mrs. Platt "loves to cook, eat and give parties," and she has brought together all her best recipes "plus a collection of new delights."

Educated here and abeoad, June Platt's full time occupation. is designing home decoration; her hobby is creating and adapting marvellous recipes.

She suggests using only the best ingredients, and her extraordinarily good taste and generous step-by-step directions make this investment worthwhile.

Here is deliciously sophisticated food — from hearty cheddarcheese sout to Gateau Malakoff, the ultimate in fancy desserts.

* * *

EVELYN R. Patterson who wrote "Gourmet Kitchen" teaches an advanced cooking course at the Adult School in Princeton, New Jersey.

The recipes in this book are those that make up the main course of a meal, as well as the dessert; through these the author hopes to help "the new or the experienced homemaker to develop some basic techniques and to add to her repertoire a select collection of exciting recipes."

Young couples, interested in everyday and company food that other families serve, should have a delightful time with Jane Benet's "The San Francisco Cook Book".

Its regional flavor gives it real tang. Attractively illustrated, clearly printed on sturdy paper, and a handy size, we suspect that men will enjoy this book as much as will women.

* * *

A HAPPY combination produced "Encore — A Cookbook of the Favorite Dishes of the World's Most Famous Musicians". It was compiled by the Women's Association of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra and edited and tested by the Minnesota Home Economics Association.

Photographs of the contributing artists plus brief biographical notes make an interesting addition of a fascinating collection of recipes — many of them hard to find in as practical a form.

"Josie McCathy's Favorite TV Recipes" is a carefully chosen batch — from soups to desserts — by an accomplished cook.

Demonstrated by the author on her daily TV program, copies of these recipes have been requested many times. A running commentray, TV-program style, includes hints that should help cooks successfully duplicate the dishes.

Devotees of Marion W. Fiecner's cook books will be interested in her "Cooking the Smart Way". Her dozens of menus are a helpful feature.

Many of these were brought back by the author during her travels around the world; some come from Kentucky and other southern kitchens.

Create Your Very Own Sally Victor Cloche

MAKE IT YOURSELF—Sally Victor, noted milliner, has designed this hat, to be made by home seamstresses from a standard pattern, in fabrics for day or evening.

By DOROTHY ROE
Women's Editor

The Biggest thrill any home seamstress can have (in the sewing field, that is) is to make her first successful hat.

Housedresses and children's clothes are all in the day's work, but a flattering hat is a creation. Most women hesitate to try this project, believing that there is a special magic in the milliner's art. But almost every woman yearns to try.

Recognizing this universal urge, Sally Victor, noted milliner whose custom-designed hats sell at from $50 up, has designed for a major pattern company a hat planned for home sewing fans. It has only three pattern pieces and requires a mere 5-8 yard of fabric.

Local sewing center experts suggest you make several hats from the same pattern, in different fabrics and colors.

The deep-fitting cloche is perfct protection against winter winds when made in corduroy, wool or velvet. It's equally appropriate for evening or theater wear, when made in pale satin.

* * *

THE woman who likes the ensemble idea will find it simple to buy a little extra fabric when selecting material for a new dress, so she can have a hat to match.

The hat may be trimmed with a small bow of matching or contrasting fabric, a scrap of mink, a flower or a jeweled pin.

Handy Hints . .

Always invert and drain tomatoes after hollowing them out before stiffing with a salad mixture.

* * *

It's a good idea to keep baby's formula bottles in soft drink cartons in the refrigerator. It will help them stay upright.

* * *

The type of Lazy Susan sold for hors d'oeuvres is good for keeping baby food jars within easy reach or holding baby toilet articles.

* * *

Mix a little mayonnaise with French dressing before you toss your next green salad. The combination makes a creamy new texture, and your family will enjoy the change.

* * *

If your children enjoy chocolate milk, you may wish to invest in one of the plastic squeeze containers for chocolate syrup. You'll find it much easier for them to handle than the original jar or can, and there won't be any milky spoons in the container...

Paris Model Is New Sensation

By DOROTHY ROE
Women's Editor

It's great to be a model, says Simone Daillencourt, France's highest-paid cover girl, now knocking 'em dead in America.

"I just got into modeling by accident," says the tall, willowy, brunette and sultry Simone. "I was visiting in England, and somebody asked me if I wanted to be in a fashion show. From then on, I could hardly keep up with the requests."

In the course of her work Simone has become one of the world's most seasoned travelers, having visited Spain, Brazil, Germany and Switzerland on photographic assignments. She arrived in New York along with half a dozen other beauties from all over the world, to lend international flavor to the new resort collection of swim suits by Jantzen.

* * *

"THE day I arrived I had to be on a television show the same afternoon," says Simone, "and there was this sailor on the panel. Things got a little tense for a while, but I didn't really mind. I thought maybe all Americans acted this way."

It seems the sailor was overcome by the sight of the beautiful Simone in a bathing suit and started to carry her bodily from the stage. Producer and master of ceremonies rescued her, letters of apology were sent, and all ended happily.

Simone had hardly landed on American soil before offers of Hollywood screen tests began pouring in. But she is not sure she wants to be a movie actress, because—

"Actresses have to work so hard. Modeling is hectic, too, but you don't have to learn lines."

Tips for Buying Jewelry

If your're planning to buy that girl a gift of jewelry for Christmas better beware of bumpkin traps.

It seems there are many ways to be fooled in buying costume jewelry. Here are some pointers offered by jewelry designer, Van Dell, who hopes to safeguard novice purchasers:

In good jewelry gems are hand set in prongs, usually. Cheap jewelry has stones pasted in. Good costume jewlery is made of 14 karat gold or sterling silver or gold filled. Look for the hall marks which indicate the metal.

The better jewelry is made usually with imported rhinestones or crystals or from semi-precious stones such as jade, moss agate, rhodonite as in the now popular scarab bracelets.

* * *

IT IS always wise to choose the simpler design when in doubt, he says. The male purchaser may ask too if the piece carries a gurantee.

Responsible jewelers usually offer unconditional guarantee. Then, if something goes wrong, the item may be replaced or repaired without cost.

EASY ON THE BUDGET . . . This necklace and bracelet is 14 kt. gold filled, with cultured pearls. Earrings and the leaf circlet match.

Cookbooks To Suit All Talents

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Food Editor

Good cooks who resolve to improve their repertoires in the New Year may find help in this crop of recently published cook books. Just one suggestion: choose the recipe collections that suit your particular interests and talents.

Do you relish the idea of serving classic new - and old - world recipes when you entertain? Then "The June Platt Cook Book" is a must. Mrs. Platt "loves to cook, eat and give parties," and she has brought together all her best recipes "plus a collection of new delights."

Educated here and abeoad, June Platt's full time occupation. is designing home decoration; her hobby is creating and adapting marvellous recipes.

She suggests using only the best ingredients, and her extraordinarily good taste and generous step-by-step directions make this investment worthwhile.

Here is deliciously sophisticated food — from hearty cheddarcheese sout to Gateau Malakoff, the ultimate in fancy desserts.

* * *

EVELYN R. Patterson who wrote "Gourmet Kitchen" teaches an advanced cooking course at the Adult School in Princeton, New Jersey.

The recipes in this book are those that make up the main course of a meal, as well as the dessert; through these the author hopes to help "the new or the experienced homemaker to develop some basic techniques and to add to her repertoire a select collection of exciting recipes."

Young couples, interested in everyday and company food that other families serve, should have a delightful time with Jane Benet's "The San Francisco Cook Book".

Its regional flavor gives it real tang. Attractively illustrated, clearly printed on sturdy paper, and a handy size, we suspect that men will enjoy this book as much as will women.

* * *

A HAPPY combination produced "Encore — A Cookbook of the Favorite Dishes of the World's Most Famous Musicians". It was compiled by the Women's Association of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra and edited and tested by the Minnesota Home Economics Association.

Photographs of the contributing artists plus brief biographical notes make an interesting addition of a fascinating collection of recipes — many of them hard to find in as practical a form.

"Josie McCathy's Favorite TV Recipes" is a carefully chosen batch — from soups to desserts — by an accomplished cook.

Demonstrated by the author on her daily TV program, copies of these recipes have been requested many times. A running commentray, TV-program style, includes hints that should help cooks successfully duplicate the dishes.

Devotees of Marion W. Fiecner's cook books will be interested in h er"Cooking the Smart Way". Her dozens of menus are a helpful feature.

Many of these were brought back by the author during her travels around the world; some come from Kentucky and other southern kitchens.

Paris Model Is New Sensation

By DOROTHY ROE
Women's Editor

It's great to be a model, says Simone Daillencourt, France's highest-paid cover girl, now knocking 'em dead in America.

"I just got into modeling by accident," says the tall, willowy, brunette and sultry Simone. "I was visiting in England, and somebody asked me if I wanted to be in a fashion show. From then on, I could hardly keep up with the requests."

In the course of her work Simone has become one of the world's most seasoned travelers, having visited Spain, Brazil, Germany and Switzerland on photographic assignments. She arrived in New York along with half a dozen other beauties from all over the world, to lend international flavor to the new resort collection of swim suits by Jantzen.

* * *

"THE day I arrived I had to be on a television show the same afternoon," says Simone, "and there was this sailor on the panel. Things got a little tense for a while, but I didn't really mind. I thought maybe all Americans acted this way."

It seems the sailor was overcome by the sight of the beautiful Simone in a bathing suit and started to carry her bodily from the stage. Producer and master of ceremonies rescued her, letters of apology were sent, and all ended happily.

Simone had hardly landed on American soil before offers of Hollywood screen tests began pouring in. But she is not sure she wants to be a movie actress, because—

"Actresses have to work so hard. Modeling is hectic, too, but you don't have to learn lines."

IT'S SO EASY TO PLACE A WANT AD.

Tips for Buying Jewelry

If your're planning to buy that girl a gift of jewelry for Christmas better beware of bumpkin traps.

It seems there are many ways to be fooled in buying costume jewelry. Here are some pointers offered by jewelry designer, Van Dell, who hopes to safeguard novice purchasers:

In good jewelry gems are hand set in prongs, usually. Cheap jewelry has stones pasted in. Good costume jewlery is made of 14 karat gold or sterling silver or gold filled. Look for the hall marks which indicate the metal.

The better jewelry is made usually with imported rhinestones or crystals or from semi-precious stones such as jade, moss agate, rhodonite as in the now popular scarab bracelets.

* * *

IT IS always wise to choose the simpler design when in doubt, he says. The male purchaser may ask too if the piece carries a gurantee.

Responsible jewelers usually offer unconditional guarantee. Then, if something goes wrong, the item may be replaced or repaired without cost.

EASY ON THE BUDGET . . . This necklace and bracelet is 14 kt. gold filled, with cultured pearls. Earrings and the leaf circlet match.

Create Your Very Own Sally Victor Cloche

MAKE IT YOURSELF—Sally Victor, noted milliner, has designed this hat, to be made by home seamstresses from a standard pattern, in fabrics for day or evening.

By DOROTHY ROE
Women's Editor

The Biggest thrill any home seamstress can have (in the sewing field, that is) is to make her first successful hat.

Housedresses and children's clothes are all in the day's work, but a flattering hat is a creation. Most women hesitate to try this project, believing that there is a special magic in the milliner's art. But almost every woman yearns to try.

Recognizing this universal urge, Sally Victor, noted milliner whose custom-designed hats sell at from $50 up, has designed for a major pattern company a hat planned for home sewing fans. It has only three pattern pieces and requires a mere 5-8 yard of fabric.

Local sewing center experts suggest you make several hats from the same pattern, in different fabrics and colors.

The deep-fitting cloche is perfct protection against winter winds when made in corduroy, wool or velvet. It's equally appropriate for evening or theater wear, when made in pale satin.

* * *

THE woman who likes the ensemble idea will find it simple to buy a little extra fabric when selecting material for a new dress, so she can have a hat to match.

The hat may be trimmed with a small bow of matching or contrasting fabric, a scrap of mink, a flower or a jeweled pin.

Handy Hints . .

Always invert and drain tomatoes after hollowing them out before stiffing with a salad mixture.

* * *

It's a good idea to keep baby's formula bottles in soft drink cartons in the refrigerator. It will help them stay upright.

* * *

The type of Lazy Susan sold for hors d'oeuvres is good for keeping baby food jars within easy reach or holding baby toilet articles.

* * *

Mix a little mayonnaise with French dressing before you toss your next green salad. The combination makes a creamy new texture, and your family will enjoy the change.

* * *

If your children enjoy chocolate milk, you may wish to invest in one of the plastic squeeze containers for chocolate syrup. You'll find it much easier for them to handle than the original jar or can, and there won't be any milky spoons in the container...

Smog Becoming No. 1 Problem of U.S. Cities

By WILLIAM RUTLEDGE III
Central Press Assn.

LOS ANGELES — Dirty and polluted air is becoming a serious problem, not only in urban but rural areas as well, throughout the nation. Fresh and clean air is rapidly disappearing on an alarming scale.

The situation was pointed up in two recent envents here. One was the report from health and medical authorities of smog's role in deaths, which shockingly drove home the relationship of health and fresh air.

The other event was the report to a convention of vegetable and fruit growers that smog was destroying the productive capacity of vast areas, such as San Bernardino and Riverside counties and the rich and fruitful San Joaquin valley.

Taking cognizance of the crisis in smog, predominantly the result of increasing automotive traffic, Senator Thomas H. Kuchel has been pushing a measure in Congress to provide the greatest degree of immediate relief by allowing "incentive relief" from federal income taxes through purchase and installation of anti-smog apparatus.

* * *

THIS WOULD be similar to benefits allowed people and firms in making capital outlays to cut down water pollution. Expenses are written off in five-year depreciation periods.

Senator Kuchel said that he believed that the 60-month amortization period in the Internal Revenue code would spur action in taking advantage of apparatus now available to hold down smog in automotive pollutants.

Automotive manufacturers have repeatedly assured Los Angeles city officials that research is being carried on in reducing car exhausts to hold down these pollutants. Yet, no actual installations have been offered by any maker.

Smog over Los Angeles. Arrow points to sun shining wanly through the dense atmospheric blanket over the city.

Los Angeles has been spending millions in enforcing, and compelling expenditures by industry, far-reaching air purification codes. San Diego and San Francisco have been compelled to take similar steps to hold down this menace.

* * *

"INEVITABLY, anti-smog measures will impose burdens on property owners and require substantial expenditures in order to cut down the emission of matter which pollutes the nation's far-growing industrial areas," Senator Kuchel said.

"The Congress, I am sure, wants to encourage and support every feasible means of curbing this menace which has reached serious proportions in many communities.

"In my view, it is only fair and equitable to allow a measure of tax relief for persons who are required to spend money, in some cases truly substantial sums, to protect public health and welfare. An accelerated amortization of expenditures to reduce air pollution also is definitely a desirable way of giving impetus to campaigns against the curse and menace of smog," Senator Kuchel emphasized.

Fresh air is no longer free. However, fresh air is still as essential to human and plant and animal life as fresh water.

STUDENTS PRESENT PROGRAM

Students of the New Holland school presented their annual Christmas program Thursday evening in the school auditorium under the direction of Mrs. James Wagner.

The program was made up in two parts, with the grade school students opening the program with a Christmas operetta entitled "A Gift For Santa." Members of the cast were:

Mike Eckle, Kay Bush, Mary A. Mossbarger, Terry Cross and Juanita Mills.

Carolers were pupils in the seventh and eighth grades; musicians were pupils in the second, third, fourth and fifth grades;

Soldiers were portrayed by fourth fifth and sixth grades; dolls were portrayed by first, second and third grades and the trees were portrayed by fifth and sixth grades.

The second half of the program was a contata entitled "Christ Is Born," presented by the high school Girls Glee Club. Color lighting effects were used throughout, adding much to the story in song of "The Birth of Jesus."

Soloists were Miss Kay Landman, Nancy Stokes, Sandra Wright and Betty Clark.

Comenunity singing of Christmas hymns was enjoyed by all attending during a short intermission period and at the close of the program.

AUXILIARY CHRISTMAS PARTY

Mrs. H. E. Louis extended the hospitality of her home on S. East St. to members of the American Legions Auxiliary, Unit to Arch Post 477, for their annual Christmas party held in conjunction with the December meeting last Thursday evening.

The rooms of the home were decorated in a festive manner. The table holding the gifts for the exchange was centered with a large candle and tiny figurines were placed on a snow cloth. The buffet was centered with an arrangement of pine, Christmas balls and silver branches.

The president, Mrs. Anabel Echard, opened the meeting in retualistic order and the monthly report were submitted by the secretary, Mrs. Glenn Farmer, and the treasurer, Mrs. Oscar Flack. Mrs. Donna Blair reported on the financial success of the recent Lions Club Christmas dinner and Ladies' Night, and the senior girls were highly praised for their efficient serving of the meal.

A discussion was held concerning the sending of candy to the Chillicothe Veteran's Hospital and an investigation will be conducted to determine if other items are more in demand there. A cash donation was voted for the Lions Club Legion Community Christmas party to be held Christmas Eve. It was reported that books are being purchased for the grade school library as a community service project. The Christmas food basket will be a child welfare project and will be delivered to a deserving family with children.

Gifts brought to the meeting, and which have been delivered to the Chillicothe Veterans Hospital, for distribution at Christmas were estimated at a cash value of $22.71. This is an annual project under the rehabilitation program.

Members enjoyed the annual Christmas gift exchange and social hour following the business session. It was decided to raise the 50 cents gift exchange to $1.00 for the coming year. Junior members Kay Gooley and Jane Ann Garrison acted as Santa's helpers in distributing the gifts.

The committee of hostesses, Mrs. Oscar Flack, Mrs. Wendell Kirk, Mrs. Lawrence Hunter and Missess Kay Gooley and Jane Ann Garrison, were assisted by Mrs. Louis in the serving of a tasty dessert course. Mrs. Wilbur Gillespie assisted with the planning of the party but was unable to be present. Twenty-one members were in attendance.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Miss Jean Pinkerton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Pinkerton, was pleasantly surprised by her parents on her 18th birthday recently when a group of friends met at her home on East St. for dinner at 6:30 p. m.

The table was decorated with greenery and clusters of red ornaments tied with ribbons. Miniature floating candles in crystal completed the decorations.

The attractively wrapped gift packages were placed beneath a lighted Christmas tree. As Jean opened her gifts she thanked each one graciously.

Parlor games provided entertainment for the remainder of the evening.

The attending were Miss Evelyn Wright, Mr. and Mrs. John Blair, Mr. Walter Helsel, Mr. Gerald Helsel, Mr. Bill Stoker, Miss Linda Eckle, Miss Jill Echard, Mr. Harold Turner and Mrs. Irene Krepe.

Short Session Of Legislature Held Doubtful

Leaders See No Hope Of Split Meeting as Proposed by DiSalle

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Leaders of the new Democratic-controlled Legislature do not share hopes of Gov.-elect Michael V. DiSalle for a short session in two shifts.

DiSalle advanced the idea of a split session at a meeting of Democratic and Republican leaders in Toledo without plugging for the innovation.

Envisioned was a preliminary session opening Jan. 5 to dispose of housekeeping chores and emergency matters. Then legislators would recess. They would return after a survey of financial and other problems for the best solutions.

Some Democrats expressed enthusiasm. They asserted DiSalle should have a "breather" to complete his study of state needs and where to get the money to pay for them. A recess, they explained, would give him time to prepare an adequate budget for approval by the Legislature before final adjournment with fewer financial wrangles.

They saw other benefits in a split session because of an expected deluge of measures turned down by Legislatures during the past decade of Republican domination. Committees could winnow through the mass during a recess, they said.

But leaders of the session expressed doubt. Some Statehouse veterans said flatly it would not work.

"I don't see how we could have any real short session and then take a recess," said Sen. Frank W. King (D-Lucas), majority floor leader-designate.

"I think it will take us quite awhile to handle the housekeeping problems. There are so many things that do not depend on money that we will be busy until it comes time to take care of the money problems.

"Everybody thinks we can have a short session but we have a lot of problems that will keep us very busy."

Rep. James A. Lantz (D-Fairfield), House speaker-designate, said a split session is possible but would require considerable advance planning.

"In my opinion," he said, "it would be a difficult thing to do. We are geared to a slow process. It has to be a thoughtful process and such a change certainly would take a revision in our thinking."

Lantz and King expressed willingness to try a split session if DiSalle urges it. Lantz pointed out that the West Virginia Legislature holds 60-day sessions and indicated that Ohio could put on speed if desired.

The last time Democrats won majority control of the Legislature in 1949, they began the session in high hopes of completing work within four months. But the session stretched out for 28 weeks. A number of legislators feel that the next session may have to hustle without a break to shorten that mark.

Kentucky Police Nab Toledoan for Slaying

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)— William Redding Jr. is being returned to Toledo, Ohio, after surrendering here and admitting he is wanted for an Ohio slaying.

The 31-year-old Redding surrendered Sunday and agreed to return. Police say he and Junior S. Williams, 22, were playing pool in Toledo when they argued. Redding shot Williams twice with a .25 caliber pistol and fled, they said.

Fayette Election Officials Ready For State Parley

Members, clerks and deputy clerks of Ohio's county Boards of Election, will take part in the tenth annual convention of the Ohio Assn. of Election Officers to be held in Columbus at the Deshler Hilton Hotel, Jan. 4 to 6.

Fayette County Board probably will be well represented by board members and clerical officials.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown and members of his staff will appear on the program and the principal speaker at the banquet session on Monday night will be Dr. Tennyson Guyer, of Findlay, state senator-elect.

During the business sessions of the convention many phases of problems confronting election officials and some suggestions for possible future changes in election laws, will be discussed.

Fayette County Inheritance Tax Up in '58

Fayette County followed the Ohio pattern this year as all previous records for payment on inheritance taxes were broken in the state.

Fayette's contribution to an Ohio total of $17,666,550 was $81,841.97 as compared with $65,966.68 in 1957.

Cuyahoga County led all counties in the state in the amount of inheritance taxes collected with $3,915,547, or almost 20 per cent of the total for the state. Hamilton County was next with $3,543,373, followed by Franklin, $1,119,358; Montgomery, $724,880, and Lucas, $643,195.

* * *

HALF of the $17,666,550 in inheritance taxes went to the taxing districts in which the tax originated. The other half went to the state after deducting fees allowed the offices of county auditor, county treasurer and the tax commissioner's agent.

These fees retained by the counties amounted this year to $398,556.37.

Fayette County's neighbors reported the following inheritance tax collections to State Auditor James A. Rhodes (the figures in parentheses are 1957 totals):

Clinton $25,399 ($47,905); Greene $153,674 ($159,250); Highland $40,561 ($41,175); Madison $68,171 ($56,275); Pickaway $125,354 ($61,518); Ross $139,517 ($42,946).

Ohio Bishop's Father Dies in Cleveland at 76

CLEVELAND (AP) — Ill since 1950, John J. Krol Sr., father of the Cleveland Diocese's Auxiliary Bishop, died in Cleveland Clinic Hospital Sunday. He was 76 and retired in 1949 after 41 years as a machinist with Cleveland Frog & Crossing Co. Born in Poland, he came to Cleveland in 1901. The Most Rev. John J. Krol, consecrated auxiliary bishop five years ago, is one of five sons who survive, along with a daughter.

The statue of Christ the Redeemer, overlooking Rio de Janeiro, stands 2,300 feet above sea level and can be seen for 20 miles at sea.

ABOMINABLE—Ann Marie Hardwick, 3½, and brother, Jimmy, 11 months, get their first experience with snow in Greenville, S. C., by virtue of a snowman which probably is considered somewhat abominable in those unfamiliar parts.

Pennsylvania Checking Cars for Ohio Liquor

SHARON, Pa. (AP)—The Pennsylvania State Liquor Control Board's roving plain clothesmen are carrying out a threat of last Thursday to crack down on motorists hauling bottled Christmas cheer into Pennsylvania from Ohio where they can purchase it at lower prices.

Pat Kirwin, chairman of the Pennsylvania SLCB said vehicles carrying the liquor would be confiscated and could be sold. Kirwin said some persons have the wrong impression that they may bring liquor across the state line if the Ohio seals have been broken.

Pennington Corp. Buys Lima Bakery

Purchase of the J. F. Renz and Sons Bakery Co., Lima, by Morgan B. Pennington, Cincinnati, owner and president of Pennington Bros., Inc., has been announced here.

The Pennington corporation produces its baked goods in Washington C. H. The plant, at 1100 Clinton Ave., is the newest and most modern in the state.

The purchase of the Lima commercial bakery, which was established in 1887, is in line with plans for expansion announced by the Pennington firm when the Washington C. H. plant was rebuilt after a disastrous fire more than two years ago.

Interested local people raised $50,000 to assist with the rebuilding and the Pennington corporation agreed to remain here rather than move to a city closer to its center of distribution.

* * *

THE LIMA arrangement includes sale of all stock in the Renz firm to Pennington who is president of the Ohio State Bakers Assn. as well as Ohio representative to the American Bakers' Assn. board of governors.

While future plans for the Renz operation have not been completed it will continue for the present under its present name.

The Pennington company has been rapidly expanding its distribution system since the new Washington C. H. plant was built and now serves cities as near the big Lima metropolitan market as Marion, Mt. Vernon, Piqua and Troy.

* * *

THE VOLUME of business in Columbus and Dayton has increased tremendously since the mechanized product on center here, employing approximately 200 persons and with a payroll of a million dollars a year, went into operation.

The Renz bakery has employed about 50 persons and has been operating 16 wholesale routes.

Howard G. Wright, Carolyn Rd., is general manager for the Pennington corporation.

MORGAN B. PENNINGTON

Wright said that eventually the Pennington brand name will be introduced into the Lima market which will mean an even greater increase in production and a possible increase in employment at the Washington C. H. plant.

Change of Job Is Asked For 'Change of Scenery'

PHILADELPHIA—John T. Kerr, an employment interviewer, says now he's heard all reasons for job switching.

A woman recently applied for a position with Kerr's company. She said she formerly worked for a nudist camp.

Kerr glanced at her application and noted her reasons for leaving her previous job. She had stated, "change of scenery."

About 1,220,400 square miles, or 35 per cent of Canada's total land area, is forests.

Light-fingered Americans Are Inclined Toward Hotel Thievery

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK (AP)—The traveling American, it seems, not only is free-wheeling but light-fingered. While hotelmen only infrequently encounter guests who make off with sheets, blankets and furniture, loss is high of such items as washcloths, whisky shot glasses, highball stirrers, cleansing tissues, wooden coat hangers, shoe mitts, and, of course, towels.

One 1,000 room hotel in midtown Manhattan runs through $1,000 shot glasses a year, for instance, and its replacement rate on washcloths is 17,000 per annum.

"Of course," conceded Neal Lang, general manager of the Roosevelt, "there is considerable chippage on the shot glasses, but also they are of a size and usefulness that make them dandy souvenirs, even though they are not marked with the hotel name.

We used to have an even higher loss of face cloths until we cut them down to size and thickness to a point where they aren't as attractive as they could be.

Shoe mitts, which cost the hotel around six cents each, are replaced at a rate of 60,000 a year.

* * *

THE usual presence of inferior wire coat hangers in even first class hotels is mute testimony of guests' collecting endencies. Until recently no one had invented a pilfer-proof coat hanger, but some of the newer hotels are installing non-removable hangers which travel on tracks.

Women, the hotel executive says, are usually the ones who abscond with cleansing tissues.

"Men," he philosophized, "use the tissues as they need them: women anticipate using them in the future. We've made the tissue box holders quite difficult to open, so usually the women have to go to the trouble of removing them sheet by sheet. But they do it."

Loss of the larger, more expensive items of furnishings is kept to a minimum by the floor maids, who check a vacated room almost as soon as the departing guest has left, and by supervisors who keep an eye on a specified block of rooms. Occasionally, however, a guest will make off with a blanket, a picture or even a pillow.

* * *

WHEN some such item is missing, the hotel writes a first polite letter to the guest asking that he check his luggage and see if he hasn't "inadvertently" packed a blanket or whatever.

The recipient of one such letter replied furiously that he not only had not inadvertently packed a mattress or the desk.

Towell collectors are not as much of a problem as they once were. For one thing, hotels have elearned to make towels less attractive: many now omit the name of the hotel on them.

Stage star Walter Slezak, however, is a hotel towel collector—but only from the nation's very top hotels, and unlike many of his fellow collectors, is willing to pay. He intends to have a bathrobe made of them.

MANY a traveler is a menu collector—and it costs Lang's hotel almost $100 a day just to print those for the various restaurants within the hotel. One of the restaurants uses an outsize, elaborate menu which costs the hotel 30 cents each.

Once, thinking it good advertising, there was a line on the menu urging guests to keep the menu as a souvenir. Now the line is removed.

"If they really want it," said Lang, "they'll as for it or just take it."

People . . . Places . . . and Things

Round about Fayette County

By B. E. KELLEY

A little more than a century ago wood for heating and cooking was piled in cords about the business places and homes throughout the community.

This wood, much of it cut in three-foot lengths for open fireplaces, was abundant. In many instances local residents traded "cord wood" to businessmen for goods.

In fact they even traded wood they cut with their axes to one of the newspapers in the town at the time for a subscription to the paper.

This was the Washingtonian of which John W. Poff was the publisher and proprietor. While the heading was "The Washingtonian" the editorial colum (which was the lead column on the first page) gave the name of the publication as the "Fayette Washingtonian."

Anyway I have a copy of the Washingtonian on my desk which bears date of Novemer 15, 1845 and here is an advertisement the paper carried:

"Wood! Wood!! Those who have agreed to pay their subscriptions in WOOD will please bring it along immediately as a FEW CORDS would be very acceptable at this time. Wood three feet in length would be preferred. Washingtonian office, August 19, 1845."

Money was really scarce in those days of 113 years ago, and there was much trading of produce for goods and for various services.

Even the doctor was frequently required to accept furs or produce from his patients in payment of bills.

NEW BOOK ISSUED

"Trees of Ohio", written by the late Dr. Harry Vannorsdall, of Wilmington, a native of Jefferson Township in this county, is just off the press, and is being distributed by the Curtis Book Store in Wilmington.

The book contains 368 pages with 272 illustrations, picturing and describing Ohio trees. It is of particular value to amateurs, high school and college students, and all those interested in nature study.

Dr. Vannorsdall also issued a book on ferns about two years ago, and had just completed his book on trees when he was stricken as result of inhaling too much arsenic spray he was using in his garden. He died within a few days—without seeing a copy of his new book.

We visited Dr. Vannorsdall in Kelley Hale Hospital, Wilmington, two days before he died, and we talked about his forthcoming volume.

Although partly paralyzed at the time, and hopeful of speedy recovery, he said:

"If I can't use my arms and part of my body, I am so glad I still have all of my mental faculties".

ALWAYS ALERT

I know of no other bird more constantly on the alert for food than the common black crow.

Maybe it is because he is so much larger than the average bird and requires a great deal more food. Or perhaps it is just because he is greedy.

It matters not whether it is grain, rabbits and dead animals on the highway or eggs, he seems to devour everything with equal relish.

Recently within a space of 300 yards on one of the roads in Jasper Township, I saw crows fly away from carcasses on dead rabbits and oppossums. Looking back I saw they quickly returned to their meal.

In another spot I saw scores of crows in a cornfield that had not been picked. They were doing their part toward harvesting corn.

Crows remain in this area all winter, and in the coldest days, with the ground blanketed in snow, one may see these robber birds foraging.

They are classed as robber birds because of their destruction of other birds' nest, eating their eggs and young. Many times I have seen them attacked and driven away by kingbirds which administer painful pecks on the big black bandits.

Food Industry Survives Slump

Processing Plants Press Expansion

By RIP WATSON
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—America's steadily expanding food industry took the 1958 recession in stride.

The industry did so well, in fact, that it helped the over-all economy through increased output of food products, more purchases of farm goods and higher weekly earnings of food processing employes, says Paul S. Willis, president of Grocery Manufacturers of America Inc.

What's more, he added, the industry plans an increase of 7 per cent in 1959 on expenditures for plant and equipment normally running about 600 million dollars a year.

Retail food store sales in the first 10 months rose about 7 per cent, compared with a decline of about 1 per cent for all retail stores, Willis said Over-all food consumption — including restaurants and institutions — rose to about 75 billion dollars from 71 billion last year, he estimated.

The GMA head predicted expenditures will reach 79 billion dollars in 1959 and may hit the 100-billion-dollar mark by 1965.

He added, however, that profit per dollar of sales from a representative sampling of 89 food companies shrank to 2.7 cents from 2.8 cents in 1957. The figures compared with 4.1 cents in 1946 and 4.6 cents in 1939.

Government cost of living figures showed that food costs rose from 118.2 of the 1947-49 index in January to 119.7 in October, although part of the increase generally was attributed to ruinous growing weather in Florida and California fruit and vegetable areas.

Dun & Bradstreet's food index, which represents the total cost at wholesale of one pound each of 31 foods in general use, exceeded the comparable year-ago figure by 1.1 to 9.7 per cent every week until early December. If lower wholesale prices continue and are passed along at the retail level, this may indicate cheaper food in 1959.

This view is supported by an Agricultural Department report predicting most foods will be much more abundant and a bit cheaper next year.

January is a summer month in Chile, but it is a month in which this southernmost part of South America is exposed to some of the world's stormiest weather.

Soviet To Spend Billions on New Industry, Science

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government today announced a vast new program of spending on scientific research, social welfare and expansion of the Soviet economy.

Finance Minister Arseny Zverev outlined the program to a joint session of the Supreme Soviet, the parliament of the Soviet Union, which opened its annual meeting to approve the government budget for the coming year.

The biggest jump came in the projected government investments to expand the Soviet production facilities — a huge increase of 71,400,000,000 rubles — or nearly 18 billion dollars — over the amount spent in 1958.

Zverev said the expansion fund would total 484,300,000,000 — $121,075,000,000 — including direct government investments of 308,700,000,000 rubles, and 175,600,000,000 rubles of profits from government enterprises to be ploughed back.

Investments will be particularly increased, he continued, in the iron and steel, chemical, oil and gas industries, and in engineering. He also announced an allocation of 30,300,000,000 rubles — $7,575,000,000 — for the expansion of agriculture.

Zverev said 27,300,000,000 rubles — $6,825,000,000 — would be appropriated for scientific research. He compared this to a previous appropriation of 23,90,000,000.

He said 232 billion rubles, or 58 billion dollars, would be spent in 1959 on education, health, social insurance and maternity benefits for prolific mothers, an increase of nearly 20 billion rubles over 1958. This will include more than 94 billion rubles for education, 44 billion for the health program, over 88 billion for social insurance and 5½ billion for mothers.

"As compared with 1958, the national income will increase by 8 per cent and will be 140 per cent greater than in 1950," Zverev said.

The finance minister called for increased labor productivity and lower production costs in industry, transport services and agriculture. The labor force is to increase by 1,300,000 workers, but the workers obviously are expected to produce still more than in past years in the campaign to overtake the American economy.

Zverev said the Soviet government expects its budget revenues to rise to 722,900,000,000 rubles, an increase of 9.3 per cent over 1958, and expenditures to go up 10.8 per cent to 707,200,000,000 rubles.

By contrast with the big rise in expenditures for education and social benefits, a slight decrease was promised in the defense appropriation. This was put at 96,100,000,000 — $24,025,000,000 — as compared with a 1958 defense appropriation of 96,300,000,00 rubles.

The finance minister said the defense budget "reflects the peace policy of the Soviet Union, a policy of preserving peace in the whole world."

Cincinnati Police Bullet Seriously Hurts Bystander

CINCINNATI (AP) — A postal worker, accidentally shot during a police auto chase early Sunday, is in critical condition at General Hospital.

Police said Casey Weaver, 54, was apparently struck in the chest by a police bullet that ricocheted. Weaver was walking home.

A passerby discovered Weaver lying unconscious on the sidewalk and called police. Investigators said the police cruiser started after a car with obscured license plates and Patrolman Raymond Easterling fired five shots at the car.

Officers said the pursued car was halted at a roadblock and its driver, Joseph W. Bohanon, 28, of Newport, Ky., was taken into custody. Police said Bohanon gave no reason for fleeing.

New Embezzlement Tried by Man Still Paying Off First

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (AP) — Herman Konchin, a 35-year-old bookkeeper has been accused of embezzling money from his latest employer while paying off installments on a 1957 embezzlement.

Konchin was picked up in the furniture store where he had worked for eight weeks. His car was parked outside, and in it, police said, was $2,000 in cash, and $1,000 in checks made out to the store.

The owner of the store, Simon Richman, said he asked detectives to investigate when he heard that Konchin was planning to leave the city. The bookkeeper is married and has two children.

In 1957 Konchin was arrested on a charge of embezzling $18,000 from an automobile dealer. A $7,500 settlement was made, authorities said, and Konchin was paying it off at $10 a week.

British Balloonists Not Heard from

LONDON (AP) — Radio amateurs throughout Western Europe and North Africa failed during the weekend to pick up any message from four Britons trying to sail across the Atlantic in a balloon.

Nothing has been heard from the balloon, the Small World, since Friday.

The three men and one woman set off 10 days ago from the Canary Islands to drift with the trade winds 3,000 miles to Barbados, in the West Indies.

The last reported position of the 46-foot ballon was about 250 miles south of the Canaries. That was seven days ago.

Pacifist Cleric Slated for Jail

Attorneys Say Cincy Preacher Shuns Appeal

CINCINNATI (AP)— A pacifist minister who tried to show hatred for war by not paying income tax will start a prison term soon. But echoes of his conviction still stir comment in his defense.

The Rev. Maurice F. McCrackin faces a six month federal prison term and a $250 fine on a charge of failing to answer a summons to talk over his taxes.

Fred A. Dewey, one of his court-appointed attorneys and a law professor at the University of Cincinnati, said Sunday night because of the minister's wishes, an appeal will not be made.

"We told him we think there are good grounds for an appeal," Dewey said, "but the last word we had from him was that he does not want us to appeal.

"We felt that the government failed to prove its case—failed to show any delegation of authority for the summons—and also that there were improper matters in connection with the sentence.

The Rev. Mr. McCrackin has been pastor of a combined Episcopal-Presbyterian church and director of a church - connected neighborhood house.

Episcopal and Presbyterian leaders said last Friday they will take over the neighborhood house and dismiss its governing board, which also governs the church, effective at the end of the year.

But U.S. Fowler, board chairman, said Sunday night the group plans to fight the ouster action. A meeting is set tonight on this and the problem of getting another pastor.

Twenty-six clergymen and educators late Sunday issued a statement saying they think citizens and officials of church, state and community "who may have special responsibility" should respect the Rev. Mr. McCrackin's right of conscience.

The group was headed by Dean Walter G. Muelder of Boston University School of Theology.

The statement said, in part:

"In our democratic society and in these times when democracy is hard pressed in many parts of the world, officers of state and church as well as citizens and churchmen generally should scrupulously refrain from an persecution of conscience. . . .

"In disobeying the law, Rev. Mr. McCrackin (sic) clearly risked the legal penalties which this may entail. But there should be room in the church and community for people who differ on problems such as participation in war."

To 'See' World Formed?

Space Ship Guide Center Dedicated

BIG PINE, Calif. (AP)—They've dedicated a 1½-million-dollar radio observatory near here that some day may track and guide space ships as they speed far out into the universe.

It's believed also that once both of the observatory's two 90-foot dish antennas are in operation scientists will be able to peer 30 billion light years back into time and space.

Built by the California Institute of Technology, with Navy help on financing, the observatory is located in the Owens Valley, 250 miles north of Los Angeles.

Rear Adm. Rawson Bennett II, chief of naval research, told a dedication audience Friday: "This observatory may be able to reach far enough back into time to see our own world as it was billions of years ago — perhaps while it was still being formed."

The admiral was referring to the Einstein concept that time and space are like a doughtnut — that if you go far enough and fast enough you come back where you started. And, since you are sneaking up from behind, you get there prior to the time your departure.

A light year represents the distance that a beam of light—racing along at 186,000 miles per second —travels in a year.

The farthest man has been able to see out into the universe thus far is two billion light years. This is the range of the 200-inch hale telescope on Mount Palomar in San Diego County.

Actually, there isn't much point in building a bigger visual telescope because of the distortion of light waves by the earth's atmosphere. But the atmosphere has no effect on radio telescopes.

Even now, with only one of this observatory's antennas in operation, radio signals have been picked up from stars a billion light years away.

When the second 90-foot mesh dish is ready next spring, observatory Director John G. Bolton expects to begin receiving radio impulses from stars up to 30 billion light years away.

The observatory will be able not only to receive radio impulses over tremendous distances, but send them as well. That's where the tracking and guiding of space ships comes in. It's also where the Navy's interest is keen.

"More than $1,300,000 of the construction cost was provided by the Office of Naval Research," Adm. Bennett said.

"The research we do here is expected to improve navigation of ships and planes. In bad weather, the stars man has steered by for centuries are not visible. Before long, fliers and mariners will be guided not by the light from the stars but by the radio impulses from them."

31 English Pacifists Are Tossed into Jail

SWAFFHAM, England (AP) — Thirty-one pacifists are in jail today after more weekend attempts to stage protests inside a base being prepared for U.S. missiles here.

The demonstrators called off their assault and headed back to London Sunday night.

Eighty members of a group calling itself the Direct Action Committee Against Nuclear War tried to storm their way into the base Saturday to demonstrate. Twenty-two were jailed.

Soviet To Spend Billions on New Industry, Science

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government today announced a vast new program of spending on scientific research, social welfare and expansion of the Soviet economy.

Finance Minister Arseny Zverev outlined the program to a joint session of the Supreme Soviet, the parliament of the Soviet Union, which opened its annual meeting to approve the government budget for the coming year.

The biggest jump came in the projected government investments to expand the Soviet production facilities — a huge increase of 71,400,000,000 rubles — or nearly 18 billion dollars — over the amount spent in 1958.

Zverev said the expansion fund would total 484,300,000,000 — $121,075,000,000 — including direct government investments of 308,700,000,000 rubles, and 175,600,000,000 rubles of profits from government enterprises to be ploughed back.

Investments will be particularly increased, he continued, in the iron and steel, chemical, oil and gas industries, and in engineering. He also announced an allocation of 30,300,000,000 rubles — $7,575,000,000 — for the expansion of agriculture.

Zverev said 27,300,000,000 rubles — $6,825,000,000 — would be appropriated for scientific research. He compared this to a previous appropriation of 23,90,000,000.

He said 232 billion rubles, or 58 billion dollars, would be spent in 1959 on education, health, social insurance and maternity benefits for prolific mothers, an increase of nearly 20 billion rubles over 1958. This will include more than 94 billion rubles for education, 44 billion for the health program, over 88 billion for social insurance and 5½ billion for mothers.

"As compared with 1958, the national income will increase by 8 per cent and will be 140 per cent greater than in 1950," Zverev said.

The finance minister called for increased labor productivity and lower production costs in industry, transport services and agriculture. The labor force is to increase by 1,300,000 workers, but the workers obviously are expected to produce still more than in past years in the campaign to overtake the American economy.

Zverev said the Soviet government expects its budget revenues to rise to 722,900,000,000 rubles, an increase of 9.3 per cent over 1958, and expenditures to go up 10.8 per cent to 707,200,000,000 rubles.

By contrast with the big rise in expenditures for education and social benefits, a slight decrease was promised in the defense appropriation. This was put at 96,100,000,000 — $24,025,000,000 — as compared with a 1958 defense appropriation of 96,300,000,00 rubles.

The finance minister said the defense budget "reflects the peace policy of the Soviet Union, a policy of preserving peace in the whole world."

Cincinnati Police Bullet Seriously Hurts Bystander

CINCINNATI (AP) — A postal worker, accidentally shot during a police auto chase early Sunday, is in critical condition at General Hospital.

Police said Casey Weaver, 54, was apparently struck in the chest by a police bullet that ricocheted. Weaver was walking home.

A passerby discovered Weaver lying unconscious on the sidewalk and called police. Investigators said the police cruiser started after a car with obscured license plates and Patrolman Raymond Easterling fired five shots at the car.

Officers said the pursued car was halted at a roadblock and its driver, Joseph W. Bohanon, 28, of Newport, Ky., was taken into custody. Police said Bohanon gave no reason for fleeing.

New Embezzlement Tried by Man Still Paying Off First

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (AP) — Herman Konchin, a 35-year-old bookkeeper has been accused of embezzling money from his latest employer while paying off installments on a 1957 embezzlement.

Konchin was picked up in the furniture store where he had worked for eight weeks. His car was parked outside, and in it, police said, was $2,000 in cash, and $1,000 in checks made out to the store.

The owner of the store, Simon Richman, said he asked detectives to investigate when he heard that Konchin was planning to leave the city. The bookkeeper is married and has two children.

In 1957 Konchin was arrested on a charge of embezzling $18,000 from an automobile dealer. A $7,500 settlement was made, authorities said, and Konchin was paying it off at $10 a week.

Pacifist Cleric Slated for Jail

Attorneys Say Cincy Preacher Shuns Appeal

CINCINNATI (AP)— A pacifist minister who tried to show hatred for war by not paying income tax will start a prison term soon. But echoes of his conviction still stir comment in his defense.

The Rev. Maurice F. McCrackin faces a six month federal prison term and a $250 fine on a charge of failing to answer a summons to talk over his taxes.

Fred A. Dewey, one of his court-appointed attorneys and a law professor at the University of Cincinnati, said Sunday night because of the minister's wishes, an appeal will not be made.

"We told him we think there are good grounds for an appeal," Dewey said, "but the last word we had from him was that he does not want us to appeal.

"We felt that the government failed to prove its case—failed to show any delegation of authority for the summons—and also that there were improper matters in connection with the sentence.

The Rev. Mr. McCrackin has been pastor of a combined Episcopal-Presbyterian church and director of a church - connected neighborhood house.

Episcopal and Presbyterian leaders said last Friday they will take over the neighborhood house and dismiss its governing board, which also governs the church, effective at the end of the year.

But U.S. Fowler, board chairman, said Sunday night the group plans to fight the ouster action. A meeting is set tonight on this and the problem of getting another pastor.

Twenty-six clergymen and educators late Sunday issued a statement saying they think citizens and officials of church, state and community "who may have special responsibility" should respect the Rev. Mr. McCrackin's right of conscience.

The group was headed by Dean Walter G. Muelder of Boston University School of Theology.

The statement said, in part:

"In our democratic society and in these times when democracy is hard pressed in many parts of the world, officers of state and church as well as citizens and churchmen generally should scrupulously refrain from an persecution of conscience. . . .

"In disobeying the law, Rev. Mr. McCrackin (sic) clearly risked the legal penalties which this may entail. But there should be room in the church and community for people who differ on problems such as participation in war."

British Balloonists Not Heard from

LONDON (AP) — Radio amateurs throughout Western Europe and North Africa failed during the weekend to pick up any message from four Britons trying to sail across the Atlantic in a balloon.

Nothing has been heard from the balloon, the Small World, since Friday.

The three men and one woman set off 10 days ago from the Canary Islands to drift with the trade winds 3,000 miles to Barbados, in the West Indies.

The last reported position of the 46-foot ballon was about 250 miles south of the Canaries. That was seven days ago.

To 'See' World Formed?

Space Ship Guide Center Dedicated

BIG PINE, Calif. (AP)—They've dedicated a 1½-million-dollar radio observatory near here that some day may track and guide space ships as they speed far out into the universe.

It's believed also that once both of the observatory's two 90-foot dish antennas are in operation scientists will be able to peer 30 billion light years back into time and space.

Built by the California Institute of Technology, with Navy help on financing, the observatory is located in the Owens Valley, 250 miles north of Los Angeles.

Rear Adm. Rawson Bennett II, chief of naval research, told a dedication audience Friday: "This observatory may be able to reach far enough back into time to see our own world as it was billions of years ago — perhaps while it was still being formed."

The admiral was referring to the Einstein concept that time and space are like a doughtnut — that if you go far enough and fast enough you come back where you started. And, since you are sneaking up from behind, you get there prior to the time your departure.

A light year represents the distance that a beam of light—racing along at 186,000 miles per second —travels in a year.

The farthest man has been able to see out into the universe thus far is two billion light years. This is the range of the 200-inch hale telescope on Mount Palomar in San Diego County.

Actually, there isn't much point in building a bigger visual telescope because of the distortion of light waves by the earth's atmosphere. But the atmosphere has no effect on radio telescopes.

Even now, with only one of this observatory's antennas in operation, radio signals have been picked up from stars a billion light years away.

When the second 90-foot mesh dish is ready next spring, observatory Director John G. Bolton expects to begin receiving radio impulses from stars up to 30 billion light years away.

The observatory will be able not only to receive radio impulses over tremendous distances, but send them as well. That's where the tracking and guiding of space ships comes in. It's also where the Navy's interest is keen.

"More than $1,300,000 of the construction cost was provided by the Office of Naval Research," Adm. Bennett said.

"The research we do here is expected to improve navigation of ships and planes. In bad weather, the stars man has steered by for centuries are not visible. Before long, fliers and mariners will be guided not by the light from the stars but by the radio impulses from them."

31 English Pacifists Are Tossed into Jail

SWAFFHAM, England (AP) — Thirty-one pacifists are in jail today after more weekend attempts to stage protests inside a base being prepared for U.S. missiles here.

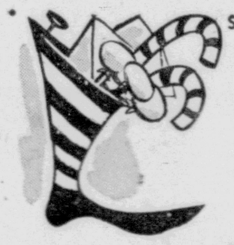

The demonstrators called off their assault and headed back to London Sunday night.

Eighty members of a group calling itself the Direct Action Committee Against Nuclear War tried to storm their way into the base Saturday to demonstrate. Twenty-two were jailed.

Clocks That Live – A St. Louisan's Art

This living clock is in Forest park, St. Louis, and is the marvel of tourists—and natives!

By GROVER BRINKMAN
Central Press Association Correspondent

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—If ever you decide you need a clock in your garden, high above an office building, or in a moving van, the man to see is a native St. Louisan, Russell Vance.

Vance is nationally known for his "living" clocks. The one illustrated here is in Forest park, St. Louis, and its face is 25 feet from the numeral 12 to the numeral 6, while the minute hand is 11 feet long. The mechanism is buried underground, and an electric motor drives the huge hands.

The face of the clock is floricultural art, a riot of color in summer, vivid greens and browns in winter. This clock gets about as many "Ahs!" and "Ohs!" from tourists as does the Grand Canyon. It was built in 1961, and has been keeping accurate time ever since, despite snow and ice, rain and wind.

Vance got into the "living" clock business quite by accident when St. Louis' city floriculturist suggested a garden clock for the city's biggest park, and told Vance to design and build one. It was quite a task and presented untold problems. However, Vance got the clock built finally, and it was such a huge success that he soon was building another, this one for a cemetery.

"Living" clocks aren't too numerous. Large ones like this are to be found only in Washington, Detroit, and on the estate of Mme. Ganna Walska near Santa Barbara, Calif. Another is in the process of being built for the forthcoming Oregon Centennial exposition in Portland, Ore., and, when completed, will be 32 feet in diameter—the largest in the world.

• • •

VANCE is one of the few clockmakers in the country who has learned the art of building "living" clocks. It's quite a task. First, the clock mechanism must be buried in the ground. That means water-tight concrete, so the electrical units do not short-circuit by dampness. Then there is the problem of rust, and landshift. If the sub-soil shifts, even a tiny bit, it disturbs the mechanism, and the clock stops entirely, or doesn't keep accurate time.

• • •

MOST of the garden clocks are set at an incline, to give the viewer better vision. So the hands "run uphill" in part of their cycle, and compensation must be made for this in the mechanism. Hands must be rugged, for often small children climb upon them in their play.

Numerals are generally made of concrete. Vance leaves the landscaping up to the owner, but here, too, he has suggestions to make as to the best types of flowers and shrubs to plant.

Needless to say, his clocks, during the growing season, are the target for many a photographer whose camera is loaded with color film.

• • •

VANCE, like most men in his trade, is called to rooftops, to church belfries, to the top of huge display signs—any place, in fact, where clocks are to be repaired or replaced. Some clocks, like those in the towers of railway stations and at airports, must be precision instruments that keep to-the-second time in all kinds of weather.

Vance has built special equipment into these clocks to offset the possibility of current interruption during storm or catastrophe. He has climbed into church steeples to change old weight-type clocks to electrical units, to repair chimes, or reactivate chimes that have gone silent.

Clocks, like all things mechanical, often need attention, but the fact still remains that there are very few men in the country who follow this trade. Accordingly, Vance is a very busy person.

Some of the clocks in church belfries are old—very old, in fact. Their mechanisms are crude, but strangely most of them are so well made that they run, year after year, if kept in proper repair.

Strangely, Vance never wears a watch. You guessed it: he tells the time by watching clocks!

270,000 Now Study Physics At 6:30 a. m. Daily on TV

NEW YORK (AP) — As best everyone can figure out there are now about 270,000 persons throughout the country tuning their TV sets at 6:30 a.m. (local time) five mornings a week to NBC-TV stations for a course in physics.

"Continental Classroom" is the name of the Monday through Friday series whose co-partners are NBC, the American Assn. of Colleges for Teacher Education and the Fund for the Advancement of Education.

Dr. Harvey E. White, who is conducting the course, said the other day that besides about 5,000 students enlisted in the TV course for regular credits from 250 colleges and universities, mail about the series is pouring in from viewers who include teachers, technicians, advanced students, housewives "and just about everybody."

Dr. White, professor of physics at the University of California at Berkeley and consultant to the Atomic Energy Commission, said that "one of the most significant things to me is the large numbers of youngsters between the ages of 6 and 14 who regularly watch the program.

"Probably most of them can't work the problems which we pose. But in the long run this group of young viewers may be the most important contribution of 'Continental Classroom,' since it is influencing them to take an interest in scientific careers at an early age."

The variety of viewers is surprising. In Montclair, N.J., a high school class gathers at 6:30 a.m. each morning to take the course. Not long ago, when the lights were turned on after the program was over, teacher and students found an elderly couple sitting in the back of the room.

The man explained that they watched the program every morning and that their set had gone on the blink the night before. So—

Republicans To Select 1960 Convention Site

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans will meet in Des Moines, Iowa, next month to pick a 1960 convention site and start working on that year's election campaign.

Clocks That Live – A St. Louisan's Art

This living clock is in Forest park, St. Louis, and is the marvel of tourists—and natives!

By GROVER BRINKMAN
Central Press Association Correspondent

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—If ever you decide you need a clock in your garden, high above an office building, or in a moving van, the man to see is a native St. Louisan, Russell Vance.

Vance is nationally known for his "living" clocks. The one illustrated here is in Forest park, St. Louis, and its face is 25 feet from the numeral 12 to the numeral 6, while the minute hand is 11 feet long. The mechanism is buried underground, and an electric motor drives the huge hands.

The face of the clock is floricultural art, a riot of color in summer, vivid greens and browns in winter. This clock gets about as many "Ahs!" and "Ohs!" from tourists as does the Grand Canyon. It was built in 1961, and has been keeping accurate time ever since, despite snow and ice, rain and wind.

Vance got into the "living" clock business quite by accident when St. Louis' city floriculturist suggested a garden clock for the city's biggest park, and told Vance to design and build one. It was quite a task and presented untold problems. However, Vance got the clock built finally, and it was such a huge success that he soon was building another, this one for a cemetery.

"Living" clocks aren't too numerous. Large ones like this are to be found only in Washington, Detroit, and on the estate of Mme. Ganna Walska near Santa Barbara, Calif. Another is in the process of being built for the forthcoming Oregon Centennial exposition in Portland, Ore., and, when completed, will be 32 feet in diameter—the largest in the world.

* * *

VANCE is one of the few clockmakers in the country who has learned the art of building "living" clocks. It's quite a task. First, the clock mechanism must be buried in the ground. That means water-tight concrete, so the electrical units do not short-circuit by dampness. Then there is the problem of rust, and landshift. If the sub-soil shifts, even a tiny bit, it disturbs the mechanism, and the clock stops entirely, or doesn't keep accurate time.

* * *

MOST of the garden clocks are set at an incline, to give the viewer better vision. So the hands "run uphill" in part of their cycle, and compensation must be made for this in the mechanism. Hands must be rugged, for often small children climb upon them in their play.

Numerals are generally made of concrete. Vance leaves the landscaping up to the owner, but here, too, he has suggestions to make as to the best types of flowers and shrubs to plant.

Needless to say, his clocks, during the growing season, are the target for many a photographer whose camera is loaded with color film.

* * *

VANCE, like most men in his trade, is called to rooftops, to church belfries, to the top of huge display signs—any place, in fact, where clocks are to be repaired or replaced. Some clocks, like those in the towers of railway stations and at airports, must be precision instruments that keep to-the-second time in all kinds of weather.

Vance has built special equipment into these clocks to offset the possibility of current interruption during storm or catastrophe. He has climbed into church steeples to change old weight-type clocks to electrical units, to repair chimes, or reactivate chimes that have gone silent.

Clocks, like all things mechanical, often need attention, but the fact still remains that there are very few men in the country who follow this trade. Accordingly, Vance is a very busy person.

Some of the clocks in church belfries are old—very old, in fact. Their mechanisms are crude, but strangely most of them are so well made that they run, year after year, if kept in proper repair.

Strangely, Vance never wears a watch. You guessed it: he tells the time by watching clocks!

270,000 Now Study Physics At 6:30 a. m. Daily on TV

NEW YORK (AP) — As best everyone can figure out there are now about 270,000 persons throughout the country tuning their TV sets at 6:30 a.m. (local time) five mornings a week to NBC-TV stations for a course in physics.

"Continental Classroom" is the name of the Monday through Friday series whose co-partners are NBC, the American Assn. of Colleges for Teacher Education and the Fund for the Advancement of Education.

Dr. Harvey E. White, who is conducting the course, said the other day that besides about 5,000 students enlisted in the TV course for regular credits from 250 colleges and universities, mail about the series is pouring in from viewers who include teachers, technicians, advanced students, housewives "and just about everybody."

Dr. White, professor of physics at the University of California at Berkeley and consultant to the Atomic Energy Commission, said that "one of the most significant things to me is the large numbers of youngsters between the ages of 6 and 14 who regularly watch the program.

"Probably most of them can't work the problems which we pose. But in the long run this group of young viewers may be the most important contribution of 'Continental Classroom,' since it is influencing them to take an interest in scientific careers at an early age."

The variety of viewers is surprising. In Montclair, N.J., a high school class gathers at 6:30 a.m. each morning to take the course. Not long ago, when the lights were turned on after the program was over, teacher and students found an elderly couple sitting in the back of the room.

The man explained that they watched the program every morning and that their set had gone on the blink the night before. So—

In Dr. White's words, "this program shows that there's an appreciative audience for education on television."

10 Top News Stories of U. S. Business Listed

Analyst Notes Many Financial Reports On Page 1 in 1958

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — This year has been packed with business and financial news stories that landed on front pages. In one man's opinion the 10 commanding most reader interest are these:

1. The Wall Street bulls. The persistent rise in stock prices during the recession puzzled many. The sharp break in November frightened some. But the rise since then is now exciting many who rarely get into the market. Although profits and dividends haven't justified the market, many buyers apparently are acting out of inflation fears.

2. The recession-recovery story. The sharpest postwar break in the economy and the speediest recovery first disturbed and then heartened the public. The recovery still leaves the jobless total stubbornly high.

3. Inflation present and future. The rising cost of living took front page space in the first half of the year. The fear that the present levelling off might be short lived worries many as the year ends. The steel, aluminum and auto industries raised wages and then prices. The Federal Reserve Board eased credit while the recession was still on, then tightened up fast to keep the recovery within bounds.

4. Passing of many corporate traditions. American Telephone & Telegraph raised its dividend after 36 years and split its stock three for one. The A. & P. listed voting common stock on the New York Stock Exchange after years of all-family control. The House of Morgan will merge with the Guaranty Trust Co. of New York, changing its name as it becomes the nation's fourth largest bank.

5. The bond market. U.S. securities broke sharply, burning the fingers of many speculators and embarrassing the Treasury. The Federal Reserve came to the rescue to stabilize the market, but bond prices stayed low and yields higher than for many blue chip common stocks.

6. Uncle Sam's red ink. Record peacetime spending and recession-hit tax collections sent the Treasury deficit to around 12 billion dollars. It made the Treasury squirm as it raised money to meet its bills and it started the White House to talking about government economy again. After the Democrats swept the elections the Republicans talked loudly of the prospects of another government spending spree.

7. The Detroit story. Most of the year was drab for the auto industry, and many Americans judge the economy by what happens in Detroit. Foreign cars and American Motors Rambler did record business. At year end Detroit was gloating over rising sales of its 1959 models.

8. Consumers hailed as heroes. They didn't panic in the recession and they didn't go hog wild in the recovery. Spending dipped slightly as unemployment rose, but still stayed comfortingly high and at year end was on the upgrade.

9. Brinkmanship. The stock and commodity markets gyrated briefly as the United States became involved in crises in Lebanon, Quemoy and Berlin. Business planners kept a cautious eye on all the international developments — including the missile race. Defense is a business item as well as a military one.

10. A steel merger kayoed. A federal court said Bethlehem and Youngstown Sheet & Tube couldn't merge, possibly opening a new policy on mergers and antitrust actions by the federal government whose effects could be wide spread.

BLAMES VIC'S JEALOUSY—Actress Pier Angeli, 26, is shown in Santa Monica, Calif., court as she won a divorce from Vic Damone on grounds that he is "insanely jealous." She gets custody of their child, $500 a month alimony and 25 per cent of Vic's gross income up to $1,000 a year till Oct. 31, 1960.

Ingrid Bergman Wed 3rd Time

Wealthy Swede, Star Secluded Near Paris

By JOHN GALE

LONDON (AP) — Ingrid Bergman eluded press and public Sunday to marry wealthy Swedish businessman Lars Schmidt in a quiet civil ceremony.

The Swedish actress, 42, and her third husband, 41, flew off to Paris and went into seclusion before the world found out they had been married in London's Caxton Hall registry office.

The couple apparently were honeymooning at Schmidt's country home 15 miles outside Paris.

In marrying again, Miss Bergman defied the Rome Court of Appeal which is considering a state prosecutor's contest of a lower Rome court's decree annulling her marriage to Italian film director Roberto Rossellini.

She had announced months ago that she would wed Schmidt when she was free from Rossellini. At a hearing last Friday in Rome her attorney was warned that remarriage before the appeal court's decision "would be highly detrimental to her case." Another hearing is scheduled Feb. 3.

The actress' London attorney, Ambrose Appelbe, said the appeal against the annulment "is just a put-up job" and that her new marriage is legal in Sweden, Britain and France.

Under Italian law, the annullment is not legally effective until the appeal is decided. The state prosecutor said previously he would file bigamy charges if either Miss Bergman or Rossellini married before the case was settled.

Schmidt is the son of a retired Swedish army officer. He has been married, but was divorced six or seven years ago. He has been Miss Bergman's constant companion since she and Rossellini separated.

Miss Bergman's first husband was Dr. Peter Lindstrom, whom she married before her Hollywood success and by whom she had a daughter, Jenny Ann, now 20.

In 1949, at the peak of her American movie career, the actress went to Italy to make "Stromboli" for Rossellini. Their romance developed and she obtained a proxy divorce from Lindstrom Feb. 9, 1950, seven days after the birth of Robertino, her son by Rossellini.

Miss Bergman and Rossellini were married three months later.

Rossellini asked for annullment of the marriage a year ago. Miss Bergman did not contest the suit.

Santa and the ELF BOY

by LUCRECE HUDGINS BEALE

SYNOPSIS: The Hag tells Esteban that if he will take her back to earth from the moon, she will give him a powder that will awaken the professor's spell-bound wife. But as they prepare to leave, the Man in the Moon stops them.

CHAPTER SIXTEEN

"I am sorry," said the Man in the Moon as he blocked Esteban's path. "I cannot let you go."

Esteban fell back in alarm. "What?" he cried. "Why would you hold us here?"

The old man smiled gently. "I will not keep you long,' he said sadly. "Only long enough for me to feast my eyes once more on this beautiful vision." He peered with adoring eyes at the Hang-dog Hag.

"Me?" cackled the Hag in astonishment. "You mean I am beautiful?"

"To me, you are lovely," said the old man. "If only you would be my bride. This old moon would never be lonely again."

"Me? A bride?" she gasped.

Esteban plucked at the Hag's arm. "Com let us hurry!"

But the Hag shook him off and stood gazing at the old man. "No creature—man or beast—has called me beautiful before," she whispered. "I will stay and be his bride."

Then the Hag and the Man in the Moon fell joyfully into one another's arms. So happy were they with each other they scarcely looked up when Esteban waved farewell and sped away in his sleigh.

On the long trip back to earth Esteban never stopped urging on the deer. "Faster! Faster! Faster!" And the deer obeyed so well that in no time at all they were back in Santa Land.

The anxious fairy folk swarmed around him.

"It's done!" cried Esteban holding up the little box.

"I have the powder to break the spell!"

Then they all cheered mightly and Santa said, "It is Christmas Eve. My bag is packed. Come, Esteban, we will leave at once."

And once again the sleigh, heavy with gifts, took off into the sky. The exhausted reindeer held their heads high and shook their antlers gaily.

Esteban flung the powder on the beautiful woman's eyelids.

At last they swept down over a sleeping town. As they passed the town hall they could see the clock in the steeple. A quarter to midnight. In fifteen minutes it would be Christmas Day.

Gently the sleigh landed on the roof of the great white castle. As it did so a strange thing happened. A hawk who had been sleeping in his nest on the roof awoke and took off in flight. Then a little blue bird shook herself free of the nest and hopped to the sleigh.

"It's my blue bird!" cried Esteban, picking up the bird. "We've saved her anyway!" He gave the bird to Santa and then he climbed into the nearest chimney.

A second later he popped out in Charlotte's room. The little girl looked up in astonishment when he appeared.

"Esteban!" She cried. "Where have you been?"

Esteban put his hand over her mouth. "I'll tell you all later. Are you locked in?"

"Oh, no! My father said if I tried to get anyone to stop him the same thing would happen to that one as happened to you. So I promised I wouldn't bother him again. But, oh, Esteban, he is in his room now waiting for midnight to release the gas!"

"Go to him at once!" cried Esteban rushing out the door. "Implore him to come to the room where the sleeping women lies just once before he releases the gas!"

Charlotte flew through the corridors to do his bidding while he himself raced up the stairs to the room where the beautiful woman lay.

He opened the little box and, taking out a pinch of white powder, flung the powder on the closed eyelids.

There was a gentle movement on the bed and the sleeping woman opened her eyes.

For a long moment she and Esteban gazed at one another and then she sat up and said. "Where is my husband? Where is my own darling child?"

Paradise Island-No Cops, Cars, Taxes

By ARTHUR SCHOLES

SYDNEY, Australia — Only 436 miles across the Pacific, northwest from here, lies an island paradise.

Tourists can bake on the beach all the year round,fish, walk, swim, eat ripe tropical fruit, climb palm trees, buy a beer, sleep, laugh and dance.

The name of the unbelievable place is Lord Howe island, a seven hour flight from Australian mainland. The island has no police force and is governed by a three-man board of control.

The island with an area of 3,220 acres, was first found on March 13, 1788, when Lt. Henry Lidgbird Ball took possession of it in the name of his majesty King George III of England. Lieutenant Ball named the island after first lord of the admiralty, Lord Howe.

The island returned to isolation until 1834 when three Europeans from New Zealanders and their Maori wives, and two Maori boys settled there. Lured to the romantic island in seach of solitude, they were soon followed by two Sydney businessmen anxious to excape the "fast" tempo of life a century ago.

* * *

THE BUSINESSMEN offered the first settlers 1,120 Spanish dollars for their interest in the island. The New Zealanders fell for the lure, and the newcomers were left sole inhabitants of the Pacific island utopia.

Even to this day the island has never had a jail. The 200 odd peole who live on the island own none of the land an pay no rent. In true romantic tradition, no one is allowed to take permanent residence unless he is related to the original settlers.

Lord Howe island is one place in the world where time does not matter. Tourists stay in guest houses, paying $35 a week for full board.

There are no frost on the island. In midwinter the night temperature never falls below 50 degrees. In the summer it rises to 80 degrees and invariably a cool sea breeze arises in the evening.

* * *

THERE IS NO traffic on the island. There are not many roads, and the only vehicles are utilities run by the guest houses and storekeeper. The islanders employ horse drawn sleighs for the transport of goods. No street lights mar the beauty of the moonlit nights.

A daily tariff of 10 cents is levied on visitors by the island's control board to run amenities and supply essential services such as light, power and water.

Each year 3,000 visitors go to the island to "get away from it all." No saronged beauties greet them, but the climate is so wonderful that visitors clamber up the palm trees for exercise.

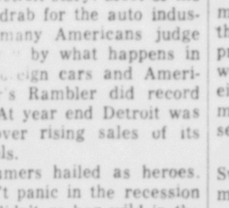

The board of control sells liquor to visitors. A doctor and two-bed hospital are maintained, but seldom required.

How do you get to this one-spot-in-the-world? By bi-weekly plane from Sydney.

Twenty million pounds of rock have to be processed to find one pound of diamonds.

Antarctica, the fifth largest continent, is two-thirds unexplored territory.

10 Top News Stories of U. S. Business Listed

Analyst Notes Many Financial Reports On Page 1 in 1958

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — This year has been packed with business and financial news stories that landed on front pages. In one man's opinion the 10 commanding most reader interest are these:

1. The Wall Street bulls. The persistent rise in stock prices during the recession puzzled many. The sharp break in November frightened some. But the rise since then is now exciting many who rarely get into the market. Although profits and dividends haven't justified the market, many buyers apparently are acting out of inflation fears.

2. The recession-recovery story. The sharpest postwar break in the economy and the speediest recovery first disturbed and then heartened the public. The recovery still leaves the jobless total stubbornly high.

3. Inflation present and future. The rising cost of living took front page space in the first half of the year. The fear that the present levelling off might be short lived worries many as the year ends. The steel, aluminum and auto industries raised wages and then prices. The Federal Reserve Board eased credit while the recession was still on, then tightened up fast to keep the recovery within bounds.

4. Passing of many corporate traditions. American Telephone & Telegraph raised its dividend after 36 years and split its stock three for one. The A. & P. listed voting common stock on the New York Stock Exchange after years of all-family control. The House of Morgan will merge with the Guaranty Trust Co. of New York, changing its name as it becomes the nation's fourth largest bank.

5. The bond market. U.S. securities broke sharply, burning the fingers of many speculators and embarrassing the Treasury. The Federal Reserve came to the rescue to stabilize the market, but bond prices stayed low and yields higher than for many blue chip common stocks.

6. Uncle Sam's red ink. Record peacetime spending and recession-hit tax collections sent the Treasury deficit to around 12 billion dollars. It made the Treasury squirm as it raised money to meet its bills and it started the White House to talking about government economy again. After the Democrats swept the elections the Republicans talked loudly of the prospects of another government spending spree.

7. The Detroit story. Most of the year was drab for the auto industry, and many Americans judge the economy by what happens in Detroit. Foreign cars and American Motors Rambler did record business. At year end Detroit was gloating over rising sales of its 1959 models.

8. Consumers hailed as heroes. They didn't panic in the recession and they didn't go hog wild in the recovery. Spending dipped slightly as unemployment rose, but still stayed comfortingly high and at year end was on the upgrade.

9. Brinkmanship. The stock and commodity markets gyrated briefly as the United States became involved in crises in Lebanon, Quemoy and Berlin. Business planners kept a cautious eye on all the international developments — including the missile race. Defense is a business item as well as a military one.

10. A steel merger kayoed. A federal court said Bethlehem and Youngstown Sheet & Tube couldn't merge, possibly opening a new policy on mergers and antitrust actions by the federal government whose effects could be wide spread.

BLAMES VIC'S JEALOUSY—Actress Pier Angeli, 26, is shown in Santa Monica, Calif., court as she won a divorce from Vic Damone on grounds that he is "insanely jealous." She gets custody of their child, $500 a month alimony and 25 per cent of Vic's gross income up to $1,000 a year till Oct. 31, 1960.

Ingrid Bergman Wed 3rd Time

Wealthy Swede, Star Secluded Near Paris

By JOHN GALE

LONDON (AP) — Ingrid Bergman eluded press and public Sunday to marry wealthy Swedish businessman Lars Schmidt in a quiet civil ceremony.

The Swedish actress, 42, and her third husband, 41, flew off to Paris and went into seclusion before the world found out they had been married in London's Caxton Hall registry office.

The couple apparently were honeymooning at Schmidt's country home 15 miles outside Paris.

In marrying again, Miss Bergman defied the Rome Court of Appeal which is considering a state prosecutor's contest of a lower Rome court's decree annulling her marriage to Italian film director Roberto Rossellini.

She had announced months ago that she would wed Schmidt when she was free from Rossellini. At a hearing last Friday in Rome her attorney was warned that remarriage before the appeal court's decision "would be highly detrimental to her case." Another hearing is scheduled Feb. 3.

The actress' London attorney, Ambrose Appelbe, said the appeal against the annulment "is just a put-up job" and that her new marriage is legal in Sweden, Britain and France.

Under Italian law, the annullment is not legally effective until the appeal is decided. The state prosecutor said previously he would file bigamy charges if either Miss Bergman or Rossellini married before the case was settled.

Schmidt is the son of a retired Swedish army officer. He has been married, but was divorced six or seven years ago. He has been Miss Bergman's constant companion since she and Rossellini separated.

Miss Bergman's first husband was Dr. Peter Lindstrom, whom she married before her Hollywood success and by whom she had a daughter, Jenny Ann, now 20.

In 1949, at the peak of her American movie career, the actress went to Italy to make "Stromboli" for Rossellini. Their romance developed and she obtained a proxy divorce from Lindstrom Feb. 9, 1950, seven days after the birth of Robertino, her son by Rossellini.

Miss Bergman and Rossellini were married three months later.

Rossellini asked for annullment of the marriage a year ago. Miss Bergman did not contest the suit.

Santa and the ELF BOY

by LUCRECE HUDGINS BEALE

SYNOPSIS: The Hag tells Esteban that if he will take her back to earth from the moon, she will give him a powder that will awaken the professor's spell-bound wife. But as they prepare to leave, the Man in the Moon stops them.

CHAPTER SIXTEEN

"I am sorry," said the Man in the Moon as he blocked Esteban's path. "I cannot let you go."

Esteban fell back in alarm. "What?" he cried. "Why would you hold us here?"

The old man smiled gently. "I will not keep you long,' he said sadly. "Only long enough for me to feast my eyes once more on this beautiful vision." He peered with adoring eyes at the Hang-dog Hag.

"Me?" cackled the Hag in astonishment. "You mean I am beautiful?".

"To me, you are lovely," said the old man. "If only you would be my bride. This old moon would never be lonely again."

"Me? A bride?" she gasped.

Esteban plucked at the Hag's arm. "Com let us hurry!"

But the Hag shook him off and stood gazing at the old man. "No creature—man or beast—has called me beautiful before," she whispered. "I will stay and be his bride."

Then the Hag and the Man in the Moon fell joyfully into one another's arms. So happy were they with each other they scarcely looked up when Esteban waved farewell and sped away in his sleigh.

On the long trip back to earth Esteban never stopped urging on the deer. "Faster! Faster! Faster!" And the deer obeyed so well that in no time at all they were back in Santa Land.

The anxious fairy folk swarmed around him.

"It's done!" cried Esteban holding up the little box.

"I have the powder to break the spell!"

Then they all cheered mightly and Santa said, "It is Christmas Eve. My bag is packed. Come, Esteban, we will leave at once."

And once again the sleigh, heavy with gifts, took off into the sky. The exhausted reindeer held their heads high and shook their antlers gaily.

Esteban flung the powder on the beautiful woman's eyelids.

At last they swept down over a sleeping town. As they passed the town hall they could see the clock in the steeple. A quarter to midnight. In fifteen minutes it would be Christmas Day.

Gently the sleigh landed on the roof of the great white castle. As it did so a strange thing happened. A hawk who had been sleeping in his nest on the roof awoke and took off in flight. Then a little blue bird shook herself free of the nest and hopped to the sleigh.

"It's my blue bird!" cried Esteban, picking up the bird. "We've saved her anyway!" He gave the bird to Santa and then he climbed into the nearest chimney.

A second later he popped out in Charlotte's room. The little girl looked up in astonishment when he appeared.

"Esteban!" She cried. "Where have you been?"

Esteban put his hand over her mouth. "I'll tell you all later. Are you locked in?"

"Oh, no! My father said if I tried to get anyone to stop him the same thing would happen to that one as happened to you. So I promised I wouldn't bother him again. But, oh, Esteban, he is in his room now waiting for midnight to release the gas!"

"Go to him at once!" cried Esteban rushing out the door. "Implore him to come to the room where the sleeping women lies just once before he releases the gas!"

Charlotte flew through the corridors to do his bidding while he himself raced up the stairs to the room where the beautiful woman lay.

He opened the little box and, taking out a pinch of white powder, flung the powder on the closed eyelids.

There was a gentle movement on the bed and the sleeping woman opened her eyes.

For a long moment she and Esteban gazed at one another and then she sat up and said. "Where is my husband? Where is my own darling child?"

Paradise Island-No Cops, Cars, Taxes

By ARTHUR SCHOLES

SYDNEY, Australia — Only 436 miles across the Pacific, northwest from here, lies an island paradise.

Tourists can bake on the beach all the year round,fish, walk, swim, eat ripe tropical fruit, climb palm trees, buy a beer, sleep, laugh and dance.

The name of the unbelievable place is Lord Howe island, a seven hour flight from Australian mainland. The island has no police force and is governed by a three-man board of control.

The island with an area of 3,220 acres, was first found on March 13, 1788, when Lt. Henry Lidgbird Ball took possession of it in the name of his majesty King George III of England. Lieutenant Ball named the island after first lord of the admiralty, Lord Howe.

The island returned to isolation until 1834 when three Europeans from New Zealanders and their Maori wives, and two Maori boys settled there. Lured to the romantic island in seach of solitude, they were soon followed by two Sydney businessmen anxious to excape the "fast" tempo of life a century ago.

* * *

THE BUSINESSMEN offered the first settlers 1,120 Spanish dollars for their interest in the island. The New Zealanders fell for the lure, and the newcomers were left sole inhabitants of the Pacific island utopia.

Even to this day the island has never had a jail. The 200 odd peoole who live on the island own none of the land an pay no rent. In true romantic tradition, no one is allowed to take permanent residence unless he is related to the original settlers.

Lord Howe island is one place in the world where time does not matter. Tourists stay in guest houses, paying $35 a week for full board.

There are no frost on the island. In midwinter the night temperature never falls below 50 degrees. In the summer it rises to 80 degrees and invariably a cool sea breeze arises in the evening.

* * *

THERE IS NO traffic on the island. There are not many roads, and the only vehicles are utilities run by the guest houses and storekeeper. The islanders employ horse drawn sleighs for the transport of goods. No street lights mar the beauty of the moonlit nights.

A daily tariff of 10 cents is levied on visitors by the island's control board to run amenities and supply essential services such as light, power and water.

Each year 3,000 visitors go to the island to "get away from it all." No saronged beauties greet them, but the climate is so wonderful that visitors clamber up the palm trees for exercise.

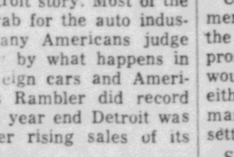

The board of control sells liquor to visitors. A doctor and two-bed hospital are maintained, but seldom required.

How do you get to this one-spot-in-the-world? By bi-weekly plane from Sydney.

Twenty million pounds of rock have to be processed to find one pound of diamonds.

Antarctica, the fifth largest continent, is two-thirds unexplored territory.

WAITRESS ACCUSES POLICEMEN OF ATTACK — Here are the principals in the bizarre Detroit case in which Mrs. Ogene Griffith charges that two policemen halted her car as she was driving home from her waitress job, ordered her to follow them, led her to an empty parking lot and criminally attacked her. She said she submitted "because they were cops. If I screamed, who'd answer? Just another policeman!"

Kerosene Can Be Killer; Remember 37 Years Ago?

By B. E. KELLEY

Starting a fire with kerosene is always fraught with grave danger, and there have been many stories written of deaths which have occurred in this community from this cause.

It will soon be 37 years since one of the Fayette County's worst tragedies occurred on the N. S. Tway farm, now the Lee Cleland farm, on the Brock (or Woods) Rd. in Paint Township, two miles northwest of Yatesville.

The tragedy was caused by a man starting a fire with a can of kerosene, which exploded. Seven people were burned to death.

The charred bodies of six of them were placed in a single coffin and burial made in a still - unmarked grave in the "Potter's Field" or public tract at the southeast corner of Washington Cemetery.

* * *

THE SEVENTH victim, who lingered in great agony for 48 hours, is in an unmarked grave beside the rest of the family— wife, four children and a blind uncle.

It was one of those rare instances in which the remains of six persons were placed in a single casket and buried in one grave.

The tragedy occurred early on Sunday morning, Jan. 23, 1921, when James Adkins, 43, attempted to start a fire in a heating stove.

The liquid ignited, the can exploded, and the burning fluid was scattered over the room, enveloping his 32-year-old wife, Rosa, and three - weeks - old daughter, Freeda Lois, who were in a bed in the room. The flames quickly spread throughout the four - room cottage, trapping and burning to death Walter Bennett, 70, a blind uncle of Mrs. Adkins, and three children in upstairs rooms— Grace 14; Cleona, 10 and Naoma Ruth, 4.

Adkins was enveloped in flames and ran screaming from the house, thinly clad, and rolled in the mud to extinguish the fire.

* * *

NEARLY two score people were standing about when I arrived. The natural question was why had someone not drowned the flames which were still consuming the bodies.

"We could not do anything until the coroner arrived" said one man, whereupon, accompanied by Robert Harper, who was a cub on the Herald staff at the time, we obtained a metal washtub from the well - curb, pumped water and carried tub after tub full of water until we had the blaze extinguished around the bodies. All were so badly charred that they bore no resemblance to human beings.

I saw where Adkins, in rushing from the house, had fallen and had plunged one hand deep in the mud. The burned skin left in the mud much resembled a rubber glove.

The prints of his bare feet were in the mud nearby.

Although suffering excruciating pain Adkins had grabbed a stick and had broken a front window in an effort to reach members of his family. But he was driven back by a burst of flame.

By that time the whole interior of the four - room house was a mass of fire, so he started running to the home of Weller Montgomery, nearly a third of a mile distant, leaving fragments of charred flesh and skin on the wire fences he climbed.

* * *

REACHING the neighbor's home he fell inside the kitchen door, screaming:

"My family is burning up! My family is burning up." Looking across to the Adkins home Montgomery realized that those inside must be beyond help, so he gave first aid to Adkins, and summed Dr. E. B. Meade of Sedalia.

Adkins was brought to Cherry Hill Hospital here and died two days later.

* * *

IN THE MEANTIME the bodies of the six victims were placed as in a large basket and were later transferred to a plain wooden coffin and burial was made the following afternoon.

The services were brief and simple. There were no flowers, and only a few relatives assembled for the extraordinary rites.

Two days later Adkins was buried beside the others, and down through the years the graves have gone without markers of any kind.

TRAGEDY STALKED HERE--It looks peaceful and quiet enough now, but this was the scene of one of Fayette County's worst tragedies 37 years ago. Seven people burned to death in a cottage which stood in left foreground, when George Adkins kindled a fire with kerosene. Six charred bodies were buried in one casket in a single grave in Washington Cemetery.

38 Stills Found In Ohio in 1958

CLEVELAND (AP)—Last October more illegal liquor stills were confiscated in Ohio than in West Virginia which long has been a butt of jokes and cartoons on the bottling of "mountain dew."

Ohio liquor law enforcement agents this year have uncovered 38 stills—exceeding by three a record that stood for 10 years.

Five stills were turned up in October in Ohio, and only four in West Virginia, although neighboring Pennsylvania had six. The national total for that month was 810, with more than half of them in three states—North Carolina 187, South Carolina 119, and Alabama 102.

Until the law moves in moonshine manufacturing is a profitable business. There is no $10.50 a gallon federal tax on homemade corn liquor, and no $1.50 state tax. Moonshiners need not pay any attention to building codes or to supervision which costs licensed distillers a tidy sum.

Good homemade hootch can fetch $5 a pint in a Sunday or after-hours sale and through the week brings as much as $3.75 a pint and up.

"The point is that the stuff is pretty high proof and is usually intended to be cut by addition of distilled water," explains Michael T. Corsaro, Cleveland district liquor enforcement agent in charge.

"While you do pay top price for it you get your money's worth by cutting it and increasing the liquid volume.

"Some of this stuff is exceptionally good. We confiscated some corn in Portsmouth, and, by golly, it tested every bit as good as the legal whisky . . .

In Cleveland and environs stills have been found in basements, attics, upstairs apartments, garages, barns, wooden lots—nearly every conceivable place.

The old copper still with coils is a rare find today. Usually operators employ 50-gallon oil drums and any kind of metal tubing they can find. It has been many months since any 200 and 300-gallon stills have been uncovered.

A 50-gallon oil-drum still found here recently operated on a cycle that produced 20 gallons of high proof moonshine every five days from the 50 gallons of mash.

The mash—a mixture of corn, sugar and water—is heated and then permitted to work for about a month before it is poured into the still and heated to boiling. Alcoholic spirits vaporize and condense in the tubes and filter into containers.

"About the best filter for liquor is a felt hat," Corsaro said. "It is amazing, but the felt does about as good a job as can be done."

Keeping this kind of an operation secret from the law is no mean problem. The souring mash smells strongly, alerting neighbors and inquisitive peace officers.

"Sometimes the operators sprinkle sugar on the top of the mash to hold the odor in, but it doesn't work too well," Corsaro said.

The canning industry was born during the Napoleonic wars out of the armies' need for food that would not spoil.

Stumbling Buckeye Cagers Hope for Win over Utah '5'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State, hoping to bounce back into the win column after two setbacks at Lexington over the weekend, hosts Utah tonight in the friendly confines of St. John Arena.

The Buckeyes were trounced Friday night by Kentucky in the latter's invitational tournament and then lost a disheartening contest to Oklahoma State Saturday for consolation honors.

Kentucky, which beat West Virginia for the tourney title, whipped Ohio 95-76. The Buckeyes staged a whirlwind finish against Oklahoma State coming from 13-points back at halftime before losing in overtime, 63-59.

The Bucks were two seconds away from victory when a little used Oklahoma State sophomore fired in a one-hander to force the game into overtime.

Coach Fred Taylor's team, now 1-4, heads a curtailed schedule of state activity this week. Most Ohio colleges are taking a two-week holiday.

The Buckeyes are in action again Saturday in a regionally televised afternoon contest against Princeton. The game starts at 4:30 p.m.

While Ohio was taking twin setbacks over the weekend, Cincinnati and Dayton kept their unbeaten records intact.

The top-ranked Bearcats (5-0) had to go all out before outlasting St. Louis 57-50 in a Missouri Valley conference tiff. Oscar Robertson flipped in 27 points, his lowest production of the season, but was impressive in other departments.

Dayton ran its mark to 6-0 with a 69-68 squeaker over Eastern Kentucky. Miami bottled up Pitt's high-scoring Don Hennon in the first half and breezed to an 88-75 win over the Panthers. Hennon scored 20 points, all in the second half, but by that time, Miami had the win locked up.

Ohio U.'s Bobcats, after winning their first three, snapped a two-game losing streak on the road with a 58-54 overtime decision over Cornell.

In other games Saturday, Dick Faul's 27 points paced Ohio Wesleyan to a 65-60 win over Buffalo State and Youngstown set a school scoring record with a 112-56 pasting of Marietta.

Other games this week find Xavier (5-0) at Marquette tonight; Akron hosts Seattle and Kent State visits Idaho Tuesday, and Miami journeys to Chicago for a game against DePaul Saturday.

Dayton ran its mark to 6-0 with a 69-68 squeaker over Eastern Kentucky. Miami bottled up Pitt's high-scoring Don Hennon in the first half and breezed to an 88-75 win over the Panthers. Hennon scored 20 points, all in the second half, but by that time, Miami had the win locked up.

Ohio U.'s Bobcats, after winning their first three, snapped a two-game losing streak on the road with a 58-54 overtime decision over Cornell.

In other games Saturday, Dick Faul's 27 points paced Ohio Wesleyan to a 65-60 win over Buffalo State and Youngstown set a school scoring record with a 112-56 pasting of Marietta.

Other games this week find Xavier (5-0) at Marquette tonight; Akron hosts Seattle and Kent State visits Idaho Tuesday, and Miami journeys to Chicago for a game against DePaul Saturday.

Gonzales Shows Drag Race Speed

SAN FERNANDO, Calif. (AP)—Tennis star Pancho Gonzales demonstrated his speed Sunday—but not on a court.

He reached 151.51 m.p.h. in a quarter-mile run down the San Fernando drag strip in his supercharged Cadillac—the second fastest clocking at the strip this year.

The drag strip is a paved section of roadway reserved for amateur auto racing.

38 Stills Found In Ohio in 1958

CLEVELAND (AP)—Last October more illegal liquor stills were confiscated in Ohio than in West Virginia which long has been a butt of jokes and cartoons on the bottling of "mountain dew."

Ohio liquor law enforcement agents this year have uncovered 38 stills—exceeding by three a record that stood for 10 years.

Five stills were turned up in October in Ohio, and only four in West Virginia, although neighboring Pennsylvania had six. The national total for that month was 810, with more than half of them in three states—North Carolina 187, South Carolina 119, and Alabama 102.

Until the law moves in moonshine manufacturing is a profitable business. There is no $10.50 a gallon federal tax on homemade corn liquor, and no $1.50 state tax. Moonshiners need not pay any attention to building codes or to supervision which costs licensed distillers a tidy sum.

Good homemade hootch can fetch $5 a pint in a Sunday or after-hours sale and through the week brings as much as $3.75 a pint and up.

"The point is that the stuff is pretty high proof and is usually intended to be cut by addition of distilled water," explains Michael T. Corsaro, Cleveland district liquor enforcement agent in charge.

"While you do pay top price for it you get your money's worth by cutting it and increasing the liquid volume.

"Some of this stuff is exceptionally good. We confiscated some corn in Portsmouth, and, by golly, it tested every bit as good as the legal whisky . . .

In Cleveland and environs stills have been found in basements, attics, upstairs apartments, garages, barns, wooden lots—nearly every conceivable place.

The old copper still with coils is a rare find today. Usually operators employ 50-gallon oil drums and any kind of metal tubing they can find. It has been many months since any 200 and 300-gallon stills have been uncovered.

A 50-gallon oil-drum still found here recently operated on a cycle that produced 20 gallons of high proof moonshine every five days from the 50 gallons of mash.

The mash—a mixture of corn, sugar and water—is heated and then permitted to work for about a month before it is poured into the still and heated to boiling. Alcoholic spirits vaporize and condense in the tubes and filter into containers.

"About the best filter for liquor is a felt hat," Corsaro said. "It is amazing, but the felt does about as good a job as can be done."

Keeping this kind of an operation secret from the law is no mean problem. The souring mash smells strongly, alerting neighbors and inquisitive peace officers.

"Sometimes the operators sprinkle sugar on the top of the mash to hold the odor in, but it doesn't work too well," Corsaro said.

The canning industry was born during the Napoleonic wars out of the armies' need for food that would not spoil.

Rose Ave. Pupils Give Operetta

Overflow Audience For Christmas Play

The story of the "Lost Doll" was told in music, dance and spoken word to an audience that overflowed the Rose Avenue School auditorium when the pupils gave their Christmas operetta before classes were ended for the holidays.

The presentation was directed by Mrs. George Pensyl, elementary school music teacher, assisted by the school's classroom teachers — and the mothers who made the colorful costumes.

The program opened with the Rev. Delbert Harper Jr. reading the "Christmas Story" and offering prayer.

The setting was the window of a big department store and the time Christmas Eve. The story was about a young mother who took her little daughter there to see all the things to be given by Santa to good little boys and girls on Christmas.

UNDER the store's new policy, the gift things were all brought into the window for the mother and daughter to see.

Barbara Merritt took the part of the mother and Mary Lou Forrest that of her little girl. Ricky Bell was the store's floorman and Connie Shonkwiler the personal shopper.

Every pupils in the school participated in one way or another in the operetta.

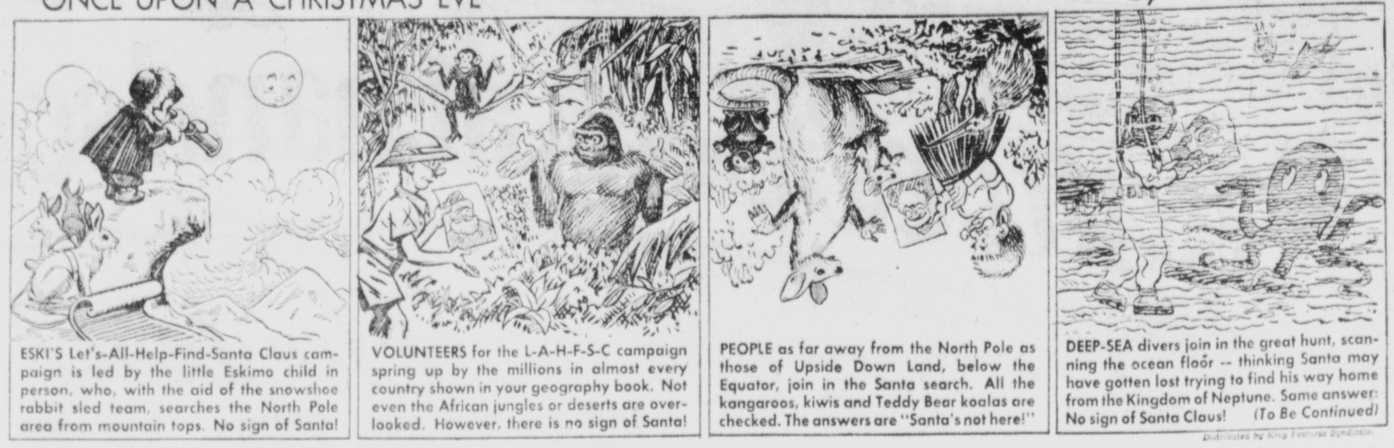

The shoppers were sixth grade pupils, the blocks were first graders; the bows and bells were second graders; the three bears were fourth graders; Goldilocks was played by Meda Leeth, the peppermine canes were fifth graders; the candles fourth graders and the Christmas trees third graders.

Boys and girls of the fourth, fifth and sixth grades sang carols to close the program and at their request, the audience joined with them.

The auditorium, which was formed by throwing the two new classrooms together by moving back the folding partition will accommodate between 150 to 200, but it was not big enough to hold everyone who came to see and hear, this first operetta in the school.

Ancient Norsemen thought that the lights of the aurora were the Valkyries riding their ghostly horses through the sky.

ONCE UPON A CHRISTMAS EVE — By WILLIAM RITT

ESKI'S Let's-All-Help-Find-Santa Claus campaign is led by the little Eskimo child in person, who, with the aid of the snowshoe rabbit sled team, searches the North Pole area from mountain tops. No sign of Santa!

VOLUNTEERS for the L-A-H-F-S-C campaign spring up by the millions in almost every country shown in your geography book. Not even the African jungles or deserts are overlooked. However, there is no sign of Santa!

PEOPLE as far away from the North Pole as those of Upside Down Land, below the Equator, join in the Santa search. All the kangaroos, kiwis and Teddy Bear koalas are checked. The answers are "Santa's not here!"

Welfare Office Able to Care For '58 Needs

The Fayette Count Department of Welfare, while not permitted under state regulations to make special Christmas donations, has been able to take care of all families which have applied for help when their applications have been found to be justified, throughout 1958.

It has funds sufficient to carry on normal relief for these families to the end of this year.

Departments in some Ohio counties have been out of money for some time and have called upon the public to help furnish relief to families during the Christmas season.

Of special help to the Welfare Department here has been $3,000 granted by the trustees of the Eyman Fund this year for clothing for needy children. Use of this fund during the year, Welfare Department officials say, has kept many families off the relief roll.

FOR SPECIAL Christmas treats, toys, baskets, and other help for many children and their families in this county, such organizations as the American Legion, various church groups and others, have taken up the work of providing a happier Christmas. Several hundred families within this city and county will benefit this year through the activities of these groups.

Rose Ave. Pupils Give Operetta

Overflow Audience For Christmas Play

The story of the "Lost Doll" was told in music, dance and spoken word to an audience that overflowed the Rose Avenue School auditorium when the pupils gave their Christmas operetta before classes were ended for the holidays.

The presentation was directed by Mrs. George Pensyl, elementary school music teacher, assisted by the school's classroom teachers — and the mothers who made the colorful costumes.

The program opened with the Rev. Delbert Harper Jr. reading the "Christmas Story" and offering prayer.

The setting was the window of a big department store and the time Christmas Eve. The story was about a young mother who took her little daughter there to see all the things to be given by Santa to good little boys and girls on Christmas.

UNDER the store's new policy, the gift things were all brought into the window for the mother and daughter to see.

Barbara Merritt took the part of the mother and Mary Lou Forrest that of her little girl. Ricky Bell was the store's floorman and Connie Shonkwiler the personal shopper.

Every pupils in the school participated in one way or another in the operetta.

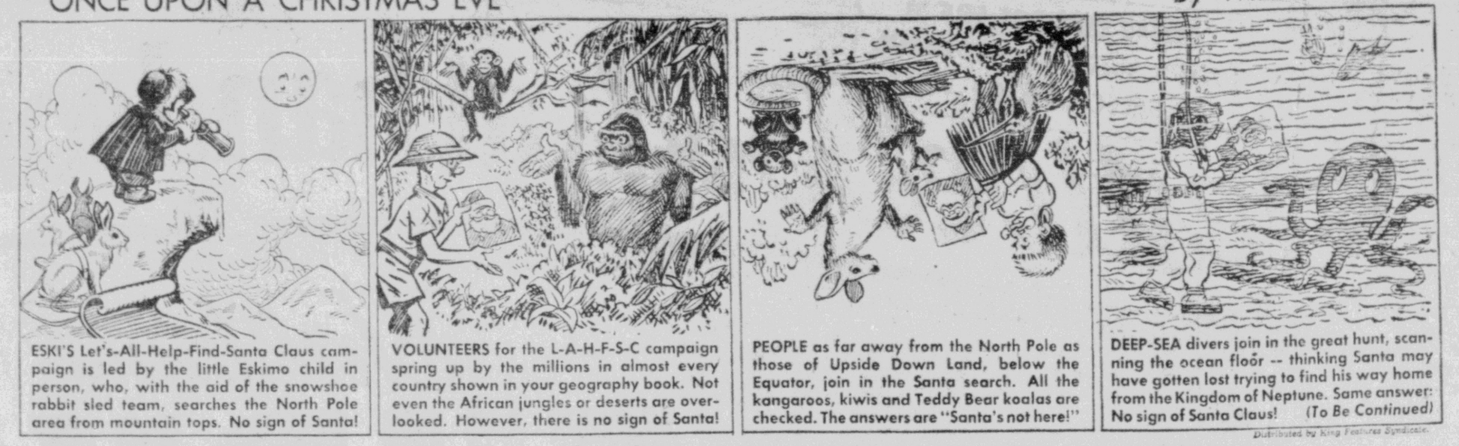

The shoppers were sixth grade pupils, the blocks were first graders; the bows and bells were second graders; the three bears were fourth graders; Goldilocks was played by Meda Leeth, the peppermine canes were fifth graders; the candles fourth graders and the Christmas trees third graders.

Boys and girls of the fourth, fifth and sixth grades sang carols to close the program and at their request, the audience joined with them.

The auditorium, which was formed by throwing the two new classrooms together by moving back the folding partition will accommodate between 150 to 200, but it was not big enough to hold everyone who came to see and hear, this first operetta in the school.

Ancient Norsemen thought that the lights of the aurora were the Valkyries riding their ghostly horses through the sky.

ONCE UPON A CHRISTMAS EVE — By WILLIAM RITT

ESKI'S Let's-All-Help-Find-Santa Claus campaign is led by the little Eskimo child in person, who, with the aid of the snowshoe rabbit sled team, searches the North Pole area from mountain tops. No sign of Santa!

VOLUNTEERS for the L-A-H-F-S-C campaign spring up by the millions in almost every country shown in your geography book. Not even the African jungles or deserts are overlooked. However, there is no sign of Santa!

PEOPLE as far away from the North Pole as those of Upside Down Land, below the Equator, join in the Santa search. All the kangaroos, kiwis and Teddy Bear koalas are checked. The answers are "Santa's not here!"

Welfare Office Able to Care For '58 Needs

The Fayette Count Department of Welfare, while not permitted under state regulations to make special Christmas donations, has been able to take care of all families which have applied for help when their applications have been found to be justified, throughout 1958.

It has funds sufficient to carry on normal relief for these families to the end of this year.

Departments in some Ohio counties have been out of money for some time and have called upon the public to help furnish relief to families during the Christmas season.

Of special help to the Welfare Department here has been $3,000 granted by the trustees of the Eyman Fund this year for clothing for needy children. Use of this fund during the year. Welfare Department officials say, has kept many families off the relief roll.

11 Giant Hangmen Tighten Noose on Cleveland Browns

NEW YORK (AP) — Notre Dame had its Four Horsemen, Fordham its Seven Blocks of Granite. Now we have the 11 Hangmen of the New York football Giants.

The 11 Hangmen who form the defensive unit of the Giants, tightened the noose around the neck of Jimmy Brown Sunday afternoon and sprung the trap on Coach Paul Brown's Cleveland Browns.

Because of their inspired defensive play and the opportunistic offense of Chuck Conerly, Frank Gifford, Alex Webster and Co., the Giants have won the Eastern Conference title of the National Football League.

The 10-0 shutout of Cleveland engineered by Conerly's first touchdown of the season—on a lateral from a double reverse -- and Pat Summerall's 13th field goal, sent the Giants into the championship game next Sunday with the Baltimore Colts.

The title game also will be played at Yankee Stadium, scene of the Giants' two exciting games with the Browns. It will be carried on network television (NBC) with New York and a 75-mile area blacked out.

Once again it as the grudging defense of the 11 hangmen that thrilled the icy crowd of 61,274.

The Giants' four-man defensive line was tremendous. Andy Robustelli and Jim Katcavage at the ends and Rosey Grier and Dick (Little Mo) Modzelewski at the tackles simply wrecked the Cleveland offense. With Sam Huff backing up the middle, taking dead aim at the great Jimmy Brown, and Cliff Livingston and Harland Svare adding their brawn as linebackers, Cleveland made only 24 yards rushing. Jimmy Brown, who set a league record with 1,527 yards in regular season play, was held to eight yards in seven carries.

The alert deep defense of Lindon Crow (he intercepted two), Carl Karilivacz, Jim Patton and Em Tunnell turned in an excellent job when Cleveland's badly rushed passers took to the air. Milt Plum, who was injured in the first half, and Jim Ninowski, completed 10 of 27.

But all the defense in the world wouldn't have helped the Giants if they hadn't been able to score. The only touchdown was a tricky thing on a frozen field, an 18-yard play late in the first period.

Conerly took the ball from center and handed off to Webster coming around from right halfback. Webster gave it to Gifford, reversing from his left halfback spot. Gifford cut through the right side of the line to the 10 and then tossed a basketball-type lateral that carried about 15 or 20 yards to Conerly, who went all the way.

"I don't know when I scored before," said Conerly, the 37-year-old quarterback from Ole Miss who has thrown 144 touchdown passes.

"It was something new we put in this week," said Conerly. "The lateral on the end was optional. I'm out there and he (Gifford) knows I'm there."

The Giants' other points came on Summerall's 26-yard field goal, set up by a 35-yard pass from Conerly to Bob Schnelker.

Jimmy Brown simply was defensed right out of the ballpark, with Huff his particular tormentor.

"That's the end of Brown for this year and am I glad," said Huff as friends crowded around his locker.

In the other clubhouse, Jimmy had no excuses. "They just played even harder than last week, more determined," he said.

Coach Paul Brown, whose Browns were blanked for the first time since 1950 and beaten three times by the same team for the first time in any one season, was generous with praise.

"You saw a fine team today, men," he said. "It was a tough, hard nosed game. We were just overpowered in the line. They had a full head of steam up. We had to pass and it had to be excellent. We weren't excellent."

Coach Jim Lee Howell praised his defensive unit.

"They played the best defensive ball I ever saw a club play against a real good team."

Cleveland's only real threat came in the second half. After recovering Don Maynard's fumble of a punt, they moved to the 4 before the defense ganged up on them. Pushed back to the 16, Plum's pass was intercepted by Huff on the first play of the fourth period.

The action became bitter at times. In one flare-up Mel Triplett, the Giants' fullback, was tossed out of the game for throwing a punch or two after an altercation with Don Colo and Don Paul.

3 Games On Nov. 9 Top 1958 College Grid Thrill List

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

For thrills and drama three games played on the same Saturday—Nov. 9—topped the 1958 college football season.

They were Pittsburgh's 29-26 conquest of Notre Dame, a 60-15 romp by Arkansas against Hardin-Simmons and Army's torrid 14-7 victory over Rice.

The season provided plenty of spectacular and exciting games and incidents for nearly 200 sports writers and broadcasters who named the season's highlights in response to the Associated Press post-season questionnaire. They mentioned about 35 or 40 different occurences.

The Pitt-Notre Dame game, previously picked in the second spot among the season's most outstanding games, drew 18 assorted votes as the most spectacular of the year. The experts figured Ohio State and Iowa had put on a greater over-all performance but it didn't have as many thrills.

It was a beat-the-clock finish of a game that had been exciting from the start that made the struggle between Pitt's Panthers and Notre Dame's Irish so exciting. Pitt led 15-14 at half time after getting the first two touchdowns.

Notre Dame went ahead in the third quarter, but Pitt came back to make it 22-20. In the final period George Izo fired a pass to Bill Mack, who was downed on the Pitt two, then Izo sneaked over to put the Irish ahead 26-22.

The end was near, but the Panthers had time to drive to a first down on the six. There Notre Dame held three times, but on fourth down Pitt's alternate quarterback, Bill Kaliden, went around end behind a screen of blockers and reached the end zone barely in bounds.

There were only 11 seconds left when Kaliden scored and Norton Seaman kicked the point. That was just enough time for Notre Dame to provide a final thrill for 55,000 fans. After the kickoff Izo fired another tremendous pass to Mack, who was pulled down 15 yards from the goal as the game ended.

Two players collaborated in a unique and spectacular performance for Arkansas. In a lopsided game, Jim Mooty took a Hardin-Simmons kickoff in the end zone and ran more than 100 yards for a touchdown. The next time Hardin-Simmons kicked off, Billy Kyser contributed another 100 yard run.

A search of NCAA records failed to show any other occasion when there had been two 100-yard kickoff returns in one game.

Six listed the sensational last-minute pass that brought Army its victory over Rice. It came after the Cadets had stopped a Rice drive on the nine by blocking a field goal try. On the second play, with barely a minute to go, quarterback Joe Caldwell fired a long pass to Capt. Pete Dawkins, who took it on the 35 and headed for the goal. He was spilled 10 yards away, but staggered on to score.

Warriors Win, Bulldogs Lose

Fayette County Cagers Break Even Saturday

The two Fayette County cage teams in action Saturday night broke even against non-league opponents.

Bloomingburg's Bulldogs lost another close one, 55 to 52, at West Jefferson and the Warriors of Madison Mills swamped the boys from Buckskin, at South Salem, 74 to 58.

It was the second game in as many nights for each team. The Bulldogs had whipped the Mad Anthonys 62-56 at Good Hope Friday night and the Warriors had lost to Jeffersonville's Tigers 56-49 on the Bloomingburg floor.

The other three teams in the Fayette County League played their last regularly scheduled games of the year Friday night, but the Tigers and Bulldogs will keep in shape by playing in tournaments duirng the holidays.

The Tigers will go to the one in New Vienna and the Bulldogs the one in Williamsport. The Tigers are booked to play New Vienna on Dec. 27, the opening day, and the Bulldogs drew Williamspport for their first game on Dec. 29.

* * *

Bulldogs on Short End Of Another Close Game

A far 24-point third period wiped out a 25-20 lead Bloomingburg's Bulldogs had taken in a second period surge and gave the cagers at West Jefferson a 55 to 52 victory Saturday night.

It was the seventh defeat in 10 games this season for the Bulldogs and their fifth lost by 4 points or less.

The setback came the night after the Bulldogs had won their third game of the season and taken over second place in the Fayette County League standing. All of the Bloomingburg victories have been over league teams. The only league loss was to Jeffersonville.

Off to a slow start, with a 7-point first period, the Bulldogs came back with 17 points in the second period to take a 5-point lead at the half.

But, the West Jeff scoring machine must have been well oiled during the intermission, because the boys came roaring back with a 24-point third period that put them into a 3-point lead, which they managed to hold to the end during a hectic see-saw last period.

Although West Jeff made 10 more field goals, the Bulldogs kept in the game with 26 of 37 free throws, compared to 9 of 21 for West Jeff.

The Bulldogs hit 13 of 52 shots from the field for a 25 per cent average and West Jeff 23 of 60 for a good 38 per cent average.

Everett Rudolph, Bulldog coach, annalyzing the game and overall performance of the this season said "we are still plagued by too many turnovers and poor shooting from the field. . .if we can improve both of these weaknesses our next step will be up."

Welsh with 18 points, Harris with 12 and Evans with 11 spearheaded the Bloomingburg attack.

The Bloomingburg Reserves won their game, 44 to 35, with Knisley scoring 11, the Ayers brothers 8 apiece and Souther 7. Kenegee led the West Jeff scoring with 13 points.

74-Point Scoring Spree Wins for Madison Mills

Bouncing back from a 56 - 49 defeat handed them Friday night by Jeffersonville's Tigers in a Fayette County League game, the Warriors of Madison Mills went on a 74-point scoring rampage to trounce the boys from Bucksin at South Salem, 74 to 58, on the Good Hope High School floor Saturday night.

Apparently irked by their setback by the Tigers, the Warriors vented their vengence on Buckskin and took a 27-11 lead in the first period and kept increasing it through the next three.

The Warriors showed no weariness in their second game in as many nights and had their floor maneuvers working smoothly.

The Warriors did not take as many shots as they have in some previous games. They made many of their fairly long shots good and those they missed were tipped in by Clarence Henry and Ronnie Ford, who did a fine job of rebounding.

Ford got 8 field goals, either on tip-ins or drives, and Clarence Henry hit 6 field goals on jump shots and rebounds. Efforts of the Buckskin boys to stop them under the basket gave Henry 8 points on free throws and Ford 7 on free throws.

Ron Randolph kept the defense off balance with 7 field goals, nearly all of them on jump shots from about 10 feet out front.

The Warriors, with eagle eyed aim and deadly short shots, connected with around 55 per cent of their shots from the field. They also made 19 of 24 free throws. The Buckskin boys made an amazing 24 of 29 free throws.

Buckskin's Mick, the games leading scorer, with 28 points, got 8 field goals and 12 free throws.

The Madison Mills Reserves won their game, too, by a score of 41 to 31. Larry Williams led the attack with 16 points. Joe Belt was second high with 6. The Madison Mills had a fast break working that the Buckskin boys could not stop.

Finsterwald Leads Ryder Cup Points

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP) — Arnold Palmer, Dow Finsterwald and Bob Rosburg captured top Professional Golfers' Assn. honors in 1958.

Final official figures, released Saturday by the PGA, showed this trio won narrow victories in three major statistical departments.

Palmer, Masters champion from Latrobe, Pa., was the leading money winner with $42,607. Bill Casper Jr., of Chula Vista, Calif., was second with $41,323.

Finsterwald, the PGA's Professional Golfer of the Year, led the Top Ten Tournament player point standings with 1,130 and in Ryder Cup points with 680 19-40.

Aussie Net Chief Shrugs At Yankees

BRISBANE, Australia (AP) — Harry Hopman, Australia's wily Davis Cup captain, saw the United States route Italy in the interzone final over the weekend in Perth, but he was far from impressed.

"Australia should hold the Cup," the veteran tactician said complacently. "No doubt the Americans will improve in the next 10 days, but so will Ashley Cooper and Mal Anderson."

Hopman, who brought the Cup back to Australia in 1951 and has seen it go overseas just once since, began formal preparations for the challenge round next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday by sending his team of Cooper, Anderson, Neale Fraser and Rod Laver through a slight workout.

Perry Jones, 70, U.S. captain, smiled broadly when told of Hopman's optimistic forecast.

Jones may have made up his mind, but to most observers he does have a problem. His No. 1 player, Ham Richardson, has been unimpressive, and could wind up on the sidelines in the challenge round.

Barry MacKay, who substituted for him when the interzone final was decided, licked Italy's Nicola Pietrangeli 6-4, 3-6, 5-7, 8-6, 8-6, in one of the two final singles Sunday. Alex Olmedo Sirola 20-18, 6-1, 6-4 for a 5-0 U.S. sweep.

Brennan Is Fired By Notre Dame

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Terry Brennan, Notre Dame's sixth football coach since the death of Knute Rockne in 1931, was fired Sunday night after a five-year record of 32 victories and 18 defeats.

No definite reason was given for the dismissal other than the action had been recommended to Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, C.S.C., president of Notre Dame, by the faculty board in control of athletics.

Father Hesburgh, who said he accepted the board's recommendation "with great reluctance," gave no indication who would succeed Brennan.

The Associated Press, however, learned that Joe Kuharich, who played for the Irish from 1935-37 and was freshman coach in 1938, will take over. Kuharich, a native of South Bend, is currently head coach of the professional Washington Redskins with whom he recently signed a five-year contract.

Kuharich could not be reached for comment but George Preston Marshall, owner of the Redskins, said "I don't know anything about it — I ought to hear something in the morning."

Other names which popped up included Frank Leahy, Brennan's predecessor; Bernie Crimmins, former Indiana coach and one of Brennan's assistants; Hugh Devore, who coached the Irish in 1945 while Leahy was on military leave and has been a Brennan assistant, and Andy Pilney, Tulane's head coach.

Brennan, 30, who admitted having known of his dismissal for a couple of days, said he did not know whom his successor would be but added "I can only say it will not be someone at Notre Dame."

Brennan said he is not sure what his plans are but "I'd like to remain in coaching. It all happened so fast, I haven't had time to reflect. I'll think about it for a couple of days and decide after that."

Although he experienced only one losing season, Brennan's stay at Notre Dame was turbulent. After a successful tenure with Mt. Carmel High School in Chicago where his teams won an unprecedented three straight city championships, Brenman went to Notre Dame as freshman coach in 1953.

Early in 1954, he was named to succeed Leahy who quit with a record of 87-11-9 — second only to Rockne's 105-12-5.

Because Brennan was only 25 then, there was some rumbling but this died out quickly when Notre Dame finished with a 9-1 record, losing only to Purdue. In 1955, Notre Dame had a respectable 8-2 record.

Then came what actually started Brennan's downfall. Notre Dame completed the 1956 season with two victories and eight defeats.

The wolves were howling but Brennan bounced back in 1957 with a 7-3 which included victories over Army and Oklahoma. With the entire squad back this year great things were expected. However, the Irish lost to Army, Purdue, Pitt and Iowa and finished with a 6-4 record.

Brennan-Firing Irks Irish Players

SANTA CLARA, Calif. (AP)—"I think it's a pretty rotten thing," Notre Dame fullback Nick Pietrosante said Sunday night about the firing of his coach, Terry Brennan.

"I don't think the firing was called for," Irish guard Al Ecuyer added.

Both are training with the East team for the annual Shrine East-West game Saturday at Kezar Stadium in San Francisco.

"They don't know what they did to themselves," Pietrosante continued. "They shouldn't have done it. They didn't give him any of the breaks. They expect too much of a team that has to play a schedule like ours."

The combined state police forces in the United States today total almost 22,000 men.

Holiday Cage Tourneys Due In Offing

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The holiday tournament, college basketball's cash-lined yearend showcase, progresses from the hectic to the frantic stage this week.

No fewer than a dozen major tournaments involving some 75 of the nation's big teams will be under way within the next eight days.

Three big ones over the past weekend established Kentucky, North Carolina and Auburn as bonafide members of the nation's elite.

Kentucky, defending NCAA champ, ran its record to 8-0 and 13-0 stretching back to last year, by sweeping past Ohio State 95-76 and then West Virginia, 97-91, in the Kentucky Invitation Tournament at Lexington.

North Carolina, back to the top after a hasty rebuilding job by Frank McGuire, bagged the Blue Grass Tournament title in Louisville, clipping previous unbeaten Northwestern in the final, 78-64.

Auburn, building a basketball reputation as formidable as its football prowess, boosted its winning streak to 16, tops of the big schools, with a 79-60 victory over Alabama in the Birmingham Classic final.

11 Giant Hangmen Tighten Noose on Cleveland Browns

NEW YORK (AP) — Notre Dame had its Four Horsemen, Fordham its Seven Blocks of Granite. Now we have the 11 Hangmen of the New York football Giants.

The 11 Hangmen who form the defensive unit of the Giants, tightened the noose around the neck of Jimmy Brown Sunday afternoon and sprung the trap on Coach Paul Brown's Cleveland Browns.

Because of their inspired defensive play and the opportunistic offense of Chuck Conerly, Frank Gifford, Alex Webster and Co., the Giants have won the Eastern Conference title of the National Football League.

The 10-0 shutout of Cleveland engineered by Conerly's first touchdown of the season—on a lateral from a double reverse -- and Pat Summerall's 13th field goal, sent the Giants into the championship game next Sunday with the Baltimore Colts.

The title game also will be played at Yankee Stadium, scene of the Giants' two exciting games with the Browns. It will be carried on network television (NBC) with New York and a 75-mile area blacked out.

Once again it as the grudging defense of the 11 hangmen that thrilled the icy crowd of 61,274.

The Giants' four-man defensive line was tremendous. Andy Robustelli and Jim Katcavage at the ends and Rosey Grier and Dick (Little Mo) Modzelewski at the tackles simply wrecked the Cleveland offense. With Sam Huff backing up the middle, taking dead aim at the great Jimmy Brown, and Cliff Livingston and Harland Svare adding their brawn as linebackers, Cleveland made only 24 yards rushing. Jimmy Brown, who set a league record with 1,527 yards in regular season play, was held to eight yards in seven carries.

The alert deep defense of Lindon Crow (he intercepted two), Carl Karilivacz, Jim Patton and Em Tunnell turned in an excellent job when Cleveland's badly rushed passers took to the air. Milt Plum, who was injured in the first half, and Jim Ninowski, completed 10 of 27.

But all the defense in the world wouldn't have helped the Giants if they hadn't been able to score. The only touchdown was a tricky thing on a frozen field, an 18-yard play late in the first period.

Conerly took the ball from center and handed off to Webster coming around from right halfback. Webster gave it to Gifford, reversing from his left halfback spot. Gifford cut through the right side of the line to the 10 and then tossed a basketball-type lateral that carried about 15 or 20 yards to Conerly, who went all the way.

"I don't know when I scored before," said Conerly, the 37-year-old quarterback from Ole Miss who has thrown 144 touchdown passes.

"It was something new we put in this week," said Conerly. "The lateral on the end was optional. I'm out there and he (Gifford) knows I'm there."

The Giants' other points came on Summerall's 26-yard field goal, set up by a 35-yard pass from Conerly to Bob Schnelker.

Jimmy Brown simply was defensed right out of the ballpark, with Huff his particular tormentor.

"That's the end of Brown for this year and am I glad," said Huff as friends crowded around his locker.

In the other clubhouse, Jimmy had no excuses. "They just played even harder than last week, more determined," he said.

Coach Paul Brown, whose Browns were blanked for the first time since 1950 and beaten three times by the same team for the first time in any one season, was generous with praise.

"You saw a fine team today, men," he said. "It was a tough, hard nosed game. We were just overpowered in the line. They had a full head of steam up. We had to pass and it had to be excellent. We weren't excellent."

Coach Jim Lee Howell praised his defensive unit.

"They played the best defensive ball I ever saw a club play against a real good team."

Cleveland's only real threat came in the second half. After recovering Don Maynard's fumble of a punt, they moved to the 4 before the defense ganged up on them. Pushed back to the 16, Plum's pass was intercepted by Huff on the first play of the fourth period.

The action became bitter at times. In one flare-up Mel Triplett, the Giants' fullback, was tossed out of the game for throwing a punch or two after an altercation with Don Colo and Don Paul.

3 Games On Nov. 9 Top 1958 College Grid Thrill List

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

For thrills and drama three games played on the same Saturday—Nov. 9—topped the 1958 college football season.

They were Pittsburgh's 29-26 conquest of Notre Dame, a 60-15 romp by Arkansas against Hardin-Simmons and Army's torrid 14-7 victory over Rice.

The season provided plenty of spectacular and exciting games and incidents for nearly 200 sports writers and broadcasters who named the season's highlights in response to the Associated Press post-season questionnaire. They mentioned about 35 or 40 different occurences.

The Pitt-Notre Dame game, previously picked in the second spot among the season's most outstanding games, drew 18 assorted votes as the most spectacular of the year. The experts figured Ohio State and Iowa had put on a greater over-all performance but it didn't have as many thrills.

It was a beat-the-clock finish of a game that had been exciting from the start that made the struggle between Pitt's Panthers and Notre Dame's Irish so exciting. Pitt led 15-14 at half time after getting the first two touchdowns.

Notre Dame went ahead in the third quarter, but Pitt came back to make it 22-20. In the final period George Izo fired a pass to Bill Mack, who was downed on the Pitt two, then Izo sneaked over to put the Irish ahead 26-22.

The end was near, but the Panthers had time to drive to a first down on the six. There Notre Dame held three times, but on fourth down Pitt's alternate quarterback, Bill Kaliden, went around end behind a screen of blockers and reached the end zone barely in bounds.

There were only 11 seconds left when Kaliden scored and Norton Seaman kicked the point. That was just enough time for Notre Dame to provide a final thrill for 55,000 fans. After the kickoff Izo fired another tremendous pass to Mack, who was pulled down 15 yards from the goal as the game ended.

Two players collaborated in a unique and spectacular performance for Arkansas. In a lopsided game, Jim Mooty took a Hardin-Simmons kickoff in the end zone and ran more than 100 yards for a touchdown. The next time Hardin-Simmons kicked off, Billy Kyser contributed another 100 yard run.

A search of NCAA records failed to show any other occasion when there had been two 100-yard kickoff returns in one game.

Six listed the sensational last-minute pass that brought Army its victory over Rice. It came after the Cadets had stopped a Rice drive on the nine by blocking a field goal try. On the second play, with barely a minute to go, quarterback Joe Caldwell fired a long pass to Capt. Pete Dawkins, who took it on the 35 and headed for the goal. He was spilled 10 yards away, but staggered on to score.

Warriors Win, Bulldogs Lose

Fayette County Cagers Break Even Saturday

The two Fayette County cage teams in action Saturday night broke even against non-league opponents.

Bloomingburg's Bulldogs lost another close one, 55 to 52, at West Jefferson and the Warriors of Madison Mills swamped the boys from Buckskin, at South Salem, 74 to 58.

It was the second game in as many nights for each team. The Bulldogs had whipped the Mad Anthonys 62-56 at Good Hope Friday night and the Warriors had lost to Jeffersonville's Tigers 56-49 on the Bloomingburg floor.

The other three teams in the Fayette County League played their last regularly scheduled games of the year Friday night, but the Tigers and Bulldogs will keep in shape by playing in tournaments duirng the holidays.

The Tigers will go to the one in New Vienna and the Bulldogs the one in Williamsport. The Tigers are booked to play New Vienna on Dec. 27, the opening day, and the Bulldogs drew Williamspport for their first game on Dec. 29.

Bulldogs on Short End Of Another Close Game

A far 24-point third period wiped out a 25-20 lead Bloomingburg's Bulldogs had taken in a second period surge and gave the cagers at West Jefferson a 55 to 52 victory Saturday night.

It was the seventh defeat in 10 games this season for the Bulldogs and their fifth lost by 4 points or less.

The setback came the night after the Bulldogs had won their third game of the season and taken over second place in the Fayette County League standing. All of the Bloomingburg victories have been over league teams. The only league loss was to Jeffersonville.

Off to a slow start, with a 7-point first period, the Bulldogs came back with 17 points in the second period to take a 5-point lead at the half.

But, the West Jeff scoring machine must have been well oiled during the intermission, because the boys came roaring back with a 24-point third period that put them into a 3-point lead, which they managed to hold to the end during a hectic see-saw last period.

Although West Jeff made 10 more field goals, the Bulldogs kept in the game with 26 of 37 free throws, compared to 9 of 21 for West Jeff.

The Bulldogs hit 13 of 52 shots from the field for a 25 per cent average and West Jeff 23 of 60 for a good 38 per cent average.

Everett Rudolph, Bulldog coach, annalyzing the game and overall performance of the this season said "we are still plagued by too many turnovers and poor shooting from the field. . .if we can improve both of these weaknesses our next step will be up."

Welsh with 18 points, Harris with 12 and Evans with 11 spearheaded the Bloomingburg attack.

The Bloomingburg Reserves won their game, 44 to 35, with Knisley scoring 11, the Ayers brothers 8 apiece and Souther 7. Kenegee led the West Jeff scoring with 13 points.

Telephone Booth--Here's Fascinating Story Behind It

Impatient callers await their turn outside Grand Central terminal phone booth No. 17 (arrow), the world's busiest.

By JAMES H. WINCHESTER
Central Press Assn.

NEW YORK — At the east end of New York City's Grand Central terminal's upper level rotunda, between a newsreel theater and a toy shop, stand three rows of coin-operated telephones. Each booth is numbered.

At the open end of the south row is Booth No. 17. It is the busiest pay phone in the United States, which almost automatically makes it the mot used booth in the world.

"For years," says a telephone company spokesman, "the legend has existed that the busiest phone in town was one located in a Times Square drugstore.

"Our engineers have established that pay booths in Grand Central terminal are used more often than any other group in the city.

"Of the Grand Central locations, Booth No. 17 is the busiest of the lot. It's just never empty. A careful check shows that more than 250 persons use this booth every day. That works out to one call nearly every five minutes, around the clock."

Coin operated telephones and telephone booths have been an integral part of the American scene since the first one — a cumbresome affair called an 'automatic pay station',, complete with slots for nickels, dimes, quarters, half-dollars and "cartwheel" silver dollars — was installed in New York City's Barclay street ferryhouse in 1890.

Today, in New York City alone some 3,500,000 calls are placed daily through 60,000 coinoperated public telephones.

* * *

ALTHOUGH they don't encourage it, telephone companies, if pressed, will install a booth right in your own apartment. In New York City there are 30 or 40 such individual installations.

Phone companies, always on the alert for new locations, have even installed booths aboard several of the larger transatlantic liners. When the ships dock, lines are run ashore and hooked to permanent connections on the pier.

Petty racketeers who use slugs or plug up the slots of pay phones with paper napkins to prevent coins from falling back into the return slot are a nuisance, more than a problem, say telephone company detectives, the ratio of loss in New York City being less than one-fifth of one per cent of total revenues.

Two of the nation's most notorious gang-style murders, however, were committed in telephone booths: the Vincent (Mad Dog) Coll shooting a number of years ago and the more recent Luyre slaying in New York City's crowded garment-manufacturing district.

* * *

COLLECTORS, making their round to pick up coin boxes, have on occasion fund bodies of corpses, persons who died of natural causes, in booths. Incidentally, these collectors never see the color of the nickels, dimes and quarters.

The money drops into a burglar-proof, steel box, which is sealed. This box is removed and a new one inserted. The sealed box is then taken to a district office before being opened.

Although gold coins have been illegal for a long time, phone companies still get hundreds of frantic calls a year from men or women who have dropped gold pieces in the phone slots by mistake.

A $5 gold piece is the size of a nickel; a $2½ gold piece is the size of a dime.

Upon receipt of such calls the companies usually trot a man right over to retrieve the coin. "It's good public relations", they say. "We give them back their gold piece and we've made a friend for life."

* * *

THE PHONE PEOPLE, though, take a less benevolent attitude toward those who use their booths for offices. They don't mind a man who has his office in his hat making all the calls he wants out of any of their booths. His dime is as good as that of the next man.

However, they draw the line when someone prints up cards with a phone booth number on it and starts receiving all his incoming calls free of charge.

A classic example along this line concerned a lawyer, a real hustler, who worked out of New York City's Penn station.

He kept a portable typewriter and all his files in three dime lockers situated next to a bank of pay phones.

His business card listed three telephone booth numbers. "He was a real operator," says a phone company investigator. "We almost hated to put him out of business."

Today's deluxe telephone booths, equipped with armed swivel chairs, writing shelves, pads and pencils, automatic electric fans and electric lights, are a far cry from the first early attempts to make a successful coin-telephone.

An "automatic pay station" was the goal of inventors almost from the day Alexander Graham Bell took out his first patent.

* * *

MOST OF THESE early attempts to provide public pay stations made the telephone or some part of it inaccessible to use until unlocked by deposit of a coin.

For example, the coin unlocked the crank with which the user signaled the operator; or it unlocked a sliding door in front of the mouthpiece, or the entire telephone was enclosed in a box.

One inventor reversed the usual order: the telephone was located in a booth having a door which locked behind the user when he stepped inside.

After he has made his call he could escape only by depositing a coin in the door lock!

A fundamental defect of these early coin telphones was that, if the call was not completed, there was no mechanical means of giving the customer his money back.

* * *

THE FORERUNNER of the coin-in-the-slot telephone, as we know it now, was patented in 1888 by William Gray. The story is that he got a new son and the idea for a public coin telephone on the same night.

Frantically hunting for a doctor to attend his wife he made several attempts to borrow a nearby business telephone before he succeeded in convincing the owner of the urgency of his call.

From that time on he devoted his energies to the development of a practical telephone pay station which would be the servant of anyone with a coin.

AFTER SANTA CLAUS, the next VIP visitor to the U. S. will be Anastas Mikoyan (above), sociable Kremlinite, trade expert and intimate of Soviet boss Nikita Khrushchev. Early in January, the schedule is. And why? Some observers think the Soviet aim is to try to bring about a face-to-face conference between Khrushchev and President Eisenhower.

Knicks File Protest on Own Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The St. Louis Hawks keep winning and the Philadelphia Warriors keep losing. But there's a new wrinkle in the National Basketball Assn. today.

The New York Knickerbockers are officially protesting a game they won.

As the Knicks began Sunday's nationally televised game with Syracuse at Madison Square Garden, they noted than Dan Biasone, Syracuse president and general manager, was sitting on the Nats' bench.

They made the official protest at the opening tap-off and kept it in effect despite their subsequent 108-94 victory. The knicks say NBA rules prohibit the presence of anyone but coach, players and trainers on the bench.

Ken Sears and Willie Naulls made the difference for New York. Naulls scored 26 points and Sears 23. Syracuse's Dolph Schayes, the all-time high scorer of the NBA, set a career field goal mark of 4,099 by hitting six. George Mikan, the former Minneapolis ace, held the record of 4,097.

St. Louis, stretching its Western Division lead to six games over idle Detroit, whipped Philadelphia 98-86 in Sunday's other game. It was the Hawks' fourth straight victory.

Philadelphia, in last place in the Eastern Division, lost its seventh in a row. The Hawks' Clyde Lovellette was high with 27 points.

The Sunday victory left the Knicks two games behind first place Boston in the Eastern Division after Saturday's 135-106 drubbing by the Clets. Syracuse lost 121-120 in overtime to Cincinnati Saturday.

In other Saturday games, the Hawks took Detroit 111-104 and Minneapolis added to the Warriors' woes by beating Philadelphia 99-88.

Greatest single cause of death between five and 20 is rheumatic fever.

Telephone Booth--Here's Fascinating Story Behind It

Impatient callers await their turn outside Grand Central terminal phone booth No. 17 (arrow), the world's busiest.

By JAMES H. WINCHESTER
Central Press Assn.

NEW YORK — At the east end of New York City's Grand Central terminal's upper level rotunda, between a newsreel theater and a toy shop, stand three rows of coin-operated telephones. Each booth is numbered.

At the open end of the south row is Booth No. 17. It is the busiest pay phone in the United States, which almost automatically makes it the mot used booth in the world.

"For years," says a telephone company spokesman, "the legend has existed that the busiest phone in town was one located in a Times Square drugstore.

"Our engineers have established that pay booths in Grand Central terminal are used more often than any other group in the city.

"Of the Grand Central locations, Booth No. 17 is the busiest of the lot. It's just never empty. A careful check shows that more than 250 persons use this booth every day. That works out to one call nearly every five minutes, around the clock."

Coin operated telephones and telephone booths have been an integral part of the American scene since the first one — a cumbresome affair called an 'automatic pay station',, complete with slots for nickels, dimes, quarters, half-dollars and "cartwheel" silver dollars — was installed in New York City's Barclay street ferryhouse in 1890.

Today, in New York City alone some 3,500,000 calls are placed daily through 60,000 coinoperated public telephones.

* * *

ALTHOUGH they don't encourage it, telephone companies, if pressed, will install a booth right in your own apartment. In New York City there are 30 or 40 such individual installations.

Phone companies, always on the alert for new locations, have even installed booths aboard several of the larger transtlantic liners. When the ships dock, lines are run ashore and hooked to permanent connections on the pier.

Petty racketeers who use slugs or plug up the slots of pay phones with paper napkins to prevent coins from falling back into the return slot are a nuisance, more than a problem, say telephone company detectives, the ratio of loss in New York City being less than one-fifth of one per cent of total revenues.

Two of the nation's most notorious gang-style murders, however, were committed in telephone booths: the Vincent (Mad Dog) Coll shooting a number of years ago and the more recent Luyre slaying in New York City's crowded garment-manufacturing district.

* * *

COLLECTORS, making their round to pick up coin boxes, have on occasion fund bodies of corpses, persons who died of natural causes, in booths. Incidentally, these collectors never see the color of the nickels, dimes and quarters.

The money drops into a burglar-proof, steel box, which is sealed. This box is removed and a new one inserted. The sealed box is then taken to a district office before being opened.

Although gold coins have been illegal for a long time, phone companies still get hundreds of frantic calls a year from men or women who have dropped gold pieces in the phone slots by mistake.

A $5 gold piece is the size of a nickel; a $2½ gold piece is the size of a dime.

Upon receipt of such calls the companies usually trot a man right over to retrieve the coin. "It's good public relations", they say. "We give them back their gold piece and we've made a friend for life."

* * *

THE PHONE PEOPLE, though, take a less benevolent attitude toward those who use their booths for offices. They don't mind a man who has his office in his hat making all the calls he wants out of any of their booths. His dime is as good as that of the next man.

However, they draw the line when someone prints up cards with a phone booth number on it and starts receiving all his incoming calls free of charge.

A classic example along this line concerned a lawyer, a real hustler, who worked out of New York City's Penn station.

He kept a portable typewriter and all his files in three dime lockers situated next to a bank of pay phones.

His business card listed three telephone booth numbers. "He was a real operator," says a phone company investigator. "We almost hated to put him out of business."

Today's deluxe telephone booths, equipped with armed swivel chairs, writing shelves, pads and pencils, automatic electric fans and electric lights, are a far cry from the first early attempts to make a successful coin-telephone.

An "automatic pay station" was the goal of inventors almost from the day Alexander Graham Bell took out his first patent.

* * *

MOST OF THESE early attempts to provide public pay stations made the telephone or some part of it inaccessible to use until unlocked by deposit of a coin.

For example, the coin unlocked the crank with which the user signaled the operator; or it unlocked a sliding door in front of the mouthpiece, or the entire telephone was enclosed in a box.

One inventor reversed the usual order: the telephone was located in a booth having a door which locked behind the user when he stepped inside.

After he has made his call he could escape only by depositing a coin in the door lock!

A fundamental defect of these early coin telphones was that, if the call was not completed, there was no mechanical means of giving the customer his money back.

* * *

THE FORERUNNER of the coin-in-the-slot telephone, as we know it now, was patented in 1888 by William Gray. The story is that he got a new son and the idea for a public coin telephone on the same night.

Frantically hunting for a doctor to attend his wife he made several attempts to borrow a nearby business telephone before he succeeded in convincing the owner of the urgency of his call.

From that time on he devoted his energies to the development of a practical telephone pay station which would be the servant of anyone with a coin.

AFTER SANTA CLAUS, the next VIP visitor to the U. S. will be Anastas Mikoyan (above), sociable Kremlinite, trade expert and intimate of Soviet boss Nikita Khrushchev. Early in January, the schedule is. And why? Some observers think the Soviet aim is to try to bring about a face-to-face conference between Khrushchev and President Eisenhower.

Knicks File Protest on Own Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The St. Louis Hawks keep winning and the Philadelphia Warriors keep losing. But there's a new wrinkle in the National Basketball Assn. today.

The New York Knickerbockers are officially protesting a game they won.

As the Knicks began Sunday's nationally televised game with Syracuse at Madison Square Garden, they noted than Dan Biasone, Syracuse president and general manager, was sitting on the Nats' bench.

They made the official protest at the opening tap-off and kept it in effect despite their subsequent 108-94 victory. The knicks say NBA rules prohibit the presence of anyone but coach, players and trainers on the bench.

Ken Sears and Willie Naulls made the difference for New York. Naulls scored 26 points and Sears 23. Syracuse's Dolph Schayes, the all-time high scorer of the NBA, set a career field goal mark of 4,099 by hitting six. George Mikan, the former Minneapolis ace, held the record of 4,097.

St. Louis, stretching its Western Division lead to six games over idle Detroit, whipped Philadelphia 98-86 in Sunday's other game. It was the Hawks' fourth straight victory.

Philadelphia, in last place in the Eastern Division, lost its seventh in a row. The Hawks' Clyde Lovellette was high with 27 points.

The Sunday victory left the Knicks two games behind first place Boston in the Eastern Division after Saturday's 135-106 drubbing by the Clets. Syracuse lost 121-120 in overtime to Cincinnati Saturday.

In other Saturday games, the Hawks took Detroit 111-104 and Minneapolis added to the Warriors' woes by beating Philadelphia 99-88.

Greatest single cause of death between five and 20 is rheumatic fever.

Only two more shopping days till Christmas, so better hurry up.

We attended the operetta at Eastside school last week. Those kids really did fine. Of course the fact that a couple of grandchildren, Chris & Donald Wayne Bowere were in the show made it all the more interesting. They played to two full houses, including standing room.

Eastside school is certainly a fine addition to our school system, and I want to congratulate Mr. Miller, the principal, Mrs. George Pensyl who handled the musical part and all the teachers and kids, for the smooth way the show went on.

It's amazing how a person sort of gets used to cold weather. When it's zero or below for several days then goes up to 20 degrees it really seems warm.

HAVE YOU HEARD? - A nice juicy HAM with each used car over one hundred ($100) at Brandenburg's.

We have a fine selection of various makes - Chevrolets, Buicks, Fords, Olds. etc. Come in today and check our pre-Christmas deals, you'll be glad you did!

Ever hear the one about the little boy who never said a word for the first four years. Suddenly, one morning soon after his fourth birthday, he said to his mother: "I'd like some sugar in my cocoa", the startled mother gasped: "You Can Talk!" But why did you wait four years before saying a word? The boy explained: "Up till now everything's been alright."

Dec. 20-Jan. 20 Tax Collection Period Approved

Books Now Open; County Treasurer Mailing Out Bills

At the request of County Treasurer Charles Fabb, the Fayette County Board of Commissioners at their Monday meeting passed a resolution extending the present tax collection period from Dec. 20 to Jan. 20.

Fabb reported that the tax books are now open for collection of the 1958 tax, and the mailing of realty property tax bills to all taxpayers of the county is now in process.

Those who have not yet received bills will get them within the next few days.

* * *

ANIMAL CLAIMS to the amount of approximately $750, filed by 24 owners of sheep lost through attacks by dogs, were allowed by the commissioners and approved at their Monday meeting.

These claims are paid from the county's dog and kennel fund derived from payment of dog licenses now on sale.

The commissioners passed a resolution, directed to the State Highway Department, stating that an investigation of conditions at the Harrison Rd. crossing of the B&O railway at Madison Mills, is regarded as a definite traffic hazard. The installation of warning flasher lights is urgently requested, the cost to be paid through federal and state aid funds.

* * *

COURTHOUSE offices will be closed Wednesday afternoon in anticipation of the Christmas holiday Thursday. A resolution to that effect was passed at Monday's meeting of the board coupled with the announcement that all offices would be open for business as usual Friday morning.

Approval of bills and a few routine matters made up the only other business before the commissioners at Monday's meeting.

Well-Shooting Work Delayed For Few Days

The need for additional preliminary work before the gas well on the Barnes land, a half mile southeast of Milledgeville, is shot, has postponed the explosive test for several days. The shooting operation may be delayed for a week or 10 days, it was indicated Monday.

Meanwhile the outfit used in cleaning out the well was moved elsewhere Monday, and the well was capped.

Escaping gas from the well, before the cap was applied, kept the water violently agitated as gas came up through approximately 1,400 feet of water. This seems to clearly indicate the pressure coming from the small fissure struck by the drill.

* * *

WHEN THE WELL is shot and the stone shattered for a considerable distance at the point of the gas pocket, the flow is expected to be greatly augmented.

In the meantime the drilling outfit in Pickaway County has been closed down until after the holidays and the drillers have gone to their homes in Oklahoma for over Christmas.

Difficulty has been encountered in the Pickaway County well, near Five Points.

The drill has struck caverns in the rock and the drilling fluid is being lost in the fissures.

It has been necessary to use cement in blocking off the fissure so that drilling can be resumed.

Mexican Bus Plunges, 70 Die

OAXACA, Mexico (AP) — A speeding bus plunged into a ravine near here, killing 70 persons Sunday in one of Mexico's worst highway accidents.

The only two survivors were critically injured.

The bus was crammed with villagers returning to San Dionisio from Sunday market day at nearby Tlacolula. It had a legal capacity of 40, but people were riding on top and on the rear bumper and hanging from the doors.

The driver apparently lost control on a curve and ran off the road.

King John VI of Portugal once had his court in Brazil. He moved the court there when Napoleon's armies occupied his country.

Driver's Fines Total $241.70

Scioto Man Jailed On One of 3 Counts

A Scioto County man was fined $241.70 and jailed for three days in Municipal Court Monday after he pleaded guilty to charges of driving while drunk, driving without an operator's license and failure to stop for a red light.

Wesley Wright, 40, of Otway paid $200 and costs on the first charge, $10 and costs on the second $5 and costs on the third and lost his right to obtain a license in the state for one year.

Harold W. Mongold, Bloomingburg, pleaded guilty to reckless operation and resisting a police officer and was fined $25 and cost on each count.

Leo E. Dyke, address unlisted, paid $5 and costs for parking on a highway and four other men forfeited bonds in other traffic cases.

Harvey C. Vetten, Milwaukee, and Robert L. German, CCC Highway, forfeited $20 for reckless operation.

Walter R. Cherry, Leesburg, and Roger Whitley, 101½ W. Court St., both forfeited $15, the first for stopping for a red light and the latter for failure to yield the right-of-way.

Hearing Continued For Youth Held in Beating of Sister

Hearing for a 17 - year - old Washington C. H. youth, who was cited to Juvenile Court after he allegedly beat his sister, has been continued until next Saturday, Probate - Juvenile Judge Robert L. Brubaker said Monday.

The girl, 15, was admitted to Memorial Hospital last Sunday with two black eyes and other injuries.

A 21-year-old brother, who was charged with disorderly conduct and interfering with an officer during an investigation of the incident, will appear in Municipal Court Tuesday.

The girl has since been released from the hospital.

Holiday Songfest Is Friday Night

Plans for the traditional "holiday songfest" at 7:30 p. m. Friday at the Roy Wipert home on the CCC Highway, west, were just about complete Monday, Mrs. Wipert said.

This one, Mrs. Wipert said, will "give us one last fling with Christmas music" but it also will include songs that were popular during the first 14 years of the present century.

A special guest, Dale Summers of Columbus, an organist, is expected to be there to play some request numbers.

Mrs. Wipert emphasized that "everyone is welcome."

Following the singing, "finger food will be served. "Finger food,' 'Mrs. Wipert explained, is food that can be eaten with fingers, and without benefit of knife, fork or spoon. Most of it is brought in by the regular songfesters.

Some fish can change their color rapidly.

French Boost DeGaulle Power

Presidency Is Voted By Huge Majority

PARIS (AP)—Premier Charles de Gaulle's bandwagon rolled on in France Sunday with his third personal voting victory. As expected, members of the Electoral College overwhelmingly elected him the first president of the Fifth Republic.

The wartime hero, 68, who stepped aside as premier in 1946 rather than play second fiddle to the National Assembly, now can assume the presidency for a seven-year term with greatly increased powers. He will take over the office from Rene Coty, 76, Jan. 8.

The "rule by Assembly" of the Fourth Republic collapsed just as de Gaulle had predicted. Under special powers granted him to reform the French state after the revolt last May, de Gaulle wrote a new constitution with a strong executive.

His first victory came when the new constitution was approved by an 80 per cent vote in a September election.

In November, a new National Assembly was elected with a preponderance of de Gaulle followers.

In Sunday's presidential election de Gaulle got 78.5 per cent of the valid ballots of the grand electors, an Electoral College representing the French mainland and overseas territories.

De Gaulle did not vote or take part in the election. As premier he did not belong to any category of the grand electors, made up of mayors, municipal and county councillors, Parliament members and a few plain citizens.

Of 79,468 valid ballots, complete returns gave de Gaulle 62,292.

The two token opposition candidates ran far behind. Communist Georges Marrange, 70, mayor of the Paris suburb of Ivry, received 10,354 votes. Albert Chatelet, 75, a University of Paris dean and candidate of the non-Communist opposition to de Gaulle, got 6,722.

2 Big Airlines Grounded by Labor Fusses

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A thick fog of labor troubles hung over holiday air travel today.

Strikes kept the giant fleets of American Airlines and Eastern Air Lines on the ground during the peak season of air travel.

Tens of thousands of passengers continued to scramble for alternate accommodations as Christmas approached.

Railroads and buses, already loaded with holiday travelers, reported a land office business. Long waiting lists formed at other airlines.

Piles of Christmas mail were diverted to other carriers.

A pilots' walkout at midnight Friday grounded American. Eastern had been idled since Nov. 24 by a strike of mechanics and flight enginers.

A breakthrough in deadlocked contract negotiations does not appear likely soon.

An American spokesman said no arrangements have been made for a resumption of talks between the company and the striking Air Lines Pilots Assn. A union spokesman and a federal mediator have predicted the strike will be a long one.

American notified 20,000 nonstriking employes Sunday night they will be placed on emergency leave, without pay, after Jan. 4 if the strike goes beyond that date.

Eastern's mechanics voted Friday night in Miami, Fla., on proposals offered by the company. They are withholding the results pending a company settlement with the engineers.

The Rev. Jerry Snyder Ordained In Ceremonies Here Sunday

The Rev. Jerry A. Snyder became an ordained minister of the Presbyterian Church at ceremonies held at 3 p. m. Sunday in McNair Memorial Presbyterian Church, Lewis St., here.

The Rev. Mr. Snyder has been serving the McNair and Bloomingburg Presbyterian church as the regular ordained minster of both churches as a part of the ordination ceremonies Sunday.

The Rev. and Mrs. Snyder have been living in Bloomingburg while he conducted, and will conduct in the future, the services in both churches.

Seven ministers took part in the ordination service, with the Rev. Donald Mitchell of Columbus, the acting moderator of the Columbus Presbytery, administering the order of ordination as the climax of the ceremonies.

The Rev. John Quick of Columbus read the Scripture; the Rev. Willis Craft, a retired minister who lives in Gardner Village here, offered the prayer of invocation; the Rev. David Nawyn of Sedalia read the New Testament lesson and the Rev. John Wiggins of Breman, delivered the ordination sermon.

Following the ceremony of the "laying on of hands" on the head of the new minister by the seven participating ministers following the order of ordination, the Rev. David Erb of Reynoldsburg delivered the charge to the new minister and the Rev. W. Neil Hand, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Washington C. H., delivered the charge to the congregation.

The charge to the Rev. Mr. Snyder pointed out his responsibilities as a minister of the Presbyterian Church and the charge by the Rev. Mr. Hand emphasized the responsibilites of the congregation.

Preceding the ceremonies, the elders, deacons and trustees of the McNair and Bloomingburg churches joined the seven ministers for the processional from the rear of the church to their places reserved for them in front of the altar.

The combined choirs of the two churches sang the anthems as a part of the regular worship service.

Following the ordination of the Rev. Mr. Snyder, he and Mrs. Snyder and their parents and Mrs. Frank Dellinger, representing the McNair Church, and Arthur Engle, representing the Bloomingburg Church, formed a receiving line for the congregation on its way to the basement where refreshments were served.

Dec. 20-Jan. 20 Tax Collection Period Approved

Books Now Open; County Treasurer Mailing Out Bills

At the request of County Treasurer Charles Fabb, the Fayette County Board of Commissioners at their Monday meeting passed a resolution extending the present tax collection period from Dec. 20 to Jan. 20.

Fabb reported that the tax books are now open for collection of the 1958 tax, and the mailing of realty property tax bills to all taxpayers of the county is now in process.

Those who have not yet received bills will get them within the next few days.

* * *

ANIMAL CLAIMS to the amount of approximately $750, filed by 24 owners of sheep lost through attacks by dogs, were allowed by the commissioners and approved at their Monday meeting.

These claims are paid from the county's dog and kennel fund derived from payment of dog licenses now on sale.

The commissioners passed a resolution, directed to the State Highway Department, stating that an investigation of conditions at the Harrison Rd. crossing of the B&O railway at Madison Mills, is regarded as a definite traffic hazzard. The installation of warning flasher lights is urgently requested, the cost to be paid through federal and state aid funds.

* * *

COURTHOUSE offices will be closed Wednesday afternoon in anticipation of the Christmas holiday Thursday. A resolution to that effect was passed at Monday's meeting of the board coupled with the announcement that all offices would be open for business as usual Friday morning.

Approval of bills and a few routine matters made up the only other business before the commissioners at Monday's meeting.

Well-Shooting Work Delayed For Few Days

The need for additional preliminary work before the gas well on the Barnes land, a half mile southeast of Milledgeville, is shot, has postponed the explosive test for several days. The shooting operation may be delayed for a week or 10 days, it was indicated Monday.

Meanwhile the outfit used in cleaning out the well was moved elsewhere Monday, and the well was capped.

Escaping gas from the well, before the cap was applied, kept the water violently agitated as gas came up through approximately 1,400 feet of water. This seems to clearly indicate the pressure coming from the small fissure struck by the drill.

* * *

WHEN THE WELL is shot and the stone shattered for a considerable distance at the point of the gas pocket, the flow is expected to be greatly augmented.

In the meantime the drilling outfit in Pickaway County has been closed down until after the holidays and the drillers have gone to their homes in Oklahoma for over Christmas.

Difficulty has been encountered in the Pickaway County well, near Five Points.

The drill has struck caverns in the rock and the drilling fluid is being lost in the fissures.

It has been necessary to use cement in blocking off the fissure so that drilling can be resumed.

Mexican Bus Plunges, 70 Die

OAXACA, Mexico (AP) — A speeding bus plunged into a ravine near here, killing 70 persons Sunday in one of Mexico's worst highway accidents.

The only two survivors were critically injured.

The bus was crammed with villagers returning to San Dionisio from Sunday market day at nearby Tlacolula. It had a legal capacity of 40, but people were riding on top and on the rear bumper and hanging from the doors.

The driver apparently lost control on a curve and ran off the road.
